1968 . . . Year Of Enthusiasm

1968 . . . a punched IBM registration card . . . early morning practices . . . pep assemblies . . . football games . . . a special teacher who inspires learning . . . a school dance . . . a noisy discussion on a controversial issue . . . bells signaling the beginning and end of classes . . . report cards . . . part time jobs . . . plans for the future . . . Senior Activities . . . finally, a diploma. All of this is WOODROW WILSON. But Woodrow is so much more. It is an intangible spirit characterized this year by an anticipation, an eagerness, an enthusiasm felt throughout the school. For 1968 marks the fortieth anniversary of Woodrow Wilson High School. Since 1928, WOODROW has grown large and strong. Now this school is involved in a headlong rush to greatness. Exciting plans and changes are being put into effect this year. With an increase in enrollment of thirty-one per cent, Woodrow is planning a bigger, brighter future. The 1968 CRUSADE has tried to capture this anticipation, this planning, this enthusiasm. To capture this spirit is to capture the moods of WWW – moods of quietness, of expectancy, of festivity, of stimulation. In the many phases, many elements, of Woodrow we have tried to capture the ENTHUSIASM OF 1968.

*Hail, Alma Mater, Hats Off To You,

“Enthusiasm is the vibrant thrill in your voice that sways the wills of others into harmony with your own.”

Chris Macarty leads the way as Master of Ceremonies on Senior Day, 1967 as the seniors attend their last assembly.

The seniors of '67 enjoy their last moments together at the prom.

Seniors Conclude Year

As the March winds blew and spring came for the Wildcats, tradition was carried on. Each spring, activities overcome the seniors of Woodrow Wilson. Among the many activities before Commencement are Senior Assembly, Senior Luncheon, and the Senior Prom.

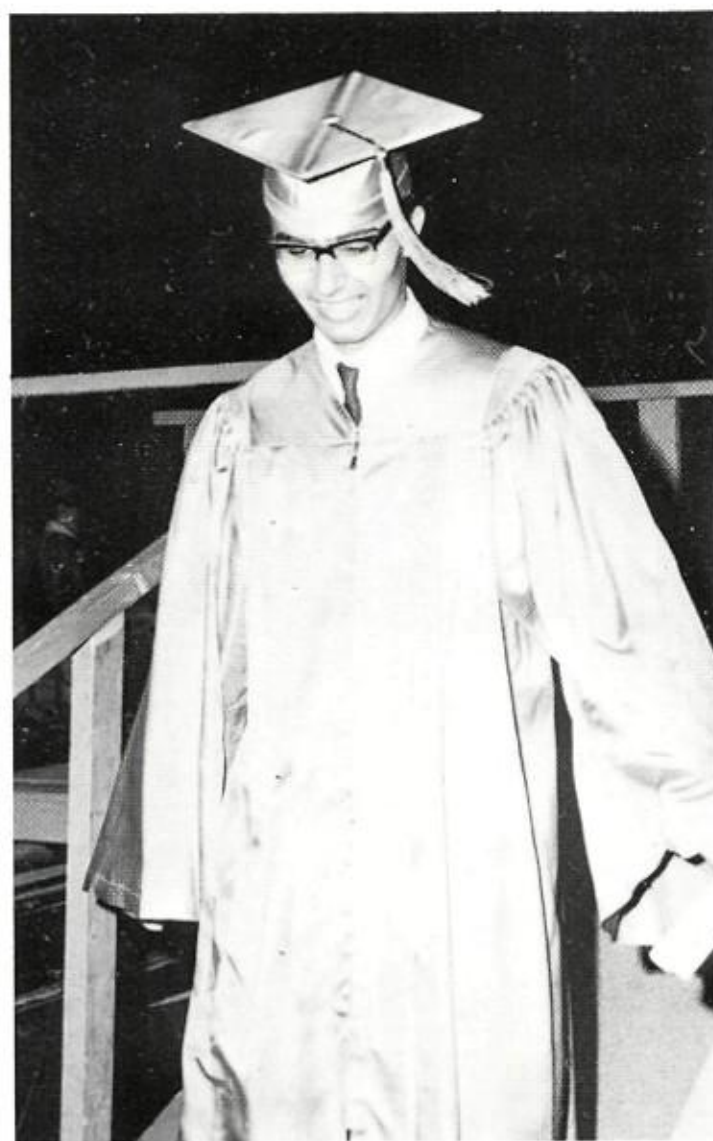

The Senior Assembly brought a colorful talent show given only by graduates. The same day they attended their honorary luncheon in the school lunch room. The Senior Prom, given for the graduates and their dates was the next night. Long-awaited Commencement came for the seniors of 1967, ending their whirl of activities. As they walked across the stage accepting their diploma, they completed their busy high school life.

Melissa Hill dances to the psychedelic sounds of Senior Assembly combos.

In A Whirl Of Activity

Coach Bob Beene, Officer Jennings, Assistant Principal, Wayne Pierce and Coach Don Byars have a bewildered look as they observe prom activities.

Rasool Mahdavi of Iran steps off the stage at commencement completing his American high school education.

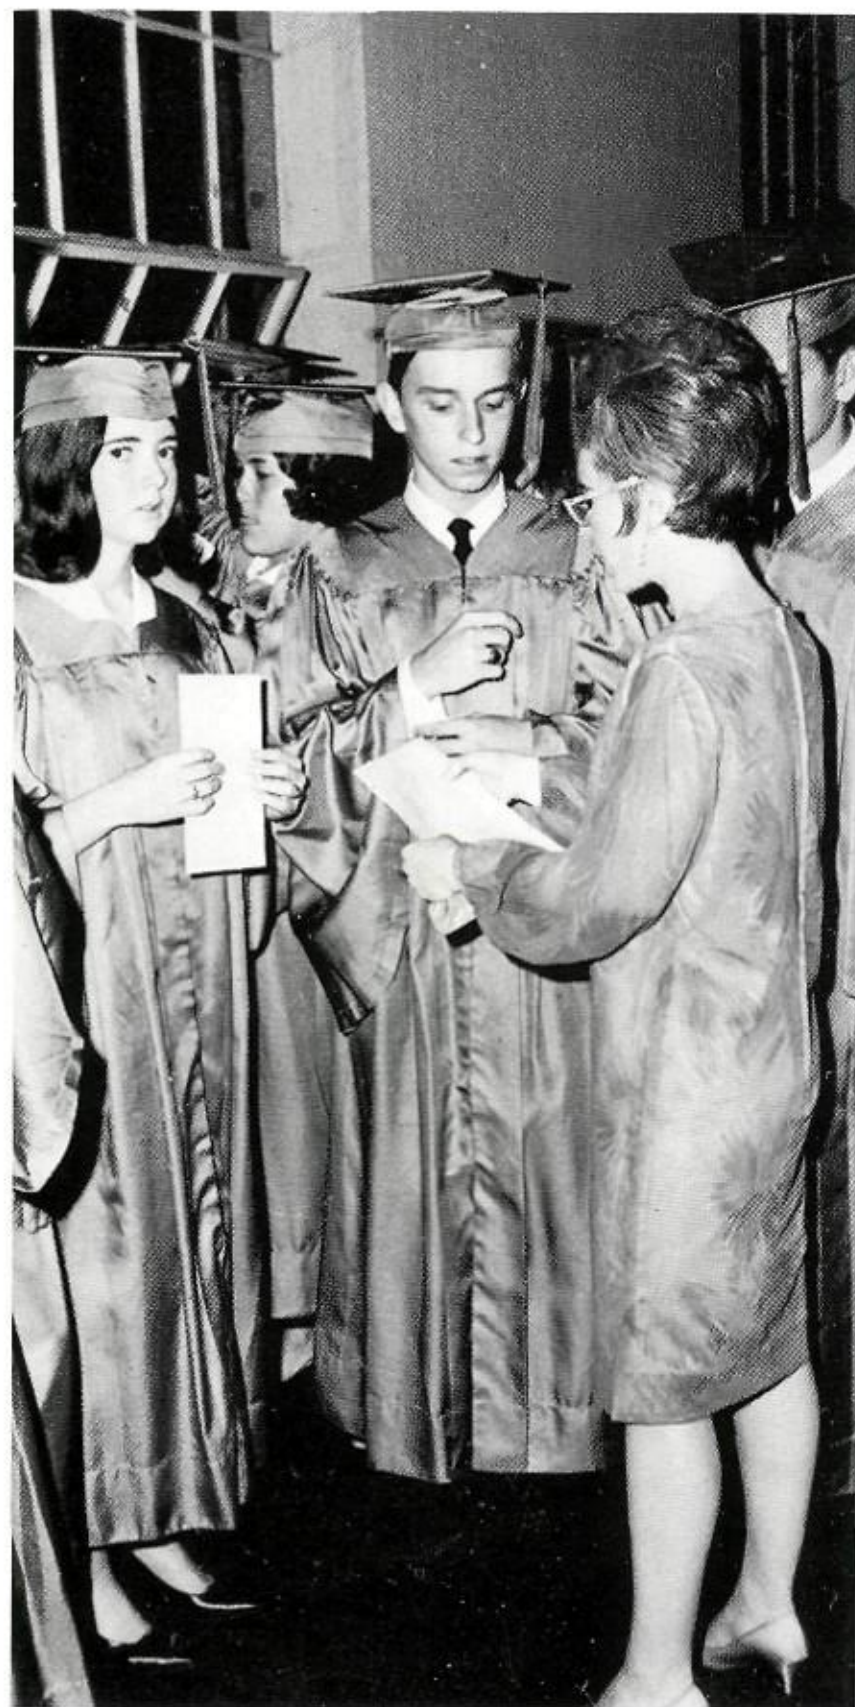

Formal Prom Kicks Off Senior Week

Jimmy Barnett gives the pros in the prom orchestra a helping hand.

Randy Cooper presents a needed spotlight as the senior gift to the school.

Mrs. Sharon Spalding gives last minute instructions to seniors Bobby Kent, Kathy Kilmer, and George Foster.

Annuals Create Busy Times For Students

Students busily sign Crusaders before the sixth period quickly closes on yearbook distribution day.

Yearbook signing is an added pleasure for Richard Earnheart and Rhonda Halasz.

Coach Dawson stealing books? No . . . just helping distribute new Crusaders.

New Cheerleaders Allen Henderson, Steve White, Linda Welch, Bob Latimer, Kay Kretchmar, Randy Fife, Judy Austin and Martha Latimer are introduced by the old cheerleaders on Spring Assembly.

Intra-Squad Game Introduces '67-

Sweetheart Squad 2 gives a preview on the '67 Spring Assembly of what to expect the next year.

The '67-'68 Sweetheart captains Carol Brinegar, Kay Jones, Michele Wade, and Vicky Hamilton start off Spring Assembly with a song.

'68 Cheerleaders And Sweethearts

As the scholastic year of 1966-67 drew to a close with the annual intra-squad game, along with it came the introduction to certain organizations with many new and excited faces. This was the first time for the newly-chosen Sweethearts and Cheerleaders to perform.

This clash of the Red and the Gray was only a preview of the exciting football season to come. Cheerleaders and Sweethearts tasted for the first time the thrilling anticipation and spirit that are typical of the Wildcats.

The Cheerleaders and Sweethearts are symbolic of the high-spirited Wildcat tradition. The new members of this "spirit team" helped to make this one of the most enthusiastic years ever.

There is a bit of confusion for the '67-'68 cheerleaders at the Intra-Squad game.

Rusty Brydon's summer job at Ashburn's was the best thing that ever happened to penniless Woodrow students.

Freddie Gerstl, Woodrow's exchange student from Venezuela, learns a little bit about American teenagers at a party given in his honor.

The Coming Of Summer Brings Work

Several Woodrow students spent their summer in summer school at Bryan Adams.

Freddie greets his American brother and sister, Jay and Gail Settle, and his new parents, Mr. and Mrs. John Doyal Settle, for the first time as he steps off the bus.

Fun, And Foreign Exchange Students

Darlene Pierson, Dinah DeWitt, Michele Wade get to know Marena Raynor, center, the exchange student from Australia, at a welcoming party.

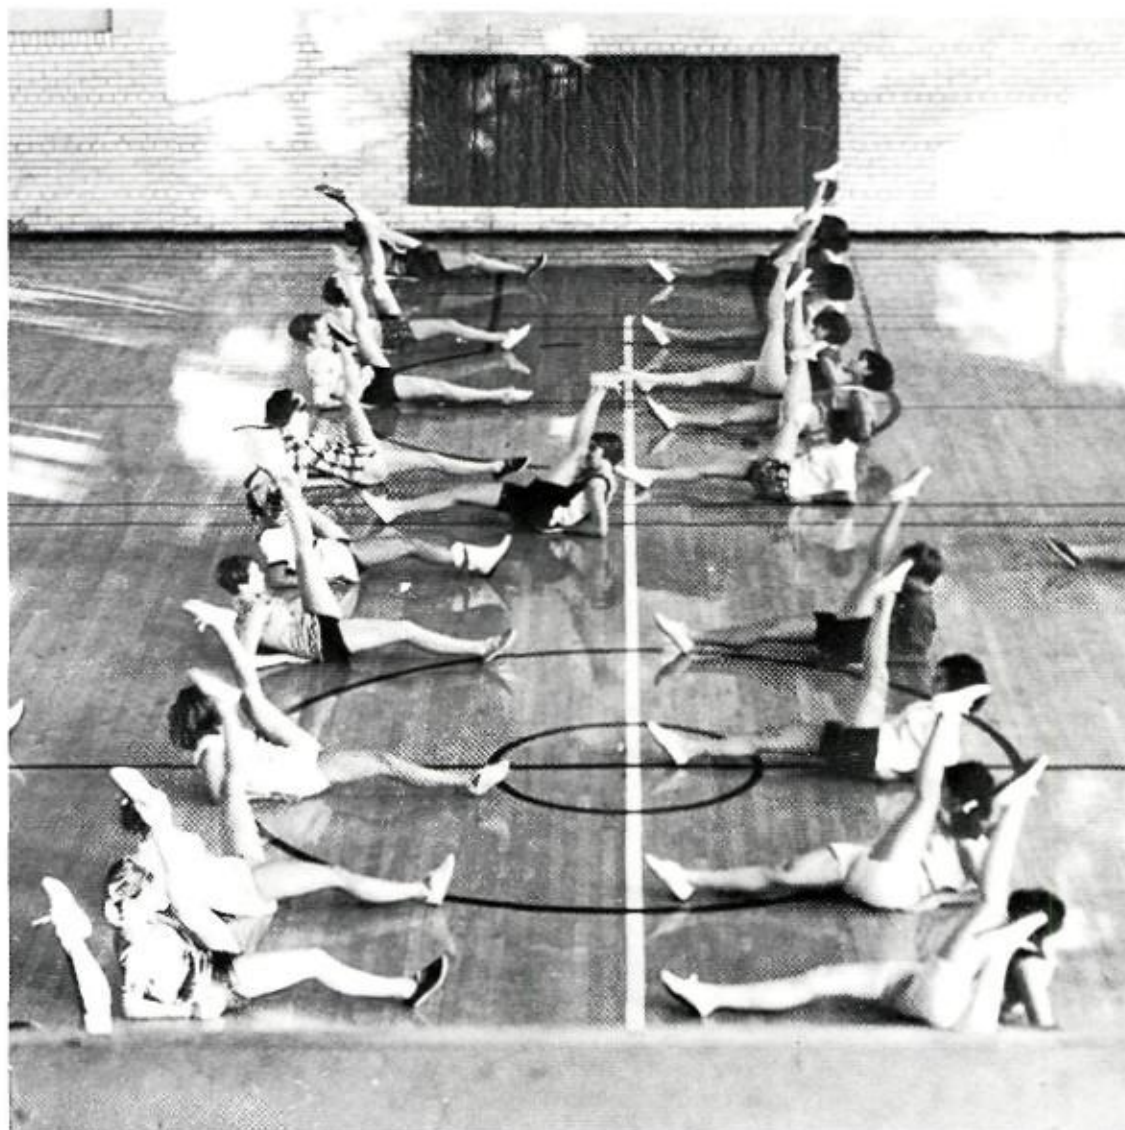

Shadows indicate the early morning hours of Sweetheart summer practice.

Wildcats Devote Much Time To

Cheerleaders proudly display their hard-earned "spirit sticks" from SMU Summer Cheerleading School. Girls holding the "petit baton" are Kay Kretchmar, Linda Welch, Martha Latimer, and Judy Austin. The boys are Randy Fife, Steve White, Allen Henderson, and Bob Latimer.

Exercising is a part of the many hours of drill team summer practice.

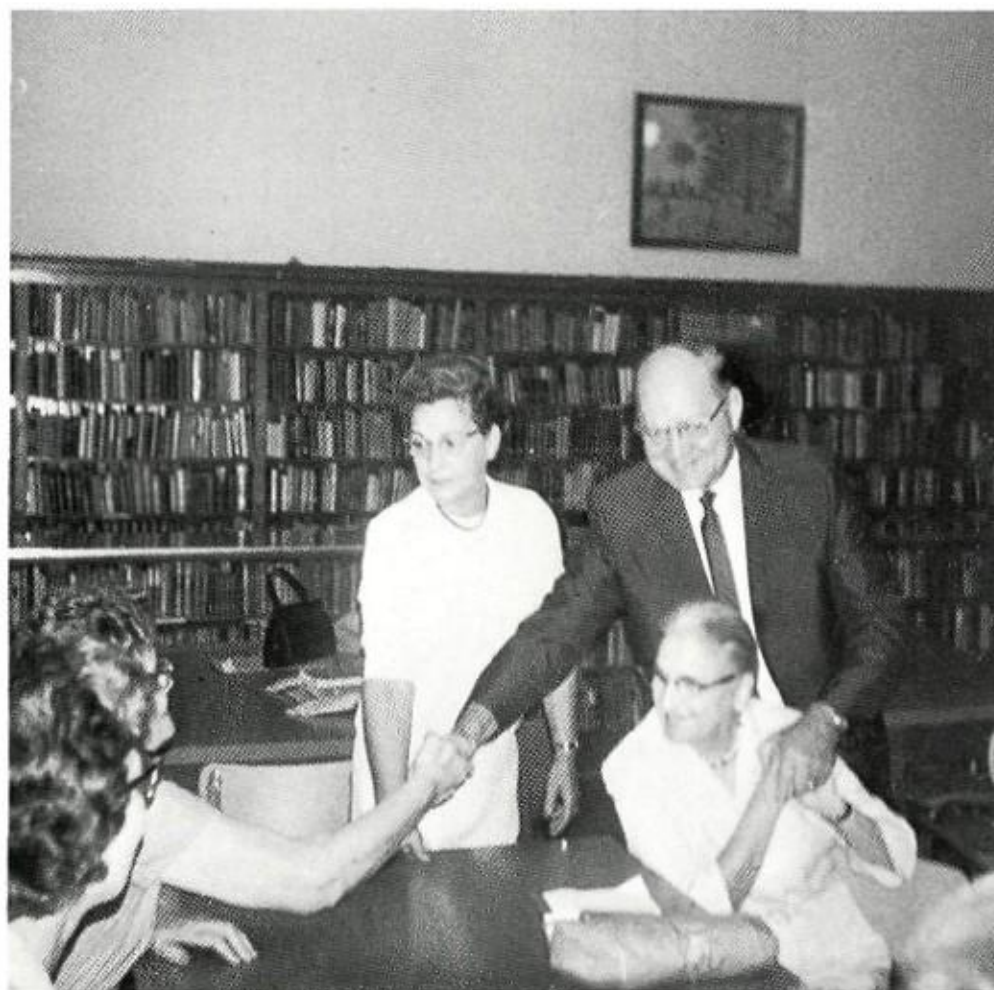

Hard Work During Summer Practice

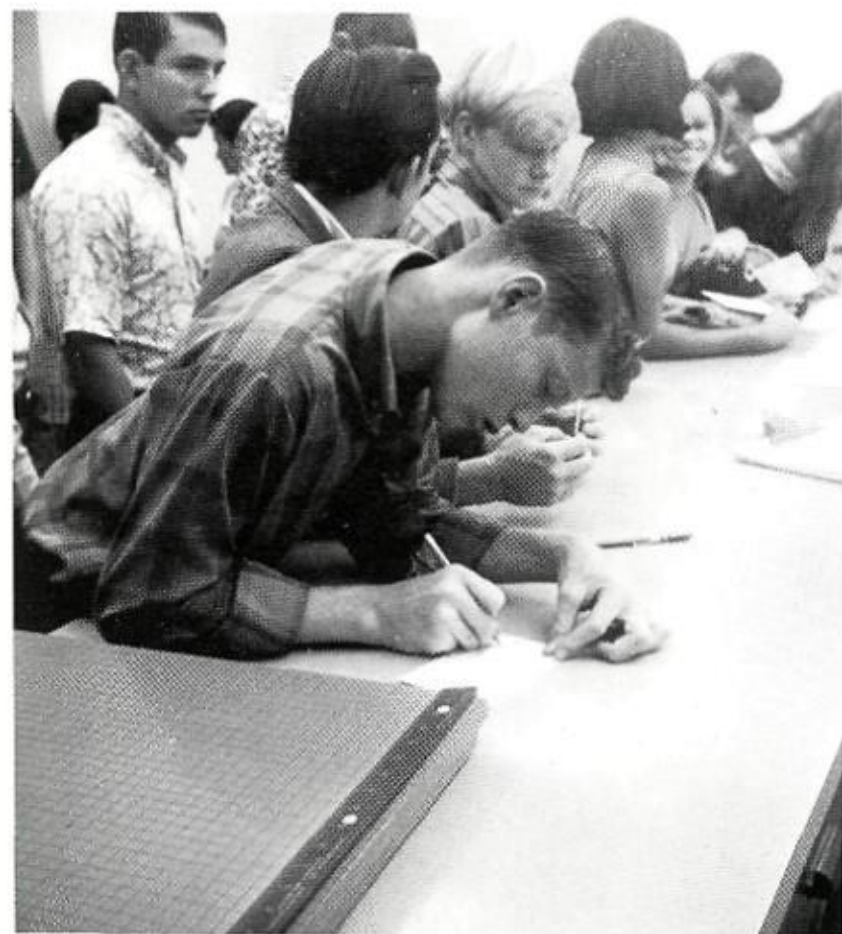

Drum major Ken Morris is ready to throw in the towel and the band.

Football boys crowd around the coaches to listen to advice on new plays.

Old "Crozier Tech" friends, Mr. Oather Raynes, Mrs. Leota Evans, and Mrs. Alva Richey greet each other at the first faculty meeting; Miss Helen Parsons looks on.

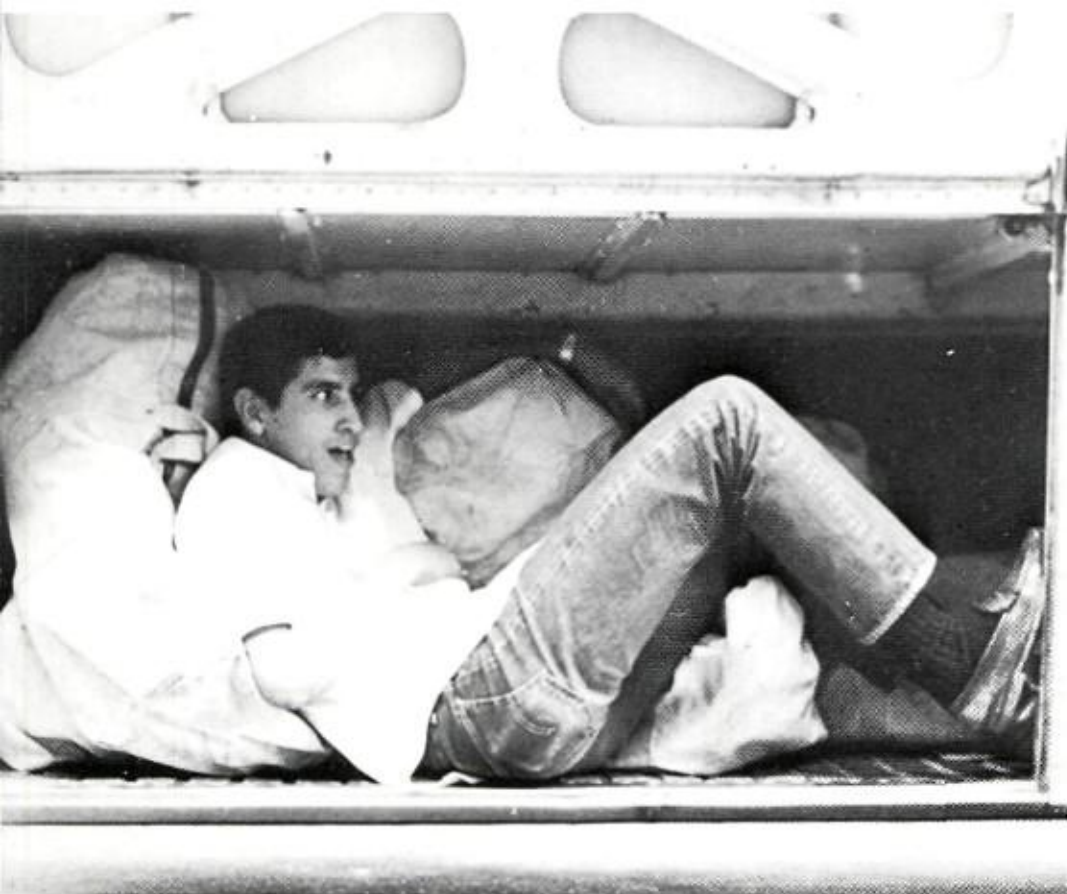

As do many other new students, Sophomore Brad Hollinsworth spent much time filling out numerous enrollment cards on registration day.

First Days Of School

Confusion seems to prevail in the attendance office the first day of school as bewildered students crowd around the desk.

Stowaway or just part of the baggage, George Hill is not traveling first class to the Longview game.

Students found no dull moments on the bus ride to Longview.

Prove Frustrating For Faculty And Students

For the first time this year, cheerleaders Randy Fife, Judy Austin, and Allen Henderson arouse school spirit during the Longview pep assembly.

The first week of school was, as usual, full of meeting old friends and new friends, IBM cards, and general confusion. Sophomores at Woodrow Wilson this year gasped as they were handed pile upon pile of forms and cards with the maddening instructions of "do not fold, bend or mutilate."

Registration created near chaos in the Pupil Personnel Office. Teachers and counsellors and staff members steeled themselves in advance of the approaching onslaught.

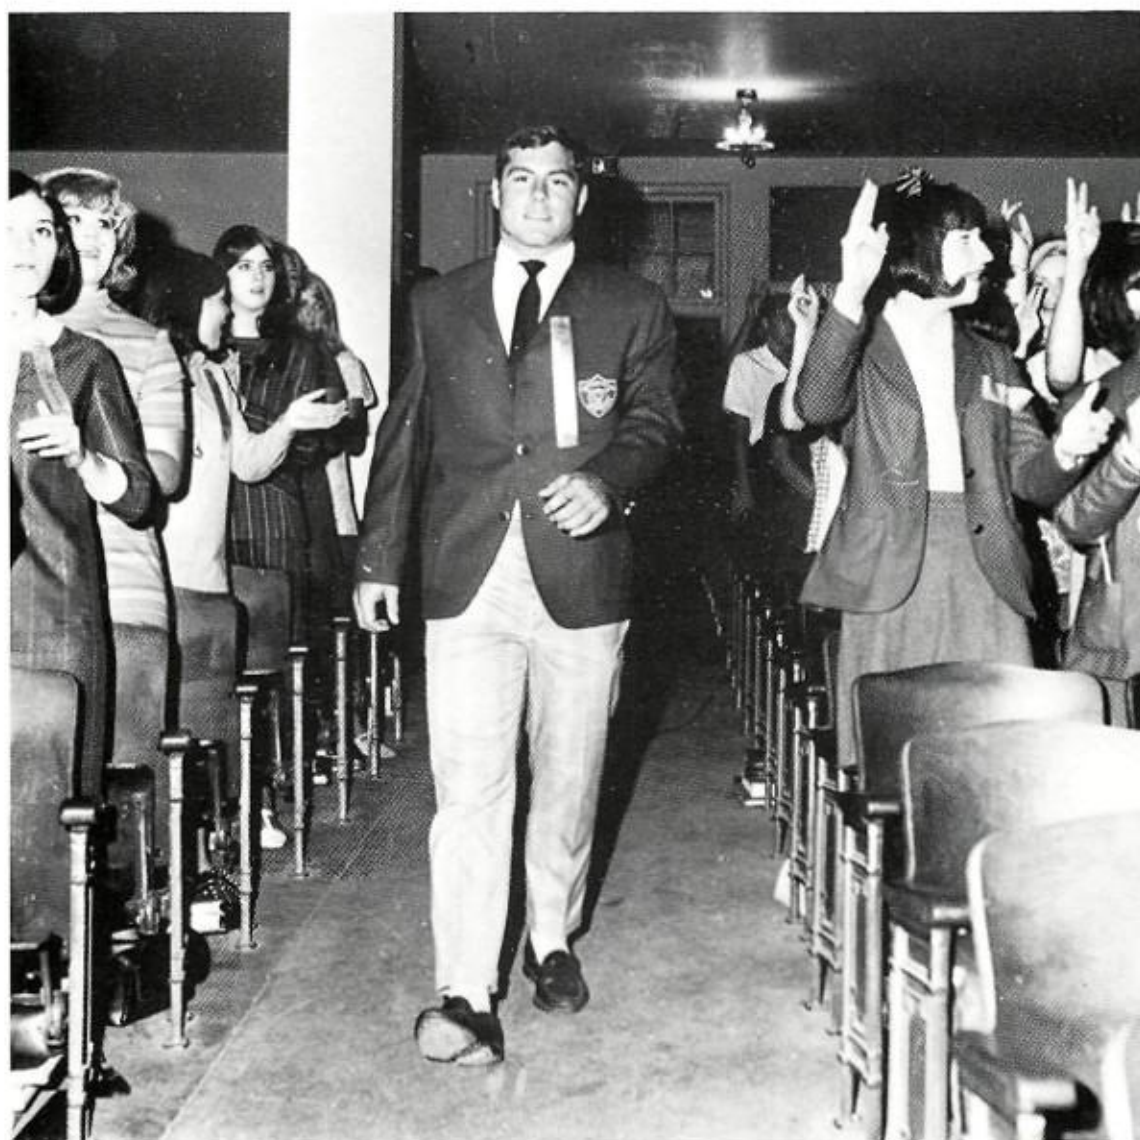

Juniors and seniors fitted into their familiar slots again with only a minimum amount of disorder. It is very likely there was even some forbearance in the formidable attitudes of teachers as Woodrow began this year of Wildcat history.

The football game at Longview provided the first opportunity this year for all old and new Wildcats to feel the stirring excitement of cheering their team. This exhilaration continued throughout the year to make '67-'68 a climactic and memorable epoch of the Wildcat story.

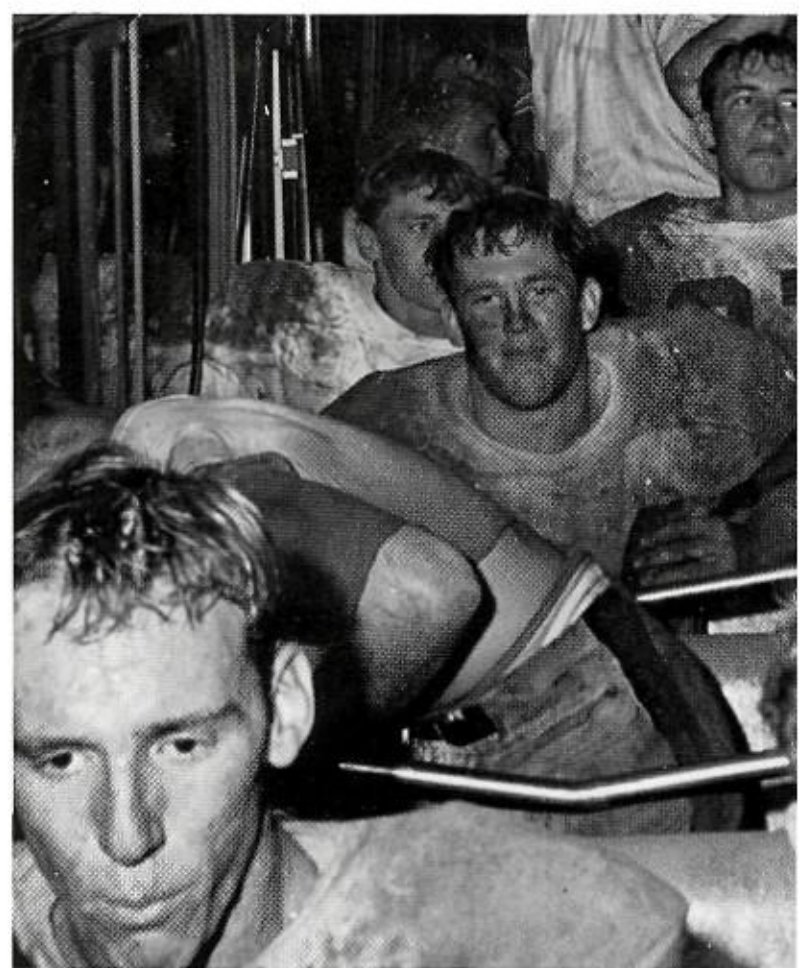

"Can't you get the word, men? The drill team's telling us Wildcats, let's go!"

Fall's Arrival Turns Many Active

Roy Topham walks into the auditorium with the pride and determination that marks a Wildcat.

"Those guys (Adamson Leopards) were just an appetizer," gloats a mud-covered Greg Clark, "Bring on the big ones!"

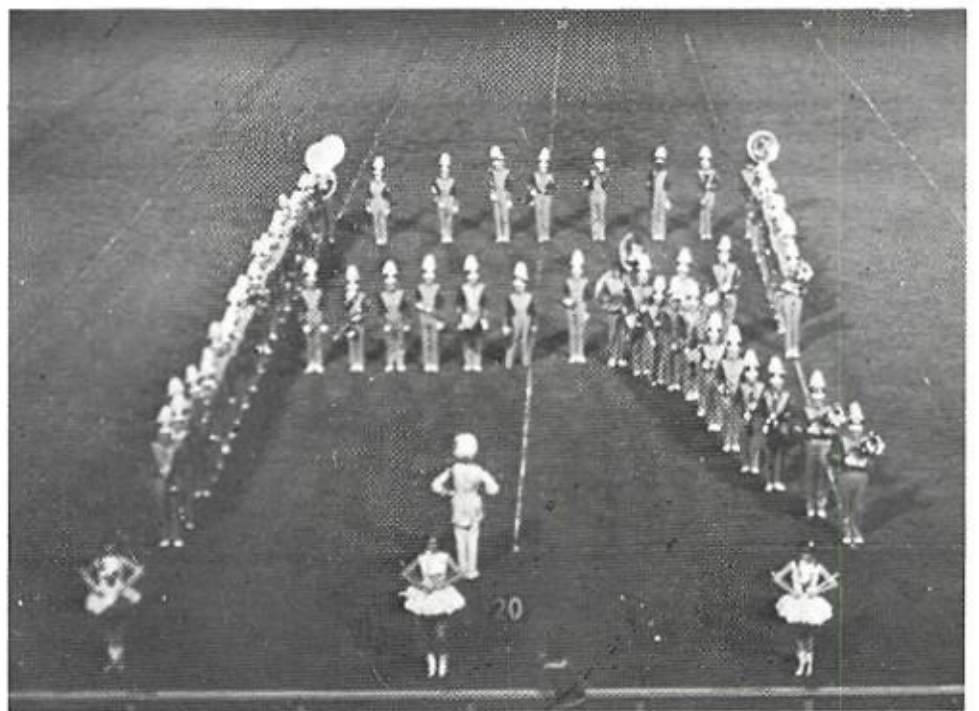

Some schools shoot a cannon; some parade a mascot; but the Woodrow Wilson cheerleaders form a happy "victory circle" when the Wildcats score.

Wildcats' Fancies To Football

Majorette Carolyn Clark impatiently awaits her half-time performance at the Adamson game.

The Wildcat band proudly forms an "R" in honor of Colonel George Royster, leader of the Wildcat band for some thirty years, who retired last year.

Wildcat Students Prove School

Seniors girls' car wash at Charco's gave Diann Davis a challenge—and a wetting.

During a senior meeting foreign exchange students Freddy Gerstl and Marena Raynor are initiated into the senior class of '68 with the presentation of their senior rings from the Balfour representative, Mr. John Ramsey.

Julia Cates needs extended energy and arms to dry her last car at the fund-raising car wash.

Spirit Lives In And Out Of School

Woodrow Wilson Sweethearts line the tables at Kip's for breakfast early on the morning of the North Dallas game to be together for a last time.

Bobby Campbell points the way during a "school sing-out" on the "Up With People" assembly.

Sweethearts, Sandy Stubblefield, Judy Miller, Donna Wheeler, Jana Estes, and Paula Servidio don't seem to mind the early hours for breakfast at Kip's.

This Year The PTA Fall Round-Up

During the Fall Round-Up the stage was invaded by long-haired hippies.

Susie Cox and Reggie McMinn are naturals for the role of hippies.

Introduces Hippies To Woodrow's Stage

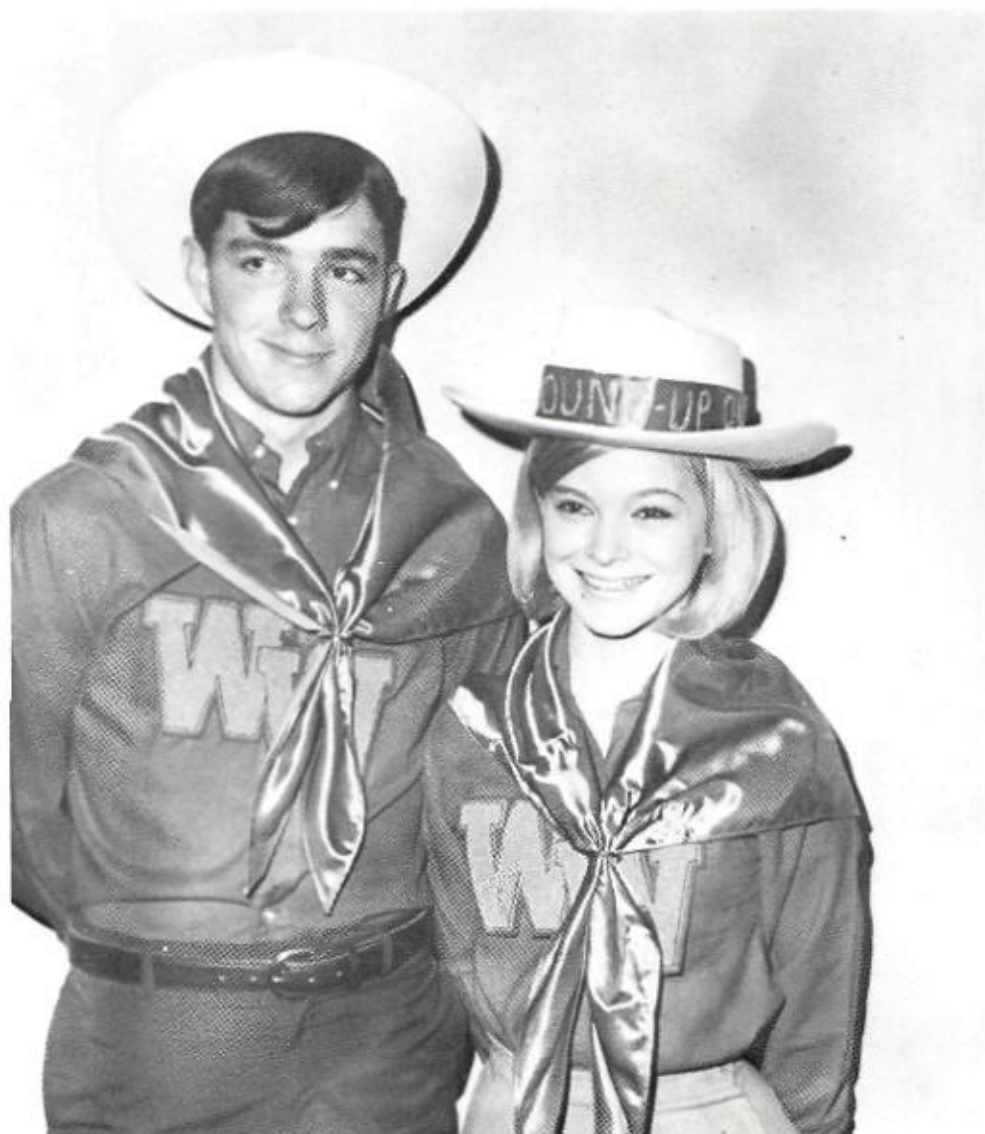

Hippy noise is supplied by the school combo known as "Fate". The combo consists of Keane McClellan, Pete Giardina and Tom Bryan.

During the month of October, Woodrow students have little time for normal studies. About this time every year the leaves of fall begin to cover the grounds of Woodrow, and the preparation for Woodrow's Fall Round-Up begins.

The PTA this year outdid themselves at the Round-Up with a chicken-fried steak dinner and an outstanding representation of "Hippies" onstage. The theme for this year's Round-Up was "The Happening—'67". "Round-Up" was a great success," the officials proudly reported. It entertained parents and students alike, besides serving as a way to raise money to be used by organizations throughout the school year.

The highlight of the Round-Up was the announcement of the King and Queen, who were chosen by the vote of the student body. Kay Kretchmar and Bob Latimer played the part well as the Royal Couple.

Kay Kretchmar and Bob Latimer reign over Round-Up.

Homecoming Excitement Climaxed with the Crowning of Queen

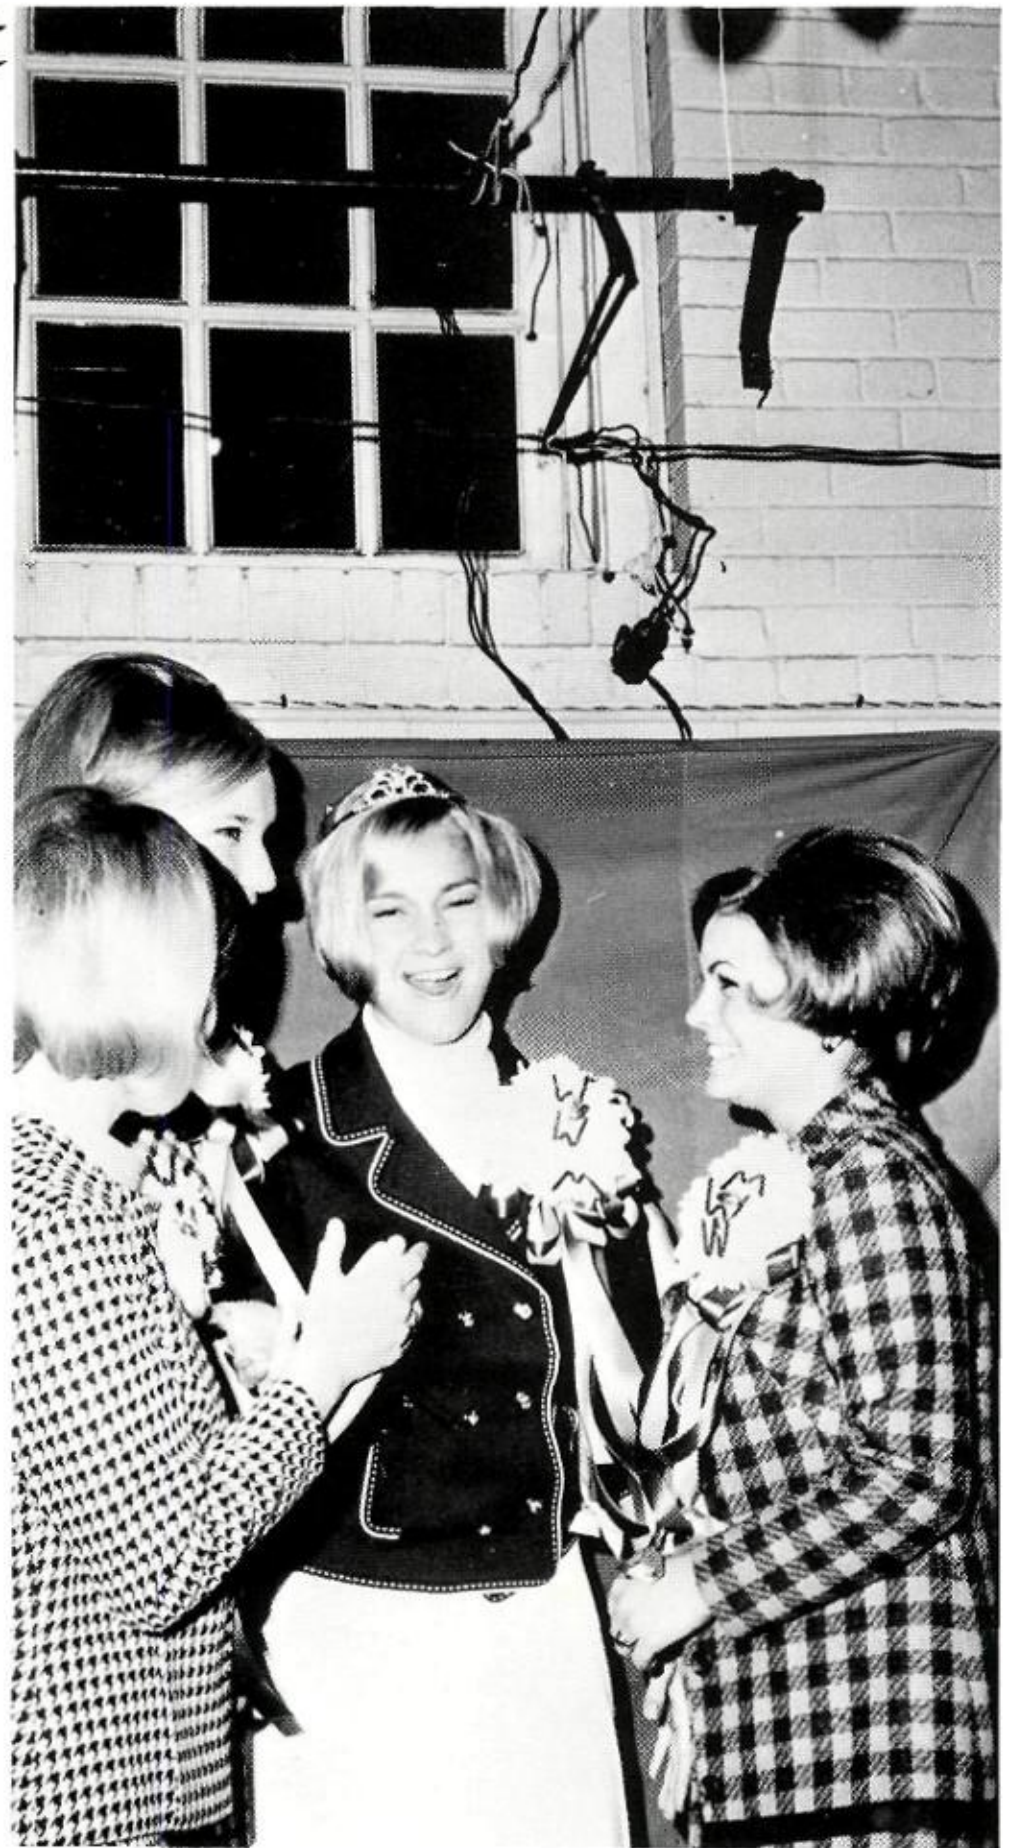

Although the homecoming game was lost to Sunset this year, the excitement and gaiety in the dance following it helped to make up for any disappointments suffered.

The Student Council-sponsored dance took place in the girls' gym, which was given a welcoming atmosphere by the red and gray decorations. The music was provided by a group with a "veddy British"-sounding name—The Manchester Lime.

The highlight of the evening, of course, was the long-awaited announcement of the Homecoming Queen. Becky Pierce was crowned on stage, surrounded by finalists Martha Latimer, Kay Kretchmar, Linda Welch, and Libby Fagin. Becky's qualifications for this elected honor were evident in her personality, poise, and charm.

The 1967 Homecoming Activities were made a happy and memorable success by the eager participation in the dance and by the excitement in electing a new queen to reign over the festivities.

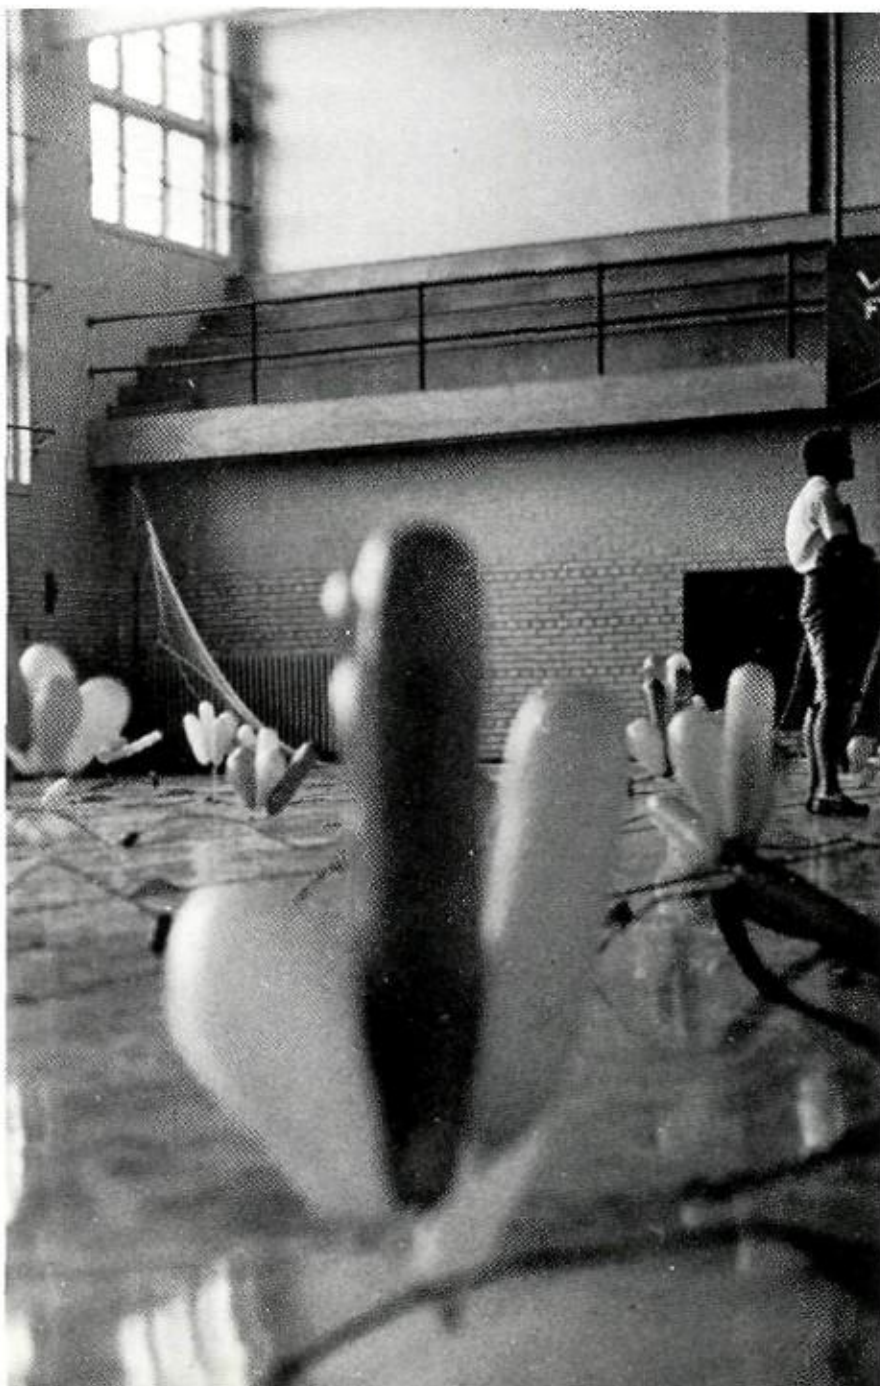

Miss Clifford is not part of the decorations for Homecoming, but a supervisor of the Student Council decorators.

Finalists Kay Kretchmar, Martha Latimer and Linda Welch congratulate the newly crowned Homecoming Queen, Becky Pierce.

Wildcat couples crowd the girls' gym to enjoy the annual Homecoming Dance.

Anticipation leaves Homecoming Queen Finalists Libby Fagin, Linda Welch, Martha Latimer and Kay Kretchmar anxious for the annual dance after the Sunset game.

Pep Assembly Skits Serve As A

Note the brilliant concentration in the face and stance of Jack Arrington as he executes the difficult role of "Stage-Hand George" at the "North Dallas" pep assembly.

"Oh well," advises Professor Priscilla P. Pigskin (Marena Raynor) sagely, "You can't win 'em all."

"Faint heart ne'er won fair game. Go, Sir Wildcat!" This medieval troubador, Steve Bones, seems to be saying.

"Whee! So this is the way girls in the '20's aspired to new heights at halftime!" say members of Miss Eckelman's drama class, Darlene Pierson, Cathy Billings, and Kay Kretchmar, in an illustration of football history.

Great Spirit Booster To Wildcats

"All right—I want all you gumdrops to stand up and cheer for the Wildcats on the count of three . . ." our own "Mr. Peppermint," Bennie Loggins, says.

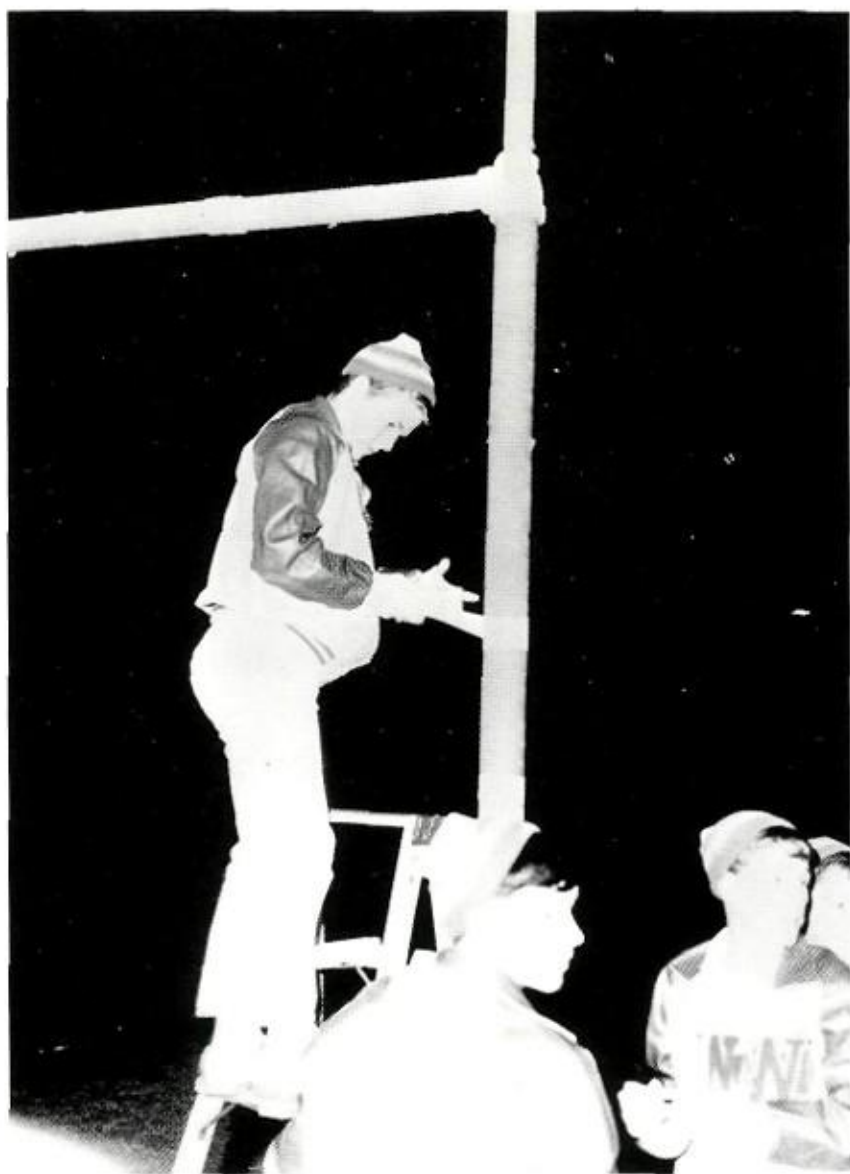

"Excuse me, ma'am, did I hear someone call for The Lone Ranger?" (Bob Latimer asks Patsy Poole.)

"But Miss Bless, we can't kick any higher—our bloomers might show!" These heroines of the silent screen, Becky Pierce, Julia Cates, Elizabeth Blevins, Libby Fagin, and Linda Welch, plead delightfully.

These two fine specimens of mankind, Greg Clark and Butch Wilson, wrangle over a coconut, strangely shaped like a football. (Ugga Mugga oompf is cave-man talk for "I saw it first, buddy!")

Decorating goalposts seems to present a sticky problem for cheerleader Allen Henderson.

'Burglars?' No, just noisy Sweethearts decorating the football players' yards on the night before the Sunset game.

1967 Football Season Closes

Football season this year seemed brief but was packed full of excitement and Wildcat spirit until its close. The pep assemblies included original entertainment that supplemented the enthusiasm and support of the student body.

On the day of the final football game, the yells in the auditorium reached their peak and threatened to collapse the solid walls with sheer electric excitement. This assembly included a farcial skit about the history of football with the theme that girls always go for a football hero. Apparently, it must me true—the Wildcats are always the stars of everyone's heart!

The student body raises the roof of the auditorium with the traditional "Let's go, Big Red, Let's go!" as the '67 Wildcat team files into the pep assembly to take their honored places at the front.

Libby Fagin dedicates boutonnieres from each senior Sweetheart to each senior football player as a token of their pride in the Wildcats.

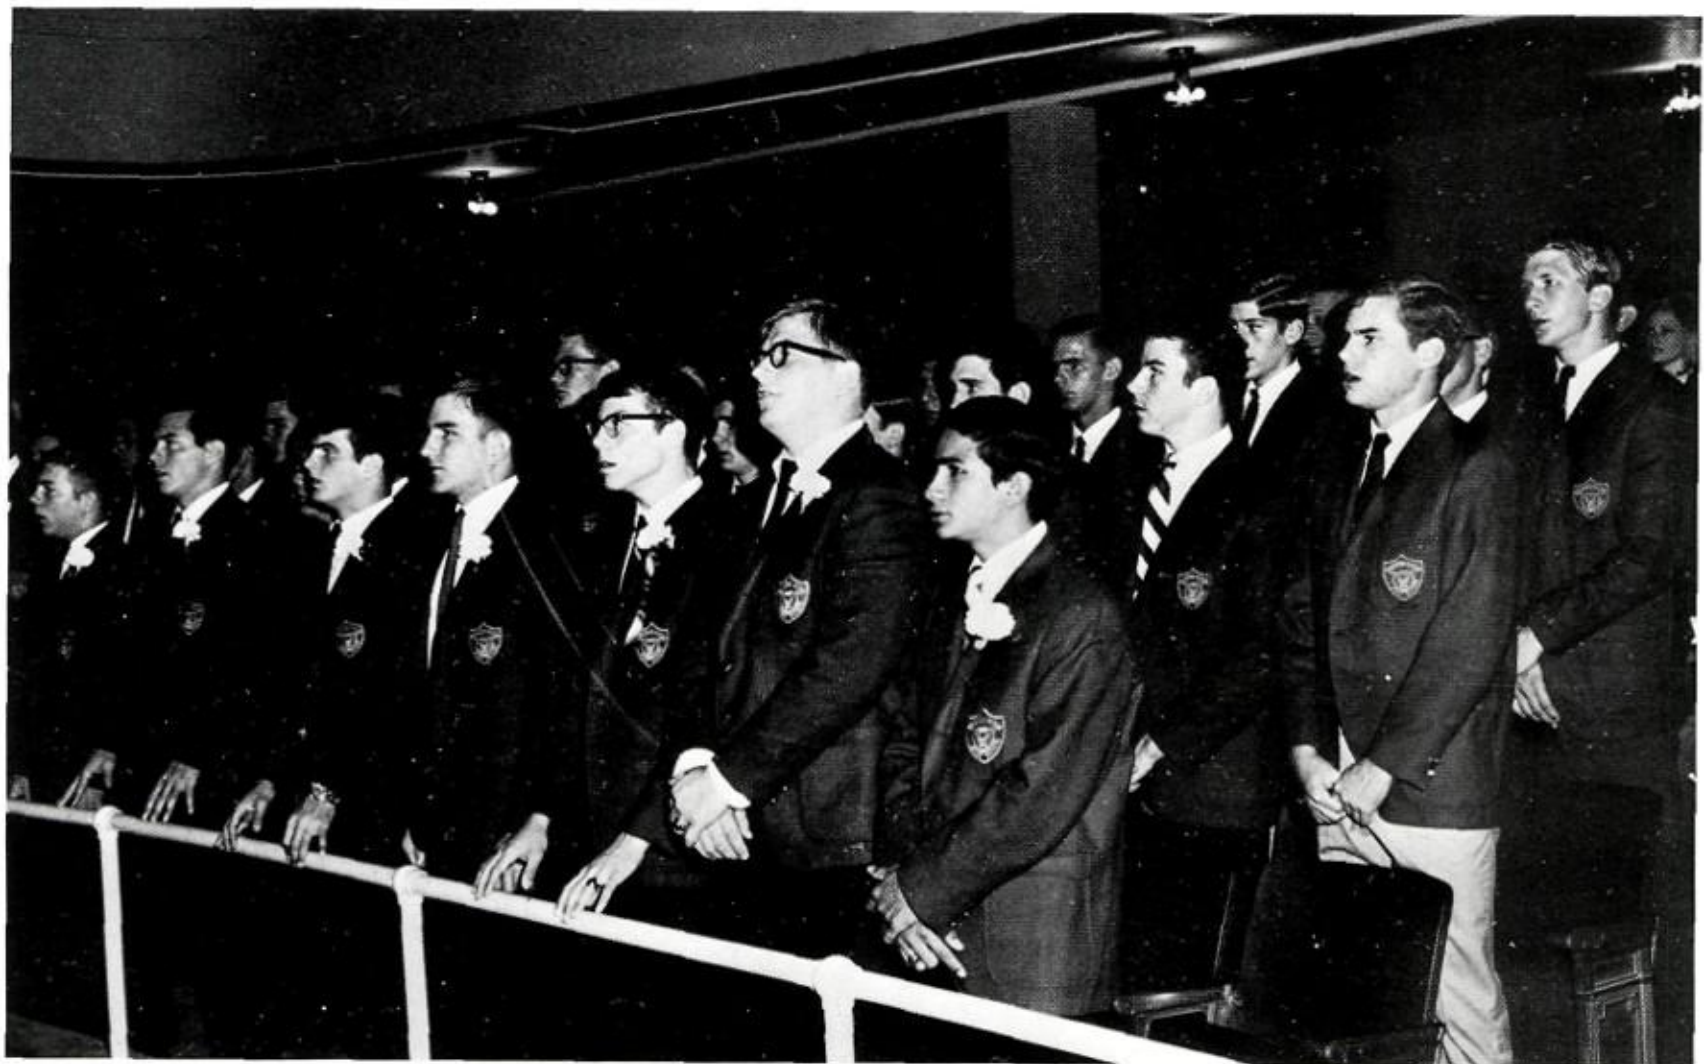

A crucial moment in the Roosevelt game finds cheerleader, Judy Austin, forgetting her cheerleading for a moment in favor of watching a decisive play.

Sweetheart Captain, Kay Jones, prances high to the beat of the drum as the 1967 Captains entertain the student body in the South Oak Cliff pep assembly.

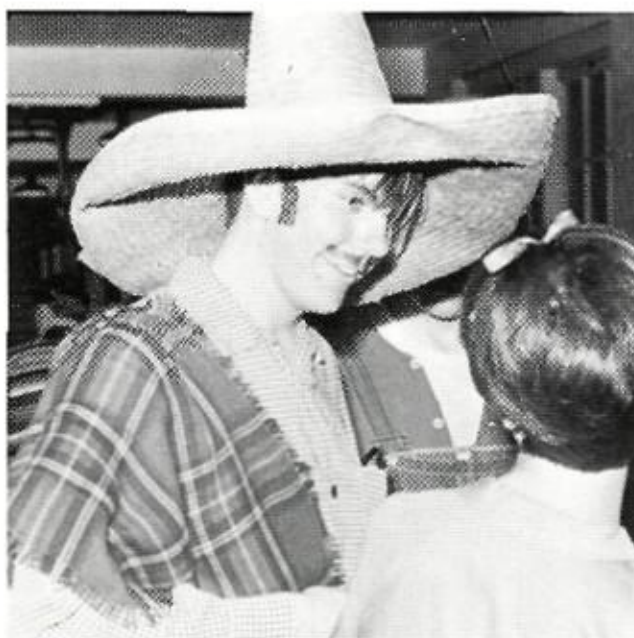

All Too Soon On Enthusiastic Wildcats

The 1967 Wildcat football teammates look uncommonly solemn as they sing the Alma Mater for the last time, in the North Dallas pep assembly.

Wildcat Daisy Maes

An especial highlight of the evening was Fred Pavey's arrival in his debonnaire tails and top hat.

"Thees ees no costume . . . Thees ees a steek-up!" says Ronnie Mason, a very convincing bandido.

Coach Beene expresses mixed sympathy and bewilderment as Susie Cox makes her grand entrance to announce the Sadie Hawkins Dance at the Sunset pep assembly.

Students in "formal" dress gather to dance to some "Mob" music at the annual Sadie Hawkins dance.

Get Their Pick . . .

"Us is just down-home folks—we got on our fancy dress duds for you-all's party, though," Cliff Delk and Vicky Hunter proclaim.

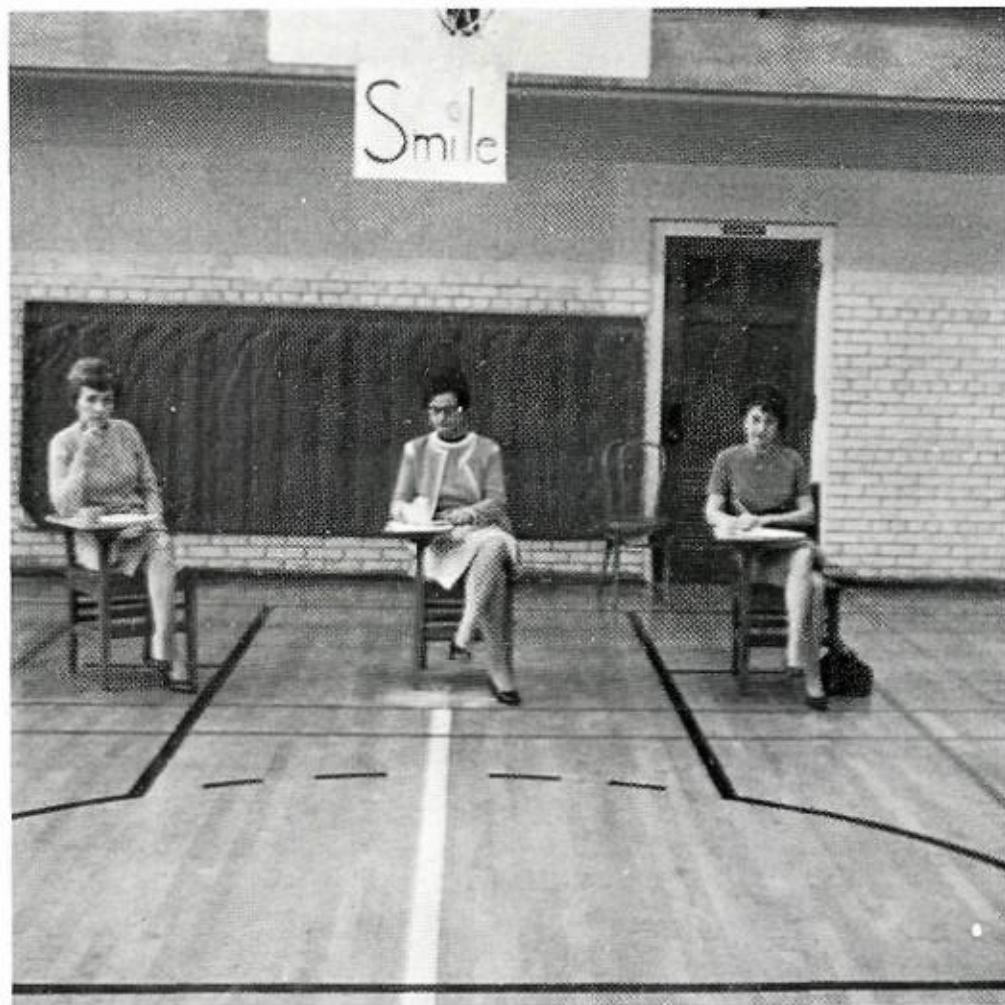

Sally Andrews in Daisy Mae polka dots and Li'l Abner (Greg Pierce) give that ol' hillbilly-grin as they walk away with the prizes for the most original Sadie Hawkins costumes.

"They wouldn't let me bring muh mule in here—but they didn't see my li'l brown jug!" jokes hillbilly, Frankie Blair.

. . . For The Annual Sadie Hawkins Dance

Three solemn judges and a single encouraging sign were the only sights seen by those nervous girls that tried out for drill team in December.

In the few remaining days before Christmas vacation, Woodrow's many activities came to a climax. It came out of necessity, for who could have waited two weeks to hear announcements of life-or-death importance?

These life-or-death announcements included the revealing of the class favorites, the drill team, and the cast of the Musical. On December 15, 1967, at approximately 3:45 $\frac{1}{2}$, the girls' gym exploded. It was flooded with tears of joy and disappointment, as the names of 38 lucky girls were announced. Another type of talent was being tested and in the December 19 issue of the Woodrow Wilson News, the members of the cast were announced who would bring to life a delightful fantasy, The Wizard of Oz. In those waning workdays before year-end freedom, the class favorites were named: four sophomores, four juniors, and sixteen senior favorites.

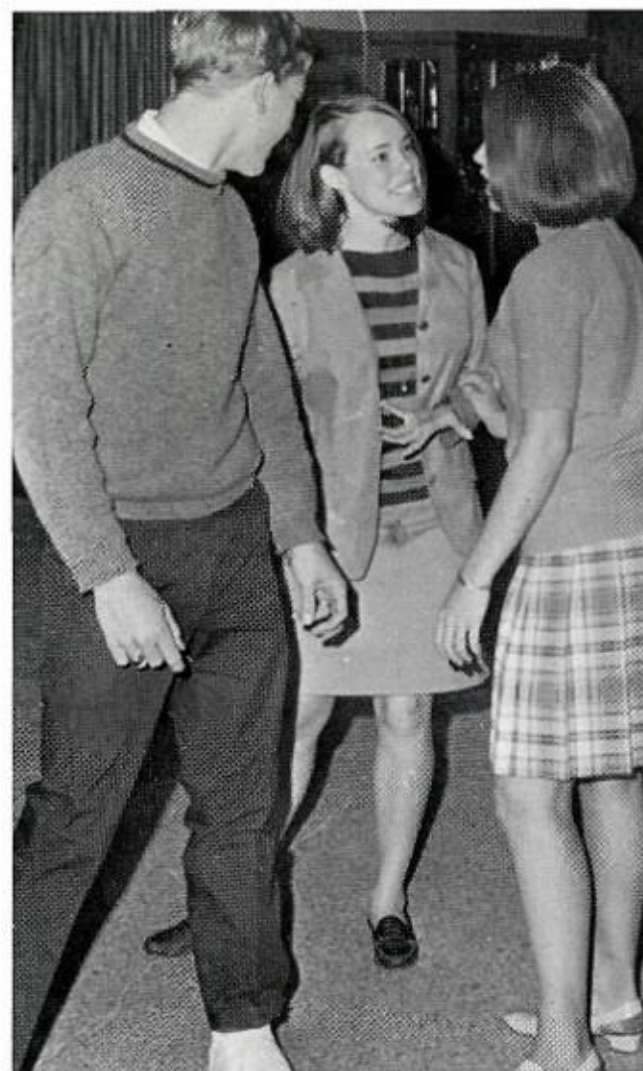

'Twas the last day of school and there was plenty of merrymaking! The day before Christmas holidays was filled with parties and presents and good cheer for all. A vacation meant time to recover from the excitement and the disappointments.

Yuletide Parties Add Joy And Avoirdupois

Betty Ann Houseman and Susan Simmons are two elated members of the newly-announced Musical cast.

Steve White, Mary Ann Murphy and Susan Sample show their signs of excitement as the newly-chosen favorites assemble in the auditorium.

After the posting of new Sweetheart names crying was common among the old and the new.

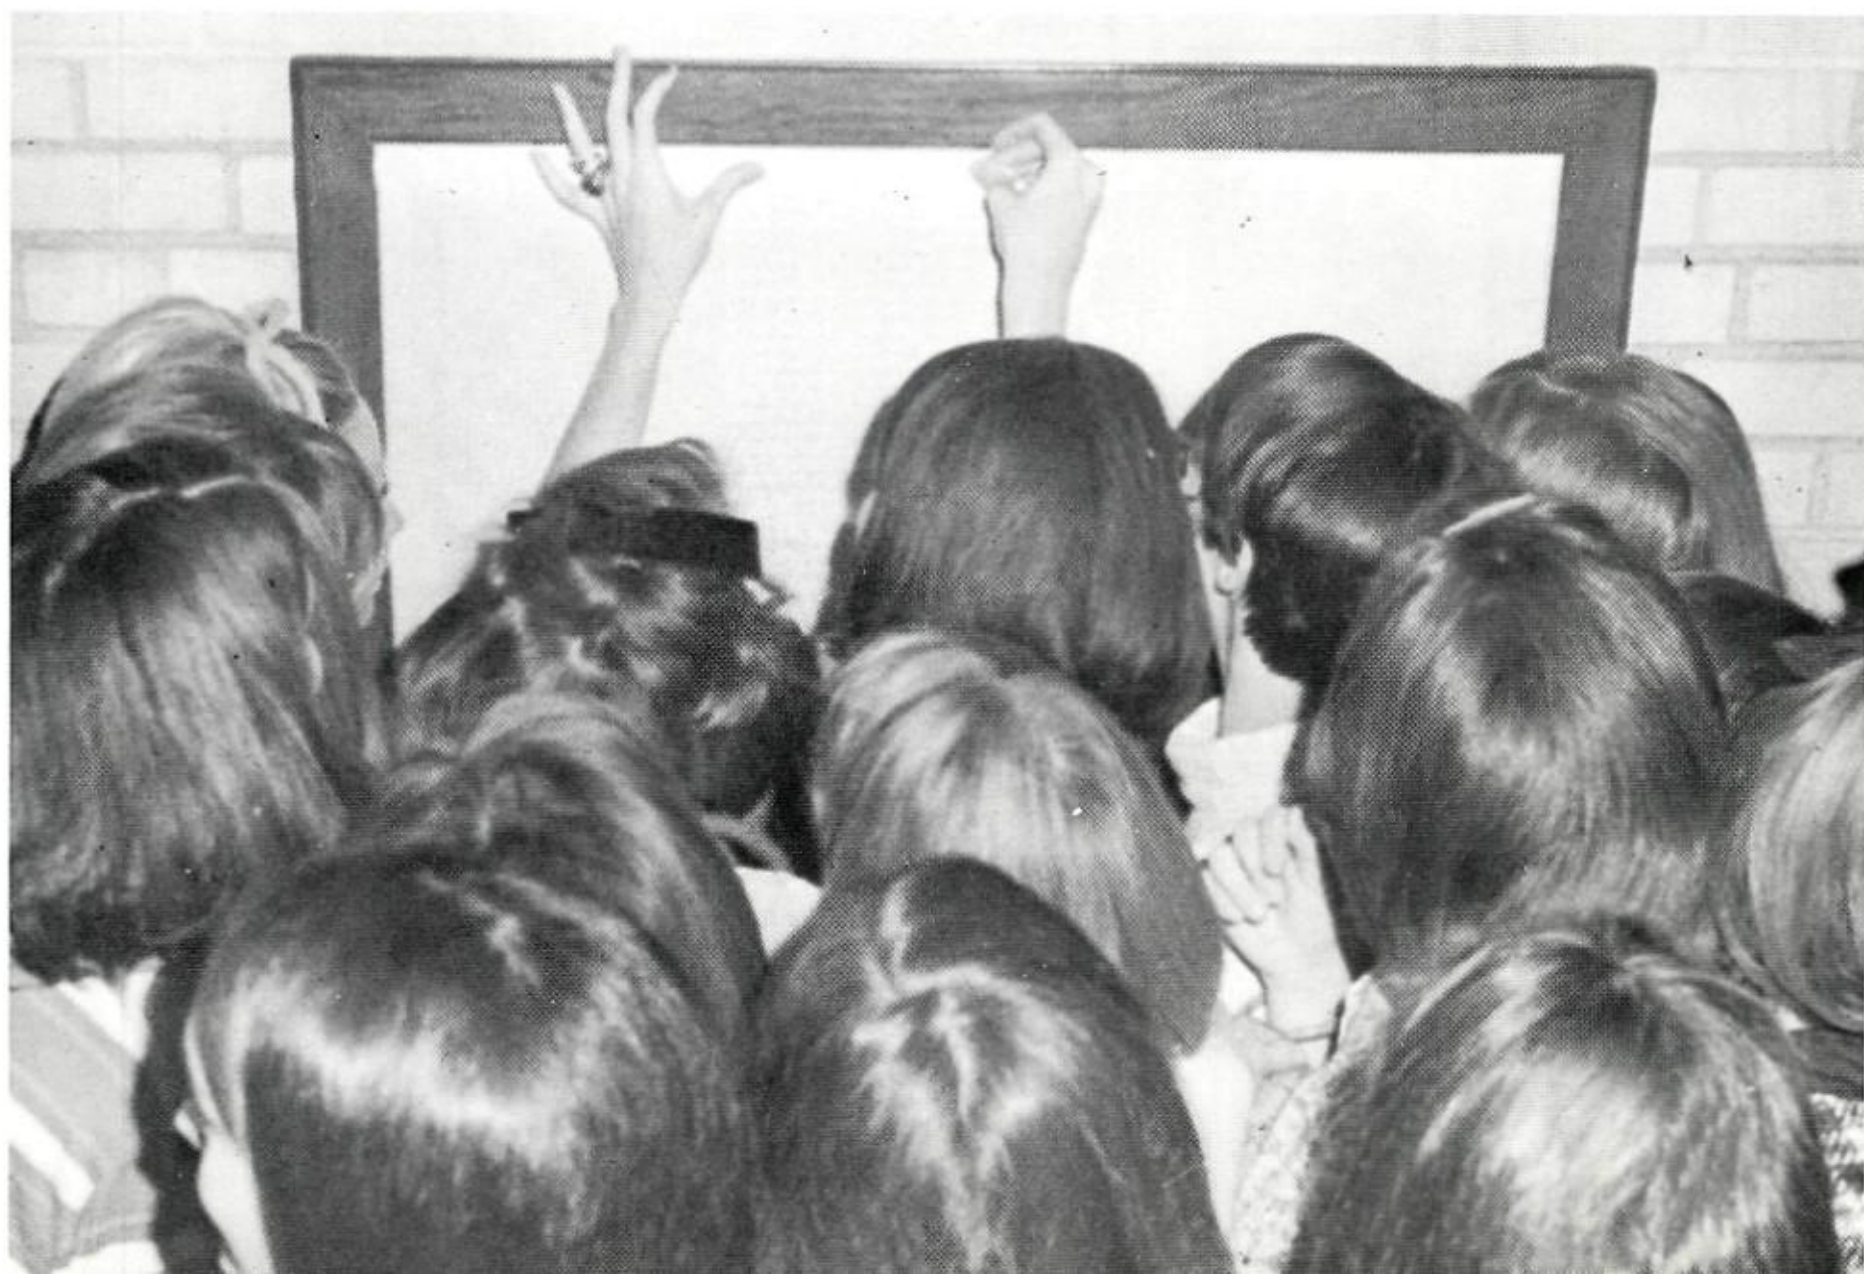

Bobby Campbell intends to express the holiday spirit at Miss Webb's fourth-period Christmas party.

Mr. Irvin Hill helps himself to the bountiful Christmas repast served during his third-period class.

o The Whole Wildcat

Captains Michele Wade and Vicky Hamilton are pinned against the bulletin board by anxious onlookers as they post the names of the newly-chosen Sweetheart members.

As midnight draws near happy Woodrow couples dance to the sad, but exciting tune of Auld Lang Syne at the annual Senior Girls Dance at the Adolphus Hotel.

Wildcats Ring In '68 With Kisses

The nostalgic tears of the old mingle with the excited tears of the new, as '67 Captain, Carol Brinegar presents Claudia Pulley with her rose signifying that she has been named Sweetheart Captain for 1968.

Jolynn Nelson is speechless with surprise as she has just been announced Most Outstanding Senior Sweetheart.

As Jana Estes receives that meaningful rose, her face shines with pride and happiness.

January ice and snow makes travel to school almost impossible.

Pat Thurman is one of the many last minute cramers as she waits in the study hall for the bell, to go to her next exam.

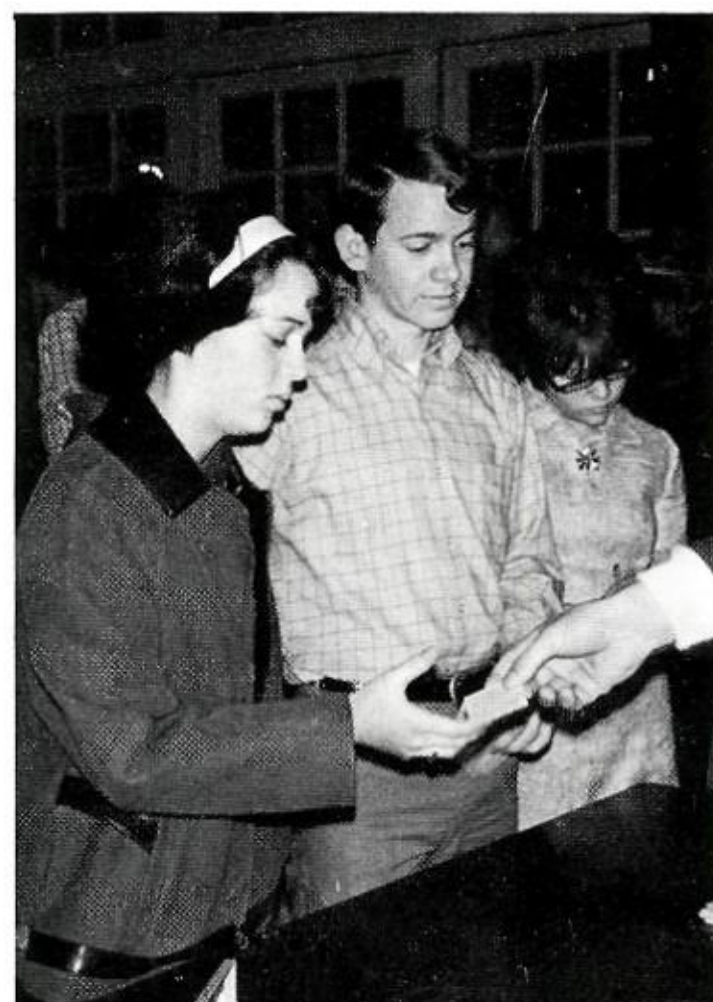

Years, Snow . . . And Unwelcome Exams

Newly selected Sweetheart officers for 1968: Captains (Top Row) Sandy Stubblefield, Mary Ann Robertson, Claudia Pulley, Jana Estes, and (Bottom Row) Lieutenants Karen Vancil, Karen Bailey, Susan McCallum, and Donna Wheeler display mixed emotions as they take on their new responsibilities.

Mr. Walter Wright joins the Woodrow Wilson faculty at mid-term taking over the difficult duties as the Wildcat Band director.

Seniors Mary Katherine Budd, Gene George, and Margaret Maggard reluctantly exchange allowances for a cap and gown receipt, but their feelings will change as Commencement nears.

New Teachers, Honors, And Assemblies

February was full of surprises and Valentine fun. The beginning of midterm brought excitement and many new arrivals to Woodrow Wilson.

February, traditionally a month of romance, brought a flutter of happiness as English teacher Mrs. Judith (Callaway) Pickering returned from her honeymoon in Acapulco. She returned to Dallas and to Woodrow just in time for Valentine's Day. After the release from the pressure of exams, a general sigh of relief was heard from exhausted students and teachers. After a short breathing spell, chins were determinedly set to signify harder effort to complete the last stretch of the year with renewed energy, if not with too much enthusiasm.

A time of renewal—of approaching spring—February brought new teachers and students into Woodrow Wilson. New teachers included a new band instructor, Mr. Walter Wright, and a new girls' gym teacher, Miss Lola Greaves. On February 27, the National Honor Society held its induction ceremony. Fifty "new" seniors and twenty-one juniors were selected for this high honor. February brought a new outlook to the past-winter months.

A final wave of good-by from Miss Betsy Clifford before she retires from the Wildcat faculty to pursue other interests.

Miss Katharine Norman formally welcomes the newly chosen members of the National Honor Society after the surprise announcement in the Woodrow Wilson News.

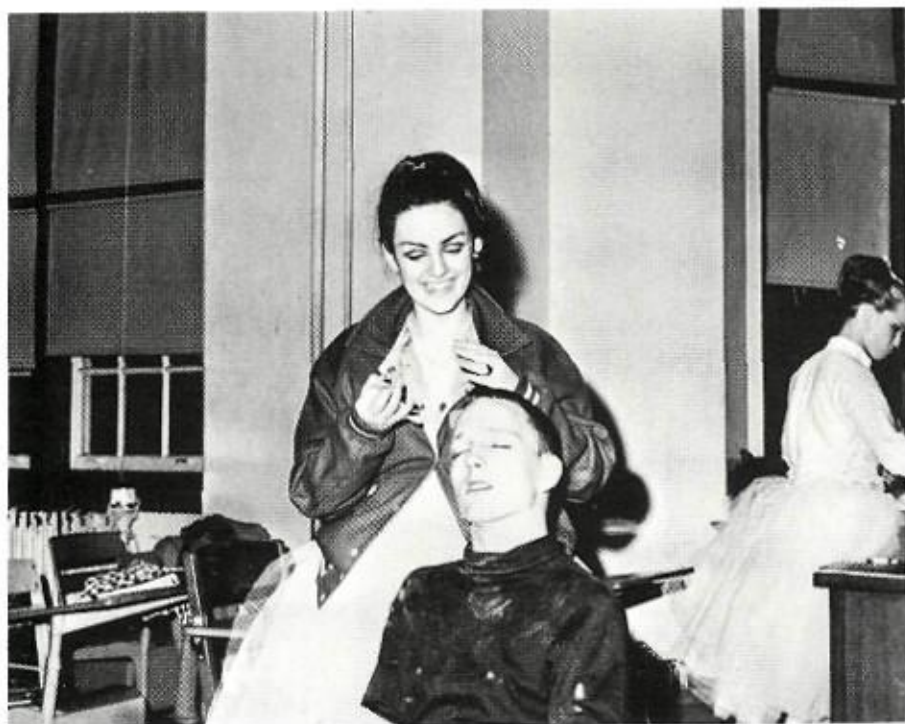

Boost Interest In Long February Month

Steve White and Jolynn Nelson, show their pride and eagerness as they are informed of their new positions as Senior Class officers.

During the annual Fire Prevention Assembly, Dallas Fire Department officers displayed the amazing effects of hair spray on fire.

"Please, Marena, don't turn me into a bat," Randy Fife begs Marena Raynor, his makeup artist during the atmosphere of magic that prevailed during either the Thursday matinee or Friday evening performance.

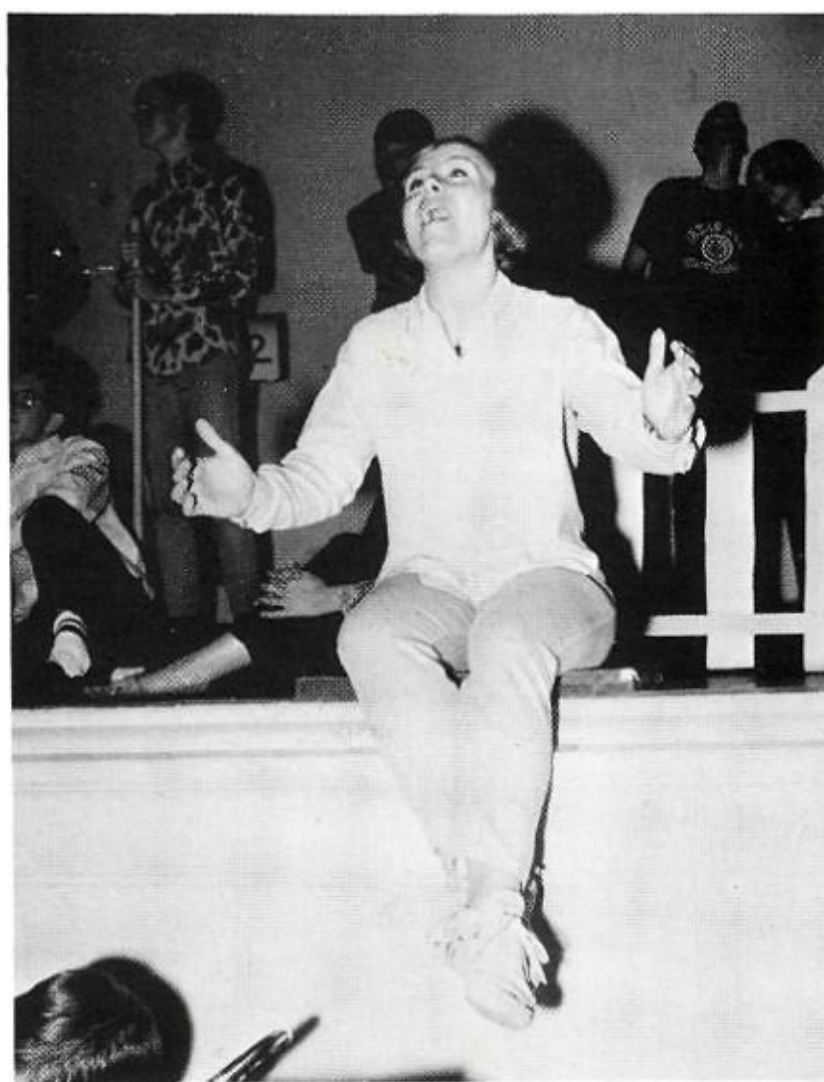

The cowardly King of Beasts (Rusty Brydon) exerts his authority over some spectators at rehearsal.

Nikki Heins, Leonard Butler, Vicki Whaley, and Mary Ann Spurgeon manage to be Wizards with makeup as they put on new faces for the children's matinee.

Alice Sooby aids Gary Okeson's musical talents as he plays for an "Oz" rehearsal.

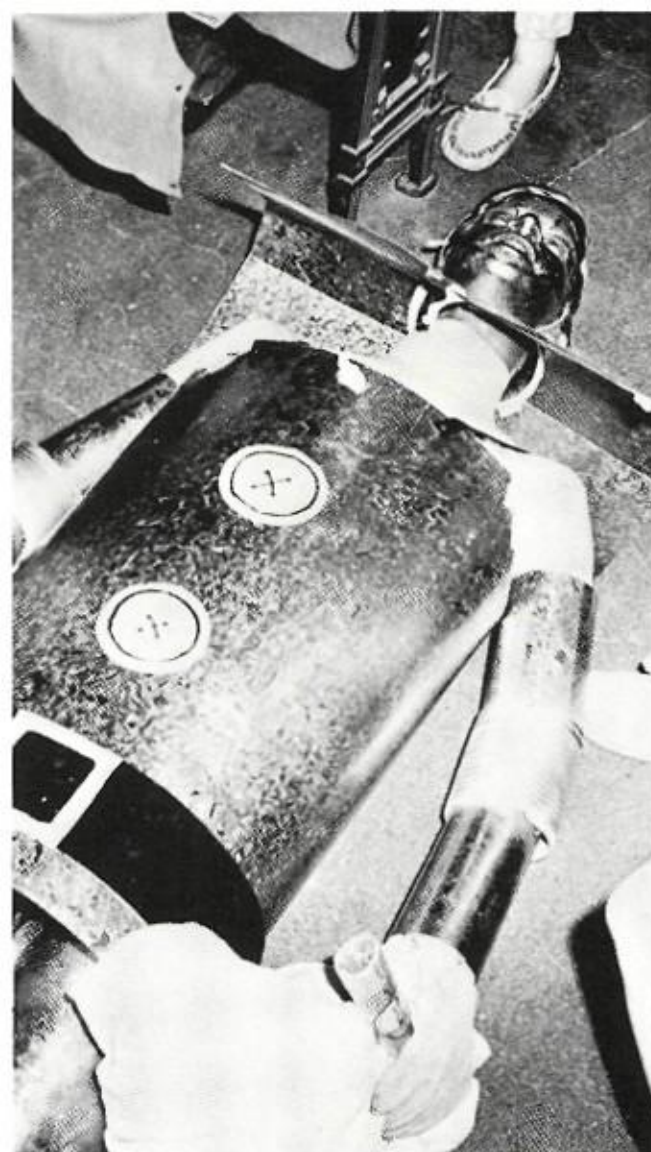

Dorothy perfects "Over the Rainbow" on the set of the Kansas farm in "The Wizard of Oz".

Speech Classes Leap Through February

Things are looking up! Miss Eckelman waves goodbye as Dorothy (Betty Housman) leaves the land of Oz.

"Don't ask me what it is—I just found it lying here. Maybe we could scrap it and use it for props ..." (Over Brad Taylor's dead body!)

Mr. Phil Johnson studies the results of his Ozian choreography at rehearsal.

Mr. Fred Marett takes daily crises "calmly" as the musical date nears.

Miss Eckelman grimaces as she faces one of many frustrating moments in the direction of the musical rehearsal.

Dorothy, portrayed by Betty Houseman, waves a sad farewell to The Land of Oz, as she takes off for Kansas.

Yellow Brick Road Leads Musica

John Vandertholen, an otherwise carefree scarecrow, bemoans his lack of brains and fear of matches.

Hesitant is hardly the word for the cowardly lion, played by Rusty Brydon, when he hears of the dangers hidden in the witch's castle.

The tinman, Brad Taylor, feels he would be the perfect man, "if he only had a heart!"

It's been fun this year! Melinda Stalcup

Mayor of Munchkinville, Dale Thomas, fearfully tells Dorothy of the forbidding forest between her and The Emerald City.

Dorothy tells Aunt Em of her make-believe world "somewhere over the rainbow."

Cast To Success In "The Wizard Of Oz"

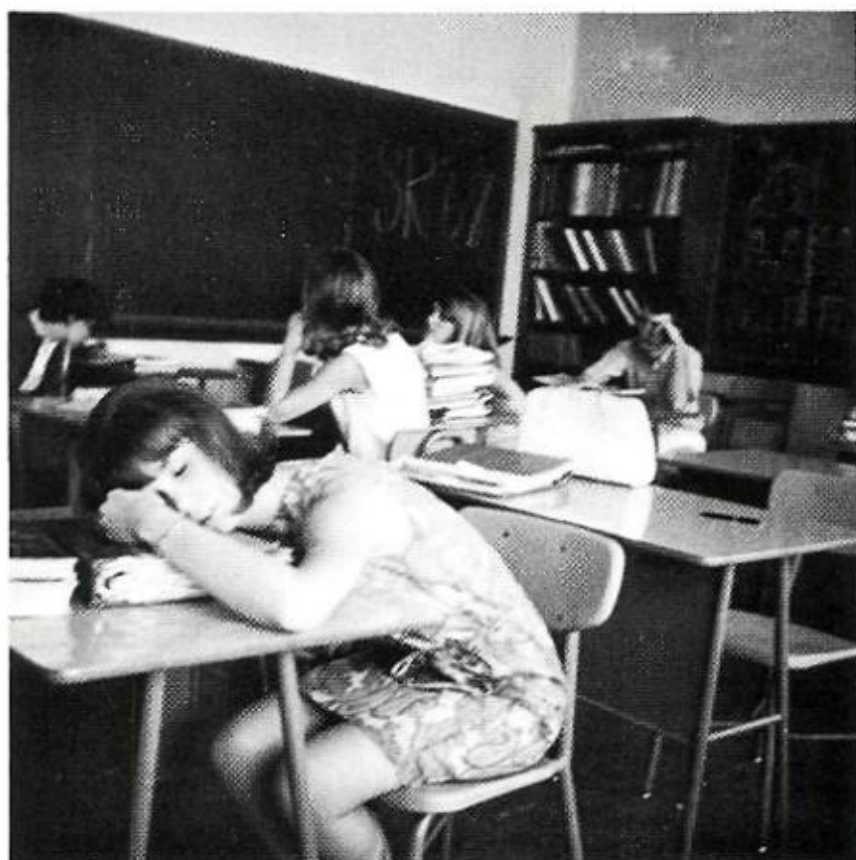

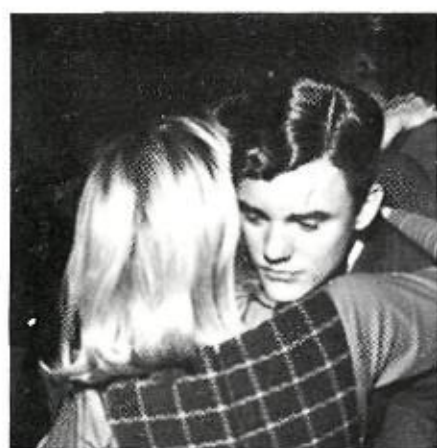

Snow Queen and King, Diane Smith and Warren Sibley, use their freezing power to overcome the witch's spell.

FACULTY

“Enthusiasm is the philosopher’s stone that transmutes dull tasks into delightful deeds.”

THE ADMINISTRATIVE STAFF

Seated: Mr. Hollis Allen, Asst. Superintendent, Administration; Mr. Don Matthews, Asst. Superintendent, Special Services; Mr. H. D. Pearson, Asst. Superintendent, Business; Dr. W. T. White, Superintendent of Schools; Dr. Frank Williams, Asst. Superintendent, Instruction; Dr. E. D. Walker, Asst. Superintendent, Personnel. Standing: Dale Douglas, Deputy Superintendent of Schools; Mr. C. C. Miller, Asst. Superintendent, Organization; Mr. Robert McKay, Asst. Superintendent, Operations.

Dr. W. T. White Retires After 23 Years

Written in the "Plan of Action" for the District Board of Education is this statement, "The welfare of the child is the center of all our thinking, of all our endeavor." Dr. Warren Travis White has seen that it has been carried out in the years that he has been Superintendent of Schools of the Dallas Independent School District.

Those elected to the Board of Education have been citizens of good community standing and have been representative of all business endeavors. The Board formulates the policies of the district, which policies Dr. White and his professional staff have executed well. Although any qualified voter residing in the Dallas Independent School District is a potential candidate for the Board of Education, the members are chosen with great care to fit the ever-increasing needs of the schools.

Under Dr. White's capable supervision, the majority of the high schools in Dallas were redistricted last year, giving Woodrow an additional five-hundred students who had attended (or would have attended) Bryan Adams and other schools. All Dallas schools were desegregated also.

After a successful twenty three years, Dr. Warren Travis White will meet a well-earned retirement and thus give another capable man an opportunity to further the cause of education in Dallas. Dr. White, the Woodrow Wilson CRUSADER salutes you!

Dr. Warren Travis White

Harris Regarded Highly By Teachers

"He really knows what he's doing", was the comment of a Woodrow Wilson teacher about Principal Paul Harris after Mr. Harris began his fifth year at Woodrow Wilson. "He never forgets what he promises", observed another. "An unbelievably tireless worker . . . don't see how he does it all." say others.

After graduating from Highland Park High School, Mr. Harris attended Southern Methodist University and The University of Texas and has a B.A. degree in biology, and an M.A. degree in education. His chief interests are art, wood carving, and young people. He and his wife, Clara, and four children, Nancy, Geoffrey, Paul, Jr., and Lee Anne, are active in church and civic affairs.

Paul MacDonald Harris, Principal

Wayne Pierce, Assistant Principal

Assistant Principal Both Friendly And Firm

An air of friendliness and perseverance have combined to make the words "assistant principal" synonymous with the word "friend". Serving his fifth year as assistant principal, Mr. Wayne Pierce has thoroughly succeeded in making Woodrow love and respect him.

Former Hillcrest head basketball coach, Mr. Pierce has coached or participated in sports all his life and most of his outside interests revolve around athletics. He emphasizes the fact that it is not the games, but the individuals who play them that are important.

Mr. Pierce holds a Master's degree in Education from East Texas State University. He and his wife, Jean, are the parents of three: two daughters and one son. His oldest daughter, Becky, is a senior at Woodrow this year.

Mr. Pierce is known to the students for his informal chats in the halls, his jokes in the lunchroom, his inspirational short talks at pep assemblies, and an open office door for any student with a problem.

Mrs. Hazel Moore,
Clerk, Principal's Office

Mrs. Ruby Fae Angell
Secretary to Principal

Efficiency — Office Staff, Nurse's Goal

Too often, too little credit has been given to the hardworking personnel of the principal's office, data processing center, and nurse. In the principal's office, Mrs. Moore's clerical duties included the handling of money, reports to the administration for the accounts, and the sales of bus cards and parking decals.

Mrs. Angell, as Mr. Harris' secretary, sent out bulletins and correspondence from the principal's office. She also organized the placing of substitute teachers.

In the data processing center, Mrs. Betty Jones survived in a sea of IBM cards, forms, and attendance sheets. Generally, her job could have been summed up as handling pupil-personnel records, but this included such detailed tasks as preparing teachers' grade books, keeping permanent taped records of students' grades, printing the attendance lists, and the massive task of readying report cards.

The nurse's official duties included checking student and employee health, keeping records and arranging conferences with pupils. She was an important and necessary member of the crew that made the school function properly. This year, for the first time, she checked employees' tuberculin skin tests, thus replacing the required chest X-rays.

Pupil Personnel Counselor

Usually Taken For Granted

Students often take for granted the expert assistance given them by the professional staff of the school. Woodrow Wilson is blessed—so the administration thinks—with unusually well qualified counselors and other professional people.

The staff of the Pupil Personnel Counselor handled the bulk of distress calls: "I left my Algebra book at home!" "May I go to the parking lot to see if my car's still there?", and other miniature daily crises. They checked absences and tardies, sometimes by telephone, and they checked the written notes explaining irregularities in attendance. By such pupil accounting they kept things running smoothly. This year Mrs. Ellis replaced Mrs. Conner, who served in a study hall.

In the Educational Counselor's office, programs were adjusted, educational problems solved, and futures planned. Within those walls nervous sophomores learned what they would need to graduate, and more-nervous seniors were sometimes told they may not graduate. They received advice about college, and were prepared for the big step with books of tests and information that would help them choose a career. Transcripts were also handled through this office. Each pupil in Woodrow Wilson was assigned to one of three educational counselors for the length of his stay.

Books are constantly being added to the Woodrow Wilson Library. This year approximately 1,800 new volumes were cataloged and shelved. "It's a real problem to know where to put them, but all are needed," said Librarian Mary Ann Dodd. New help is required for the increased tasks. Last year Miss Elaine Greer joined the library staff.

Teachers have praised the staff for its efficient handling of the library study classes and the assistance given to individuals.

Every day hundreds, it seems, of pieces of pink, white, yellow, and blue papers are delivered to students with urgent commands inscribed on them to come see the counselors, principals, librarians, or nurse. In addition to the duty of delivering these slips, records must be picked up from each classroom at every hour of the day. Because the professional staff do not have time to perform all these tasks, which involve covering a great deal of distance over all the building, volunteer student helpers provide the necessary assistance for these jobs. Thanks are due and, indeed, thanks are expressed to these students who give up study time to work in the counselors' offices, the nurse's office, the principal's office, and the Data Processing Center.

Woodrow's English Teacher

From the miserly Silas Marner to the courageous Beowulf, Woodrow students are immersed in the super-abundance of the people, places, and times of literature. Few people escape the claws of such seemingly innocent lines as, "I'm nobody, who are you?"

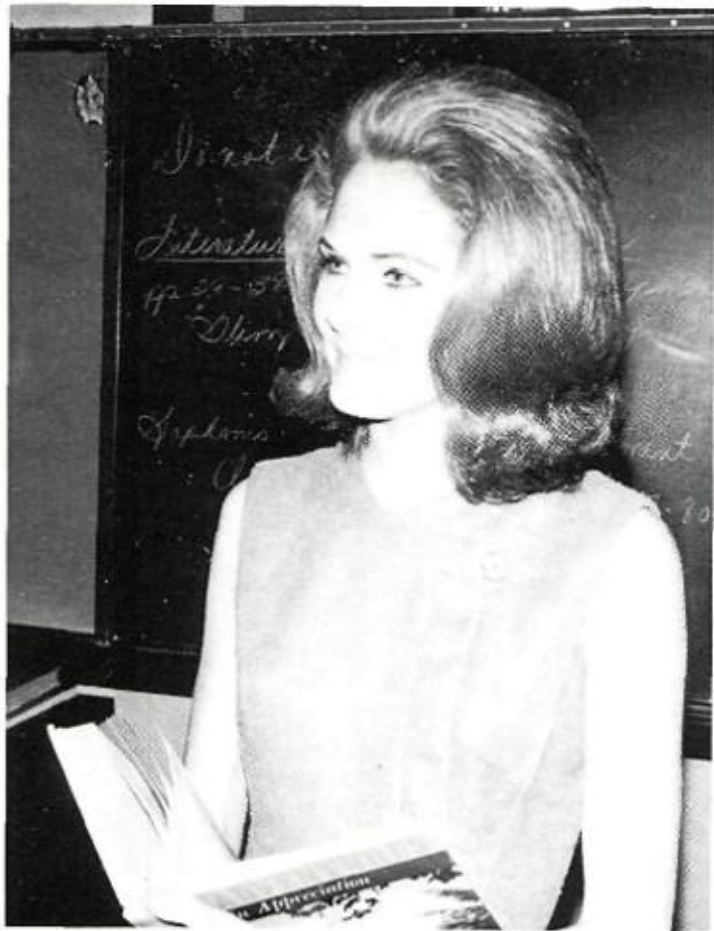

The English department at Woodrow, however is not composed of evil, crafty teachers who compete for failures, but instead, includes some of the most helpful and useful members of the faculty. Although Mrs. Elizabeth Enlow, veteran senior English teacher, left us to become a counselor at Bryan Adams, this year, five new teachers were added to this department. They were: Mrs. Leoda Evans, Mrs. Barbara Mays, Mrs. Julia Harmon, and Mrs. Robert Baker. Woodrow is fortunate to have these ladies join a group that fully accepts and carries out the vital task of laying the foundation of the English language in its students.

Each day, classes ranging from heterogeneously-grouped sophomore English to college freshman English convened to study what has been called "the greatest possession we have." To the English course of study had been added the study of linguistics—the science of language, which, students say, proved very effective in helping students improve their conversational English.

Woodrow Wilson English teachers were proud to have one of their number, Mr. Oather Raynes, elected president of the District V (North Texas) division of the Texas State Teachers Association for this year.

A new approach to social studies teaching was in use this year at Woodrow Wilson, thus keeping this field of the curriculum in step with the New Math and New English. The emphasis in history courses has shifted from the objective importance of names and dates to the ideas and thoughts behind these facts. The vast panorama of history was brought into clearer focus as Woodrow Wilson students realized the forces shaping the world today.

To help project this new outlook in the area of social studies, Mr. Mike Stuart and Mrs. Betty Black, both new to Woodrow this year, taught world history and American history.

New types of visual aids were being used increasingly in social studies. This year Woodrow Wilson has acquired two units of a new type of projector, the "Pixmobile," a portable projector screen that can easily be used in the classroom to supplement discussions. Transparent overlays of maps and charts were used more than ever here this year to illustrate progress of time and area, a vital aid to the study of history.

The color and variety offered in the history department make the subject fascinating to many Woodrow Wilson students.

New Sequence of Mathematics Course

Mr. Irvin Hill, B.A., M.A.

Students who faced the ever-widening challenge of mathematics this year followed a new sequence of courses, beginning with algebra 1 and 2, and followed by geometry 1 and 2, algebra 3 and 4, and, finally, trigonometry/analysis 8. Advanced mathematics was offered for those seniors who completed the honors program.

In addition to this new order of courses, Woodrow Wilson welcomed two new math teachers this year: Miss Ellen Kinzie and Mr. Robert Fulkerson.

New areas are constantly being opened up in which higher math is necessary. The fundamental ideas which are being taught in high school give students a clearer grasp of mathematical logic; they are essential for college and are involved in almost any vocation. The Woodrow Wilson mathematics department has been praised for its outstanding program.

This year the drafting students were welcomed to room 301 not by the usual twenty-eight old desks, marred with carved initials, geometric figures, and hopes, but by twenty-eight beautiful maple desks with the work tables covered with formica.

Five classes of future engineers meet in this classroom daily. The purpose of these classes was not only to help the students in their future professional and business careers but also to give them an understanding of size, quality, and form.

Woodrow Wilson had two classes of architectural drawing this year. These students entered The Student Home Planning Competition, submitting architectural drawings of homes and buildings. This competition was sponsored by the Dallas Home Builders Association. There were also two classes of general drafting and one class of technical drafting. These students entered the state-wide drawing contests, which are sponsored by Texas A&M University.

After school an advanced class was held. The group was made up of students especially interested in engineering and with better-than-average grades. The group not only discussed different types of architecture, but also took field trips together, and made project models.

Science Teaching Constantly Changes

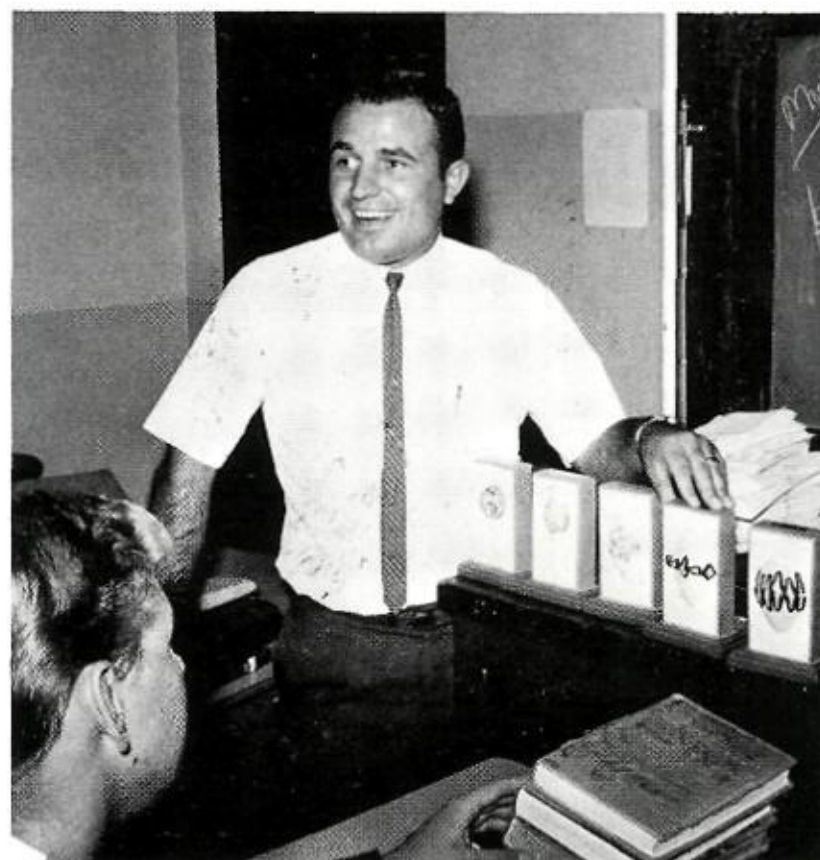

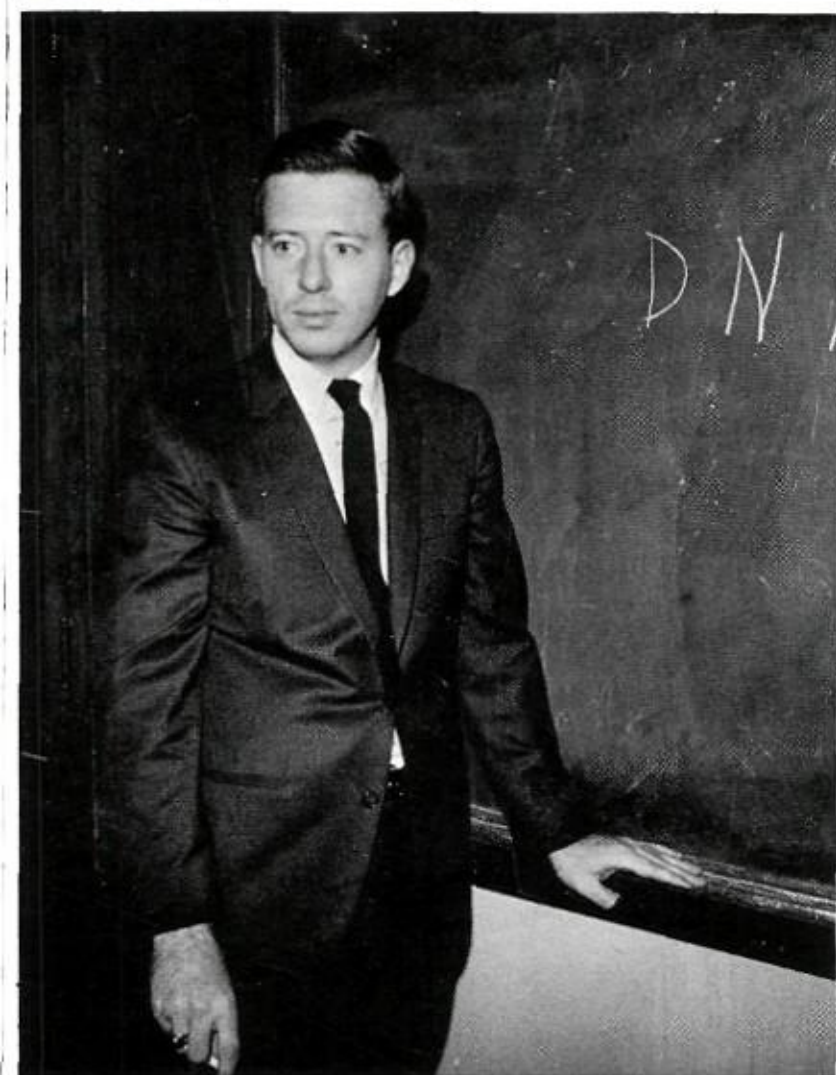

With new scientific discoveries emerging seemingly without letup, it has naturally followed that the educational methods in the field of science have changed numerous times and have been affected by such discoveries. For example, the structure of the DNA molecule has been emphasized more this past year in biology than in recent years. It was found to be very important in transmitting heredity and controlling cell activity.

Additions in the teaching staff of the science department of Woodrow Wilson included Mr. William Sandel and Mr. Larry Vermillion, one of whom replaced Mrs. Adelheit Harmon who left the biology department in the spring of 1967.

Frequent use was made of the new projector screen, and the "Pixmobile", last year, as well as other visual aids and models acquired for the teaching of difficult scientific concepts.

New Course In German

This year the guttural grumbling of German words could be heard in Miss Ellen Kinzie's room. The course, includes the useful aid of conversational tapes and flash cards for language curriculum. German was added to three other languages being taught currently: Latin, Spanish, and French. Miss Kinzie, a new-comer to Woodrow this year, hopes that in the future her day will be filled with a full program of German.

Miss Julie Everett replaced Mrs. Martha Currie, resigned, in the Spanish department this year.

Not requiring modern lab equipment nor some of the new ideas in modern language teaching, Latin continued to be a popular standby for many who feel the need of the disciplines and basics that it offers. The accent is on today in Latin, Miss Katharine Norman, teacher, avers. For example, the derivation of common American words from Latin words is studied, as well as the effect that the Roman civilization had on the modern world, in names, in customs, and the like. How have Roman times influenced our daily lives? What were the customs and ideas of the Romans, and how have we entwined these ancient philosophies into our thoughts today? These questions are answered in the Latin classes. A new teacher in Latin this year was Mrs. Donna Baker.

Several students of Miss Mabel Turman's advanced Spanish classes and Mr. Paul Allen's French classes took the oral supplementary achievement tests of the College Board Examinations this year and last year and earned extra college credit thereby. Mr. Allen conducted extra classes in advanced French after school hours for upper-level students.

Extended use was made of the new language laboratory in all the modern language classes.

200 Girls Choose Homemaking Classes

This year at Woodrow Wilson at least 200 girls chose to take courses in homemaking to better their knowledge of how to make a better home. There were two phases of homemaking taught in classes of foods and clothing.

In the cooking division, Mrs. Jane Shropshire taught her pupils how to plan and cook a meal quickly and inexpensively. But not only simple meals were prepared, occasionally the pupils prepared and served a full dinner to guests after school hours. Girls were taught the importance of nutrition and how to be a successful hostess.

Miss Sarah Stovall directed her students in the skills of purchasing material and sewing anything from mini-skirts to formals and presenting the art of family living and the care of clothing. Examples of patterns, rules, and even finished dresses, could be seen on the bulletin board of room 214 this year. The best of the clothes that were made were taken to the Crafts Fair in May and presented for exhibition. A course in home and family living was also a part of Miss Stovall's curriculum. This included a study of the importance of a family, responsibilities of married life, and homemaking as a career.

Although both teachers had a majority of their classes in homemaking, both added English to their programs this year.

Woodrow Wilson's reputation for outstanding drama was again shown this year as Miss Helen Eckelman and Mr. Fred Marett took responsibility for the production of the musical "The Wizard of Oz", and Mrs. Sharon Spalding took charge of the one-act play and the Senior Play.

Both Mrs. Spalding and Miss Eckelman had talented speech classes that presented fine pep assembly skits to the student body during the football season this year. Students in Miss Eckelman's classes also studied pantomimes and scenes from plays, while Mrs. Spalding's students undertook interviews and children's theatre. Mrs. Spalding also took many students to Inter-Scholastic League speech contests last year. Suzie Cox and Margaret Maggard won first place in duet acting in one contest.

Mr. Fred Marett directed all the choral parts of the musical. The chorus was presented on the Christmas Program during the holiday season.

The services of Mr. Franklin Washburn, orchestra director and Mr. Jack Stevenson, art instructor, were vital to the success of the musical. The art students designed and made the scenery. The art department boasts a new castor, received this year, that enabled its students to cast metallic jewelry.

The new Wildcat Band director, Mr. Jay Richey presented a "new" Band to Wildcats this year. Mr. Richey took the Band to contests, and arranged for them to march in parades—activities new to the Wildcat Band.

Makes Changes, Improvements This Year

Many changes and improvements have enhanced the business department of Woodrow this year. With the addition of more adding machines shared between the bookkeeping and V.O.E. classes, the number of the machines was increased to twelve, more than allotted to any other high school in Dallas. The typing classes were equipped with many new typewriters. The newest innovation in teaching typing was the use of music. Records were set according to the speed of the students, who typed to the definite rhythms.

A new machine was being used this year in the shorthand classes. It is called a Console and dictates to second year students at their own individual speed, several groups at a time.

Distributive Education, Industrial Cooperative Training and Vocational Office Education were available this year to students interested in going to school half a day and working the other half. Mr. J. E. Cogswell was new to Woodrow this year, replacing Mr. R. E. Sanders who transferred to another school. Vocational Office Education, new to Woodrow last year was taught for students interested in secretarial work. The student must be a senior, must not be failing any subject and have had a year of typing, or bookkeeping and typing, or typing and shorthand to be considered. Students should prepare for the course in their junior year, in order to fulfill the qualifications. The better a student is in typing or the other subjects, the better job he will obtain. Boys, also are in a great demand for these jobs.

Business math taught students to become sharp in the use of basic math for future contact with the business world.

This was the third year "Powderpuff" football had been taught to the weaker sex, so they might have some knowledge of the basic mechanics of high school spirit. Volleyball, basketball were also included in the various sports that both boys' and girls' P.E. classes actively participated in throughout the year. Three times a year the P.E. students strained unused muscles doing push-ups, sit-ups, five-minute runs and twenty-second arm holds for the physical fitness tests.

The purpose of the R.O.T.C. was to make cadets better citizens. Colonel Schafer was assisted by Sergeant Salisbury, U.S. Army, who was new this year to Woodrow, having replaced Sergeant Ward, who retired at the close of last year. Learning general orders, marching, exercising the manual of arms, and disciplined training composed the everyday routine for the 100 cadets. This training, with classes in marksmanship, map reading, weapons, and defenses, was brought to a climax by federal inspection in March.

Mr. Dwain Dawson instructed four classes in Drivers' Education and Mr. James Bain taught one such class. About forty students took this course the first semester—a considerable improvement over last year. The main cause of this increase was a law that went into effect in August providing that no one under 18 could obtain a drivers' license without "Behind-the-Wheel" training.

Who has never entered Woodrow Wilson High School before the 8:30 bell and noticed the clean halls and straightened chairs? However, it was not a "Bewitched" Samantha who deftly twitched her nose and eradicated all that carelessly dropped litter and the inevitable mud and dirt from some forty-five classrooms and the corridors. A corps of ten custodians, headed by Mr. C. C. Jackson, is on duty from 7 a.m. to 10:30 p.m. on school days. On some school holidays, though, these nine men and one lady wax and scrub floors. Other daily tasks include locking and unlocking doors, sweeping, emptying baskets and washing windows and walls. Two men and one woman make up the day shift. At night seven men, headed by Mr. Grady Power, carried on the custodial duties.

Despite their goodnatured jibes that arise typically from school pupils everywhere, the patrons of the Woodrow Wilson lunchroom sincerely appreciate the lunchroom staff. These hard-working ladies make every effort to furnish their customers the best balanced and tastiest fare possible for the money. Not infrequently does one hear the comment "Those hamburgers were good!" and "Best desserts anywhere in Dallas!"

Even at the slightly increased price this year of the plate lunch—which was raised from 27c to 32c—most Wilsonites agree that the food is a bargain.

The 1968 football season proved the sportswriters wrong again. This time to the Wildcats' displeasure the Cats were picked to win their zone but came in sixth place instead. It is not "alibi-ing" to report that Woodrow was plagued by unlucky breaks, with several players injured in the games. Although the Wildcats were defeated by Longview in the first game of the season, Big Red came back spirited to win over Mesquite, Washington and Adamson. The hope of making the sportswriters' predictions for once came true, was soaring high; then the Wildcats suffered a heartbreaking loss to SOC. From then on it seemed downhill until victory came again in the final game of the season against North Dallas. Thsi win was the Cats' final effort to gain the recognition they deserved.

tirelessly To Prepare For Contests

This year the five Managers of the varsity football team were Gilbert Rodriquez, Bebb Francis, James Shepelwich, and head manager Dale Thomas.

Bobby Campbell (22) carries a punt 45 yards for Woodrow's sole touchdown in the Longview game.

On Friday, September 8, the Woodrow Wilson Wildcats began the season with a disappointing 10-7 loss to the Longview Lobos. Winning the toss, the East Texans elected to receive. Hindered with penalties, they were forced to settle with a 31-yard field goal by Ralph Blount. Lobo end Rodney Hill found paydirt in the second quarter with a 39-yard pass from QB Steve Judy. The extra point was good, and Longview led 10-0 at halftime.

With the clock showing 8:37 in the final period, the Wildcats stalled the Lobos deep in their own territory, forcing them to punt. Bobby Campbell received the ball at mid-field and sprinted the full distance to put the cats on the scoreboard. The extra point conversion was successful, ending the scoring with the Wildcats on the short end, 7-10.

Longview Spoils Wildcats' Opener

Wildcats Demolish Skeeters 20-0

The "Big Red" showed their ability to win as they topped the Mesquite Skeeters 20-0 Friday, September 15, on their own field. Havoc began as the Cats recovered a fumble snap from center for a punt on the one-half yard line. Greg Clark plunged over the line in the next play for the initial touchdown. The PAT was good, and with 20 seconds left in the first period, Woodrow had a 7-0 lead.

In the second period, the Wildcats began a drive at their 22. A 33-yard pass to Larry Karl and a 27-yard run by Greg Clark led up to the climaxing 5-yard TD pass to John Burkholder.

With 5:14 left in the game, Larry Karl hauled in a 13-yard pass to top off a 65-yard drive. Ronnie Caddell added the point after the touchdown to give the Cats a 20-0 win.

Roy Norman (25) tramples the Skeeters in the mud in a quick opener.

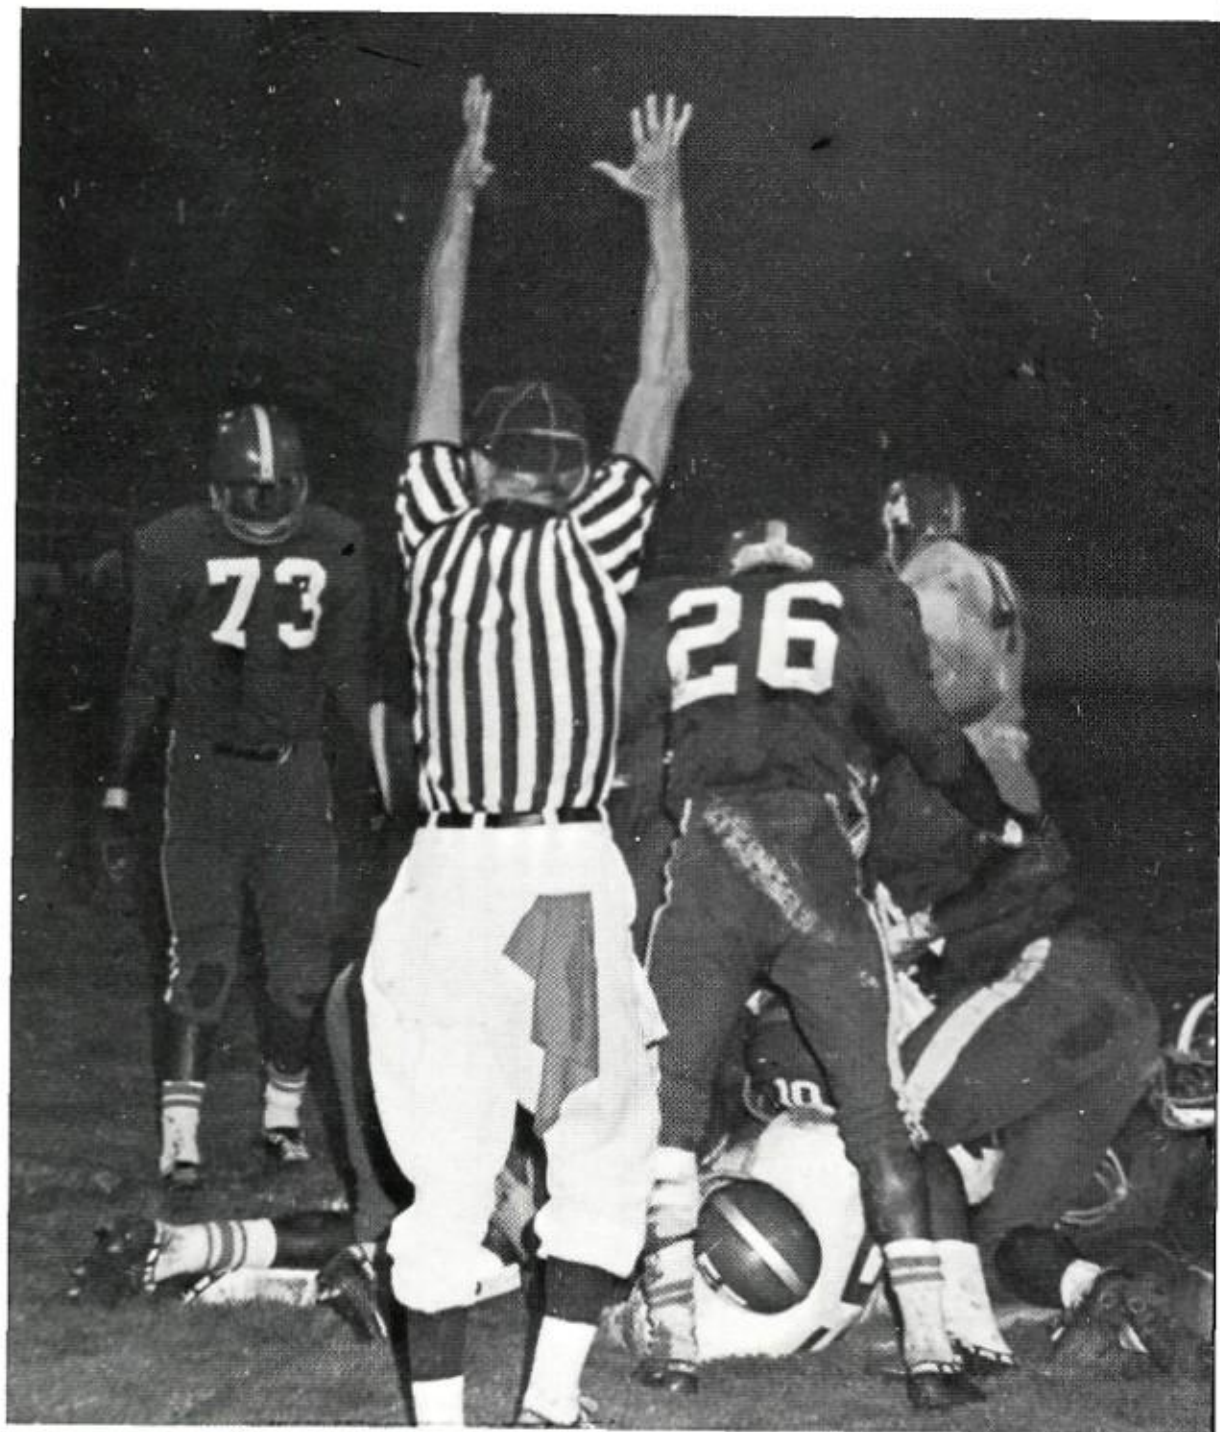

Cats' Knock Off Fir

The Wildcats initiated their conference season with an overwhelming 39-14 victory over the Booker T. Washington Bulldogs.

Woodrow tallied with touchdown drives of 38, 52, 39, 23, 39, and 37 yards. Roy Norman, the leading ground gainer with 143 yards, scored two TD's with runs of 52 and 39 yards. Greg Clark added one with a 4-yard thrust. Quarter-back Raymond Seith sneaked from the one, and Ronnie Caddell threw a scoring strike to Bobby Campbell from the Bulldog 37-yard line. The defense had a great deal to do with the score. Two TD's were set up by blocked punts, one by a fumble recovery, and one by a pass interception. The first Bulldog score came in the second quarter with a 70-yard pass interception. This left the score 19-7 at the half. Washington scored again after a punt was blocked on the Wildcat 39-yard line and center Robert Brown carried the pigskin over the line.

"Touchdown Wildcats" is the shout heard round the field as Raymond Seith (10) sneaks forward for the second TD.

one Opponents

The Wildcat defense is really on the ball as they haul down an Adamson Leopard.

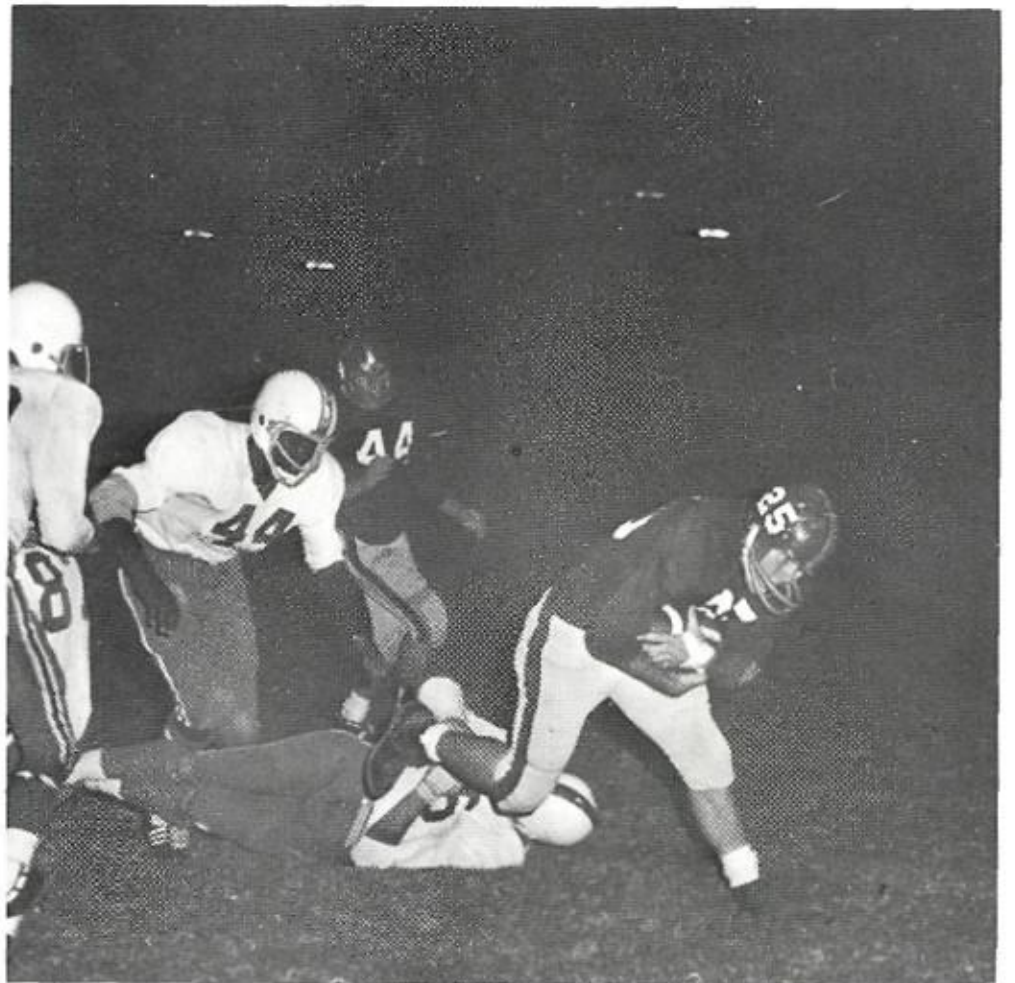

Woodrow was led by fullback Greg Clark to a 19-0 victory over the Adamson Leopards. Clark covered 124 yards in 17 carries to spark the Wildcat offense.

Midway through the first period Clark plowed 59 yards through center for the initial touchdown. He added the second tally with 8:02 left in the half by blasting 23 yards, climaxing a 53-yard drive.

With 48 seconds showing on the clock, Roy Norman shot over the middle to leave the score at halftime 19-0.

Adamson threatened in the third period when they marched to the Cat's 13-yard line, but were halted by the Wildcat's tough defense.

Shaking a Leopard tackler, Wildcat Roy Norman (25) goes for the third and final touchdown in the Adamson game.

In an ocean of helmets, Coach Miles plans his last minute strategy for the SOC game.

SOC Game Cramps Wildcat's Style

Woodrow's hope of repeating as 6-AAAA south zone champs were dimmed with the South Oak Cliff Golden Bears upset the Wildcats with a score of 20-9.

The Golden Bears' defense was undoubtedly largely responsible for the win. The Wildcats gained only two first downs through the entire first three quarters. The amazing abilities of the Bears were also shown as they held the Cats on the one-yard line. The Cats offense gained a total of only 22 yards and one first down in the half.

The Bears' offense was also rolling with bulldozer force. Hadge Mitchell, stellar half-back, gained 135 yards rushing. A pass interception gave the Bruins their first TD with 5:05 left in the first quarter. Frankie Blair blocked a SOC punt in the second quarter and recovered the ball in the end zone for a safety, putting the Cats on the scoreboard at the half.

With one minute left in the game, Woodrow got its touchdown after Ken Kuesel recovered a SOC fumble. From there, Greg Clark made the score. Ronnie Caddell's point-after kick was good, leaving the score 20-9 at the end of the game.

Larry Karl (19) runs back a Golden Bear kick-off for a substantial gain.

Friday The 13th Proves Unlucky For Cats

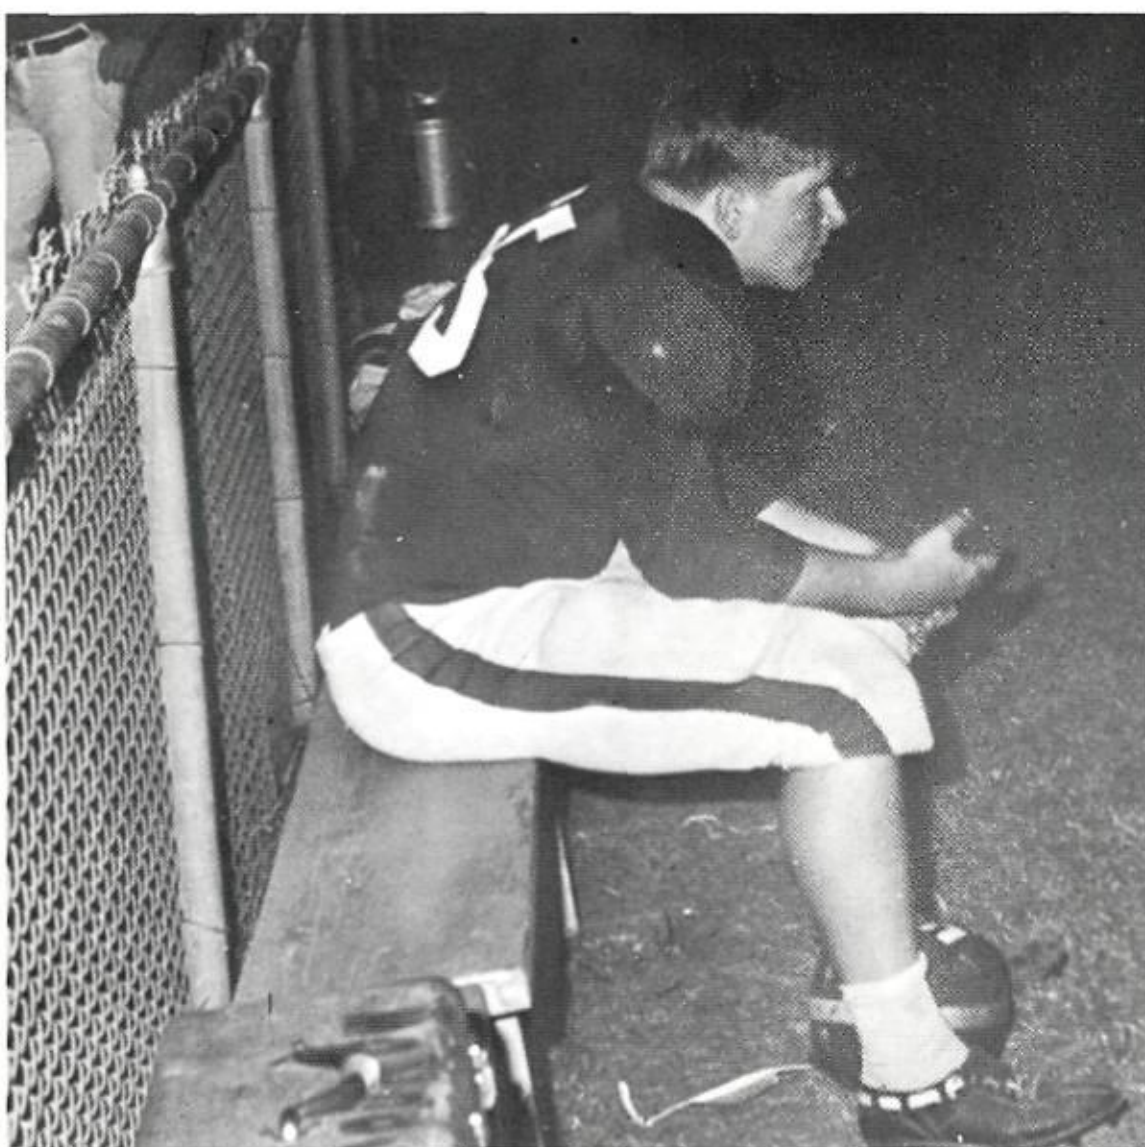

The bad luck of Friday the 13th prevailed on the Wildcats as they were crushed by the Carter Cowboys.

Woodrow was a 3-touchdown favorite as they met the Cowboys for the first time, but Carter was determined for an upset. The Wildcats were forced to give up the ball six times on fourth down, and five of those times the Cats were inside the Carter 30-yard line.

After Carter's first kick the Wildcats drove to their one, but were held. Undauntedly, the Cats came back again to the Carter 12, and again could gain no ground. In the second and third quarters, Big Red went to the Carter 26, 27, and 17-yard line, but they could go no further. In the fourth quarter the Wildcats made it only to the Carter 39.

Roy Norman (25) out-manuevers a Carter player, but the Cats lost 13-0.

Injured Wildecat Malcolm Branch reluctantly warms the bench while his teammates try to hold the Carter Cowboys.

Larry Karl (19) lunges for a Kimball Knight (11) in an effort to prevent any yard gainage.

Knight Descends Upon W. W. Wildcats

John Burkholder (88) sees some "daylight" and clips off good yardage in the Kimball game.

The Kimball Knights out-joisted the Wildcats by a heartbreaking score of 7-6 Thursday, October 19.

The Wildcats started the scoring with 10 minutes left in the second quarter. The Knights, on their 39-yard line, were facing fourth down and 14 yards to go. Their punter Michael Hanes booted the pigskin 36 yards to Theron Mabry who broke loose for 72 yards, and the extra-point kick failed.

The second half was all Kimball. The Wildcats were held for only two first downs and 17 plays the entire half by the Kimball defense.

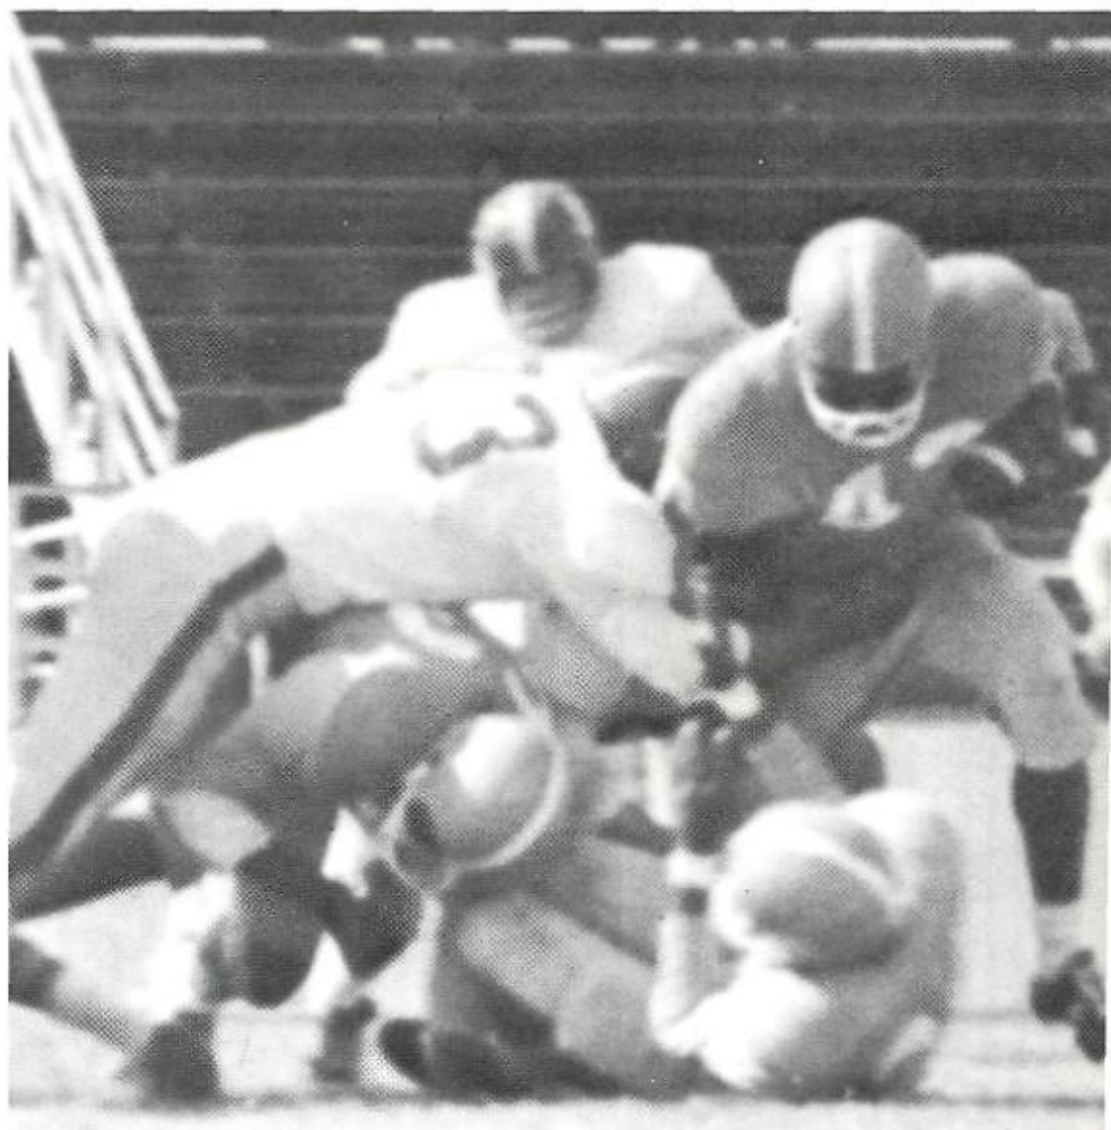

The Knights started their winning drive late in the fourth quarter. In 18 downs Kimball traveled 74 yards for the TD with only 41 seconds left on the clock. The extra point kick was good, adding the game-winning point. The effective Wildcat defense can be accredited to Greg Clark, Ken Kuesel, and John Burkholder.

A sunny Saturday afternoon seemed gloomy for Woodrow Wilson as the Roosevelt Mustangs rambled for 27 points in the fourth quarter and a 30-21 victory.

Big Red dominated the first three quarters and held a 7-3 lead at the beginning of the fourth. The Wildcats were first to get on the scoreboard by converting a fumble into six points, when Ronnie Caddell hit Lawrence Payne in the end zone. Caddell's kick was perfect.

With 2:39 left in the first half, Roosevelt's Edgar Robinson booted a 33-yard field goal. This set the stage for a scoring spree, involving both teams. Wilson took advantage of two pass-interference calls to move 54 yards in 10 plays, with Ralph Brownell sneaking from the one for the score. The PAT was wide. Woodrow's third tally came when Bobby Campbell dived over from the one. Raymond Seith passed to Payne for two points, to climax a 60-yard drive.

Then the Mustangs broke loose, Cecil Rar-tee hit Donald Mitchell for a TD pass of 74-yards. Mitchell again went in from the one, following a Wildcat fumble. Two more TD's were made before the Mustangs were finished.

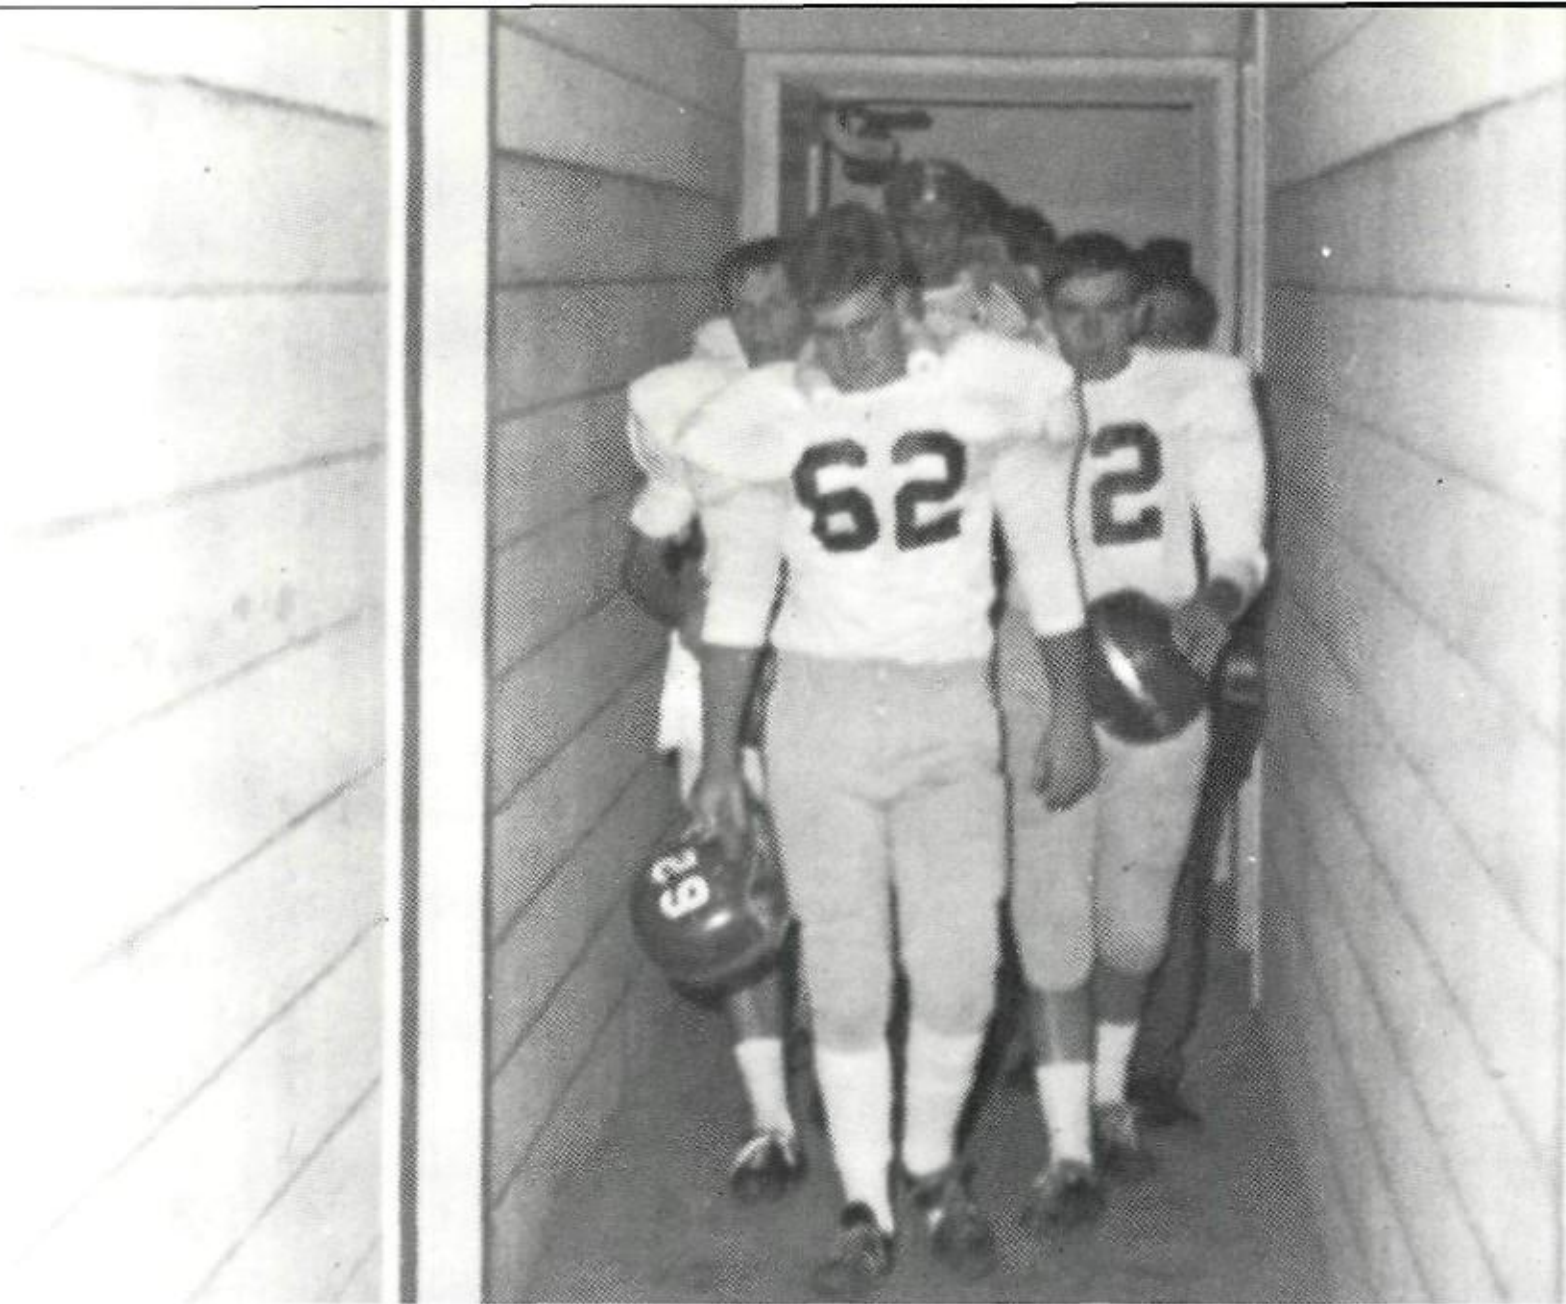

Roy Topham (63) makes a crushing tackle on a Roosevelt player to stop him for short yardage.

Mustangs Stampede Over Wildcats

Bobby Campbell (22) shows his joy after thrusting from the one for Woodrow's third touchdown.

Solemn but undaunted, the Wildcats return to the locker room at half time trailing Sunset 12-0.

Bisons Trample Wildcats Under, 18-0

Defensive back Bobby Campbell receives a Bison punt and runs it back for good yardage.

On Friday night November 4, the Woodrow Wilson Wildcats lost their Homecoming game to the Sunset Bisons 18-0 at Cobb Stadium.

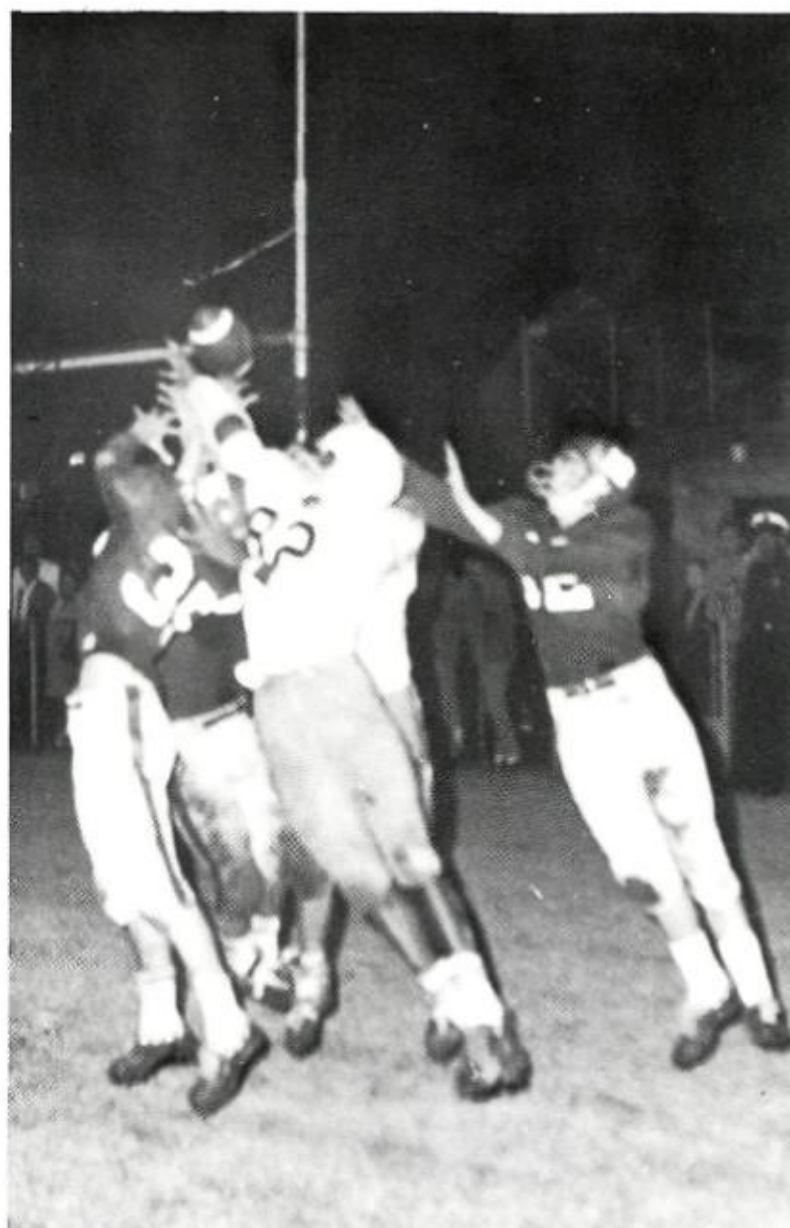

The Bisons had not been scored-on in zone play previous to the Woodrow game. The Cats threatened to score five times—once from the Sunset five—but were halted each time by the tough defense of the Bisons. Three lost fumbles and three pass interceptions also made it hard for the Wildcats.

The first quarter was played fairly evenly by both teams and was scoreless. Sunset struck early in the second period when Bison halfback Cliff Crabtree leaped over from the two to make the score 6-0. Crabtree scored all the points in the game with another TD run of 33-yards in the second period and a third 6-pointer in the fourth from the 7-yard line.

After a five-game losing streak, the Wildcats came back with a decisive victory of 35-0 over the North Dallas Bulldogs.

Throughout the ballgame, Woodrow Wilson completely dominated the Bulldogs. The Wildcats used 23 plays and went 79 yards in the first 13 minutes and 23 seconds of the game, only to be stopped on the two yard-line. This, at first glance, threatened to be a close contest.

In the second quarter, the Wildcats set everyone straight, though. The Cats drove, successively, 39 yards, 28 yards, 41 yards and 43 yards in seven minutes and 23 seconds. At the end of each drive was a touchdown. The first score was a pass from Raymond Seith to Lawrence Payne. Greg Clark made the second, Roy Norman scored the third and Bobby Campbell rambled for the fourth. Larry Karl kicked for two one-pointers, and Greg Clark ran for two extra points. At the half the score was 28-0. The final Wildcat TD was made by Greg Clark in the third quarter. Larry Karl's extra point kick was good leaving the score 35-0 at the end of the game.

Such situations as these are a referee's nightmare. In this case no one held the pass intended for Woodrow's Theron Mabry (35).

The Wildkitten Football team this year showed their skills by defeating all of their opponents, except one. They lost a close game to Kimball, 18-20.

The B-Team had an excellent offense which racked up a total of 242 points for the season. The defense is not to be forgotten either, having yielded only 64 points all year to such tough teams as Bryan Adams, South Oak Cliff, and Sunset.

Some of the outstanding players were Ronnie Masson, Tommy Short, Ward Dixon, David Rogers, Travis Mc Laughlin, Tom Thurman, Joe Gallini, Mark Arrington, Jeff Senter, Tom Moore, Ken Cooper, Robin Kilmer, Dennis Hartnutt, Mike Fannin, and Jim Schultz. Managers George Sherian, Philip Cortney, Rex Amend, Ronnie Nelson, and Jimmy Rodriguez aided coaches Dwain Dawson, Don Byars, and Robert Greene in getting the Kittens in readiness for each game. Many of the members will return next year on the varsity team, which promises to be formidable.

Woodrow's '67, '68 basketball team ended the season in fifth place in the City South Zone with a 2-8 record and a 6-21 season tally. Many of the losses were very close, as was the one-point loss to H. Grady Spruce. The cagers averaged 53 points in the ten district games.

Training began early in the summer. The team, coached by James Bain, practiced early in the morning and in the afternoons. During school, they practiced the sixth period and after school. During the Christmas holidays, the Wildcats went to the Dr Pepper Basketball Tournament. They won the first game against Bishop Dunne 65-54, only to lose to the highly favored Spartans of Dallas' Samuel 66-44. Ken Nalley, All-City honorable mention, will return next year with the other juniors, who look very promising.

Basketball, Favorite Sport In Girls' P.E.

Miss Lola Greaves, the new P.E. instructor, demonstrates the correct procedure for dribbling a basketball to some not-too-enthusiastic on-lookers.

From football to baseball the girls' gym classes followed the instructions of Miss Clifford and Miss Bless through many aches and pains. The year started with general instructions on football and how to play and watch the game.

Volleyball came up next, and the swift competition began. Tournaments lasted to the end of the first semester, with the winning team playing the all-stars, the best players of the losing teams.

The second semester brought not only a new competitive sport, but also a new gym instructor, Miss Lola Greaves taking the place of Miss Betsy Clifford, who resigned to enjoy a life of leisure for a spell. Each class participated in the basketball tournaments until the spring months arrived. Along with spring usually comes thoughts of flowers and boyfriends and, of course, softball. The year closes with "fond" memories of sore muscles, sprained ankles, and wind-blown hair.

P. E. Classes Offer Keen Competition

Indoor sports such as volleyball and basketball captivate the attention and participation of the gym classes.

The boys do calisthenics each day before they begin class.

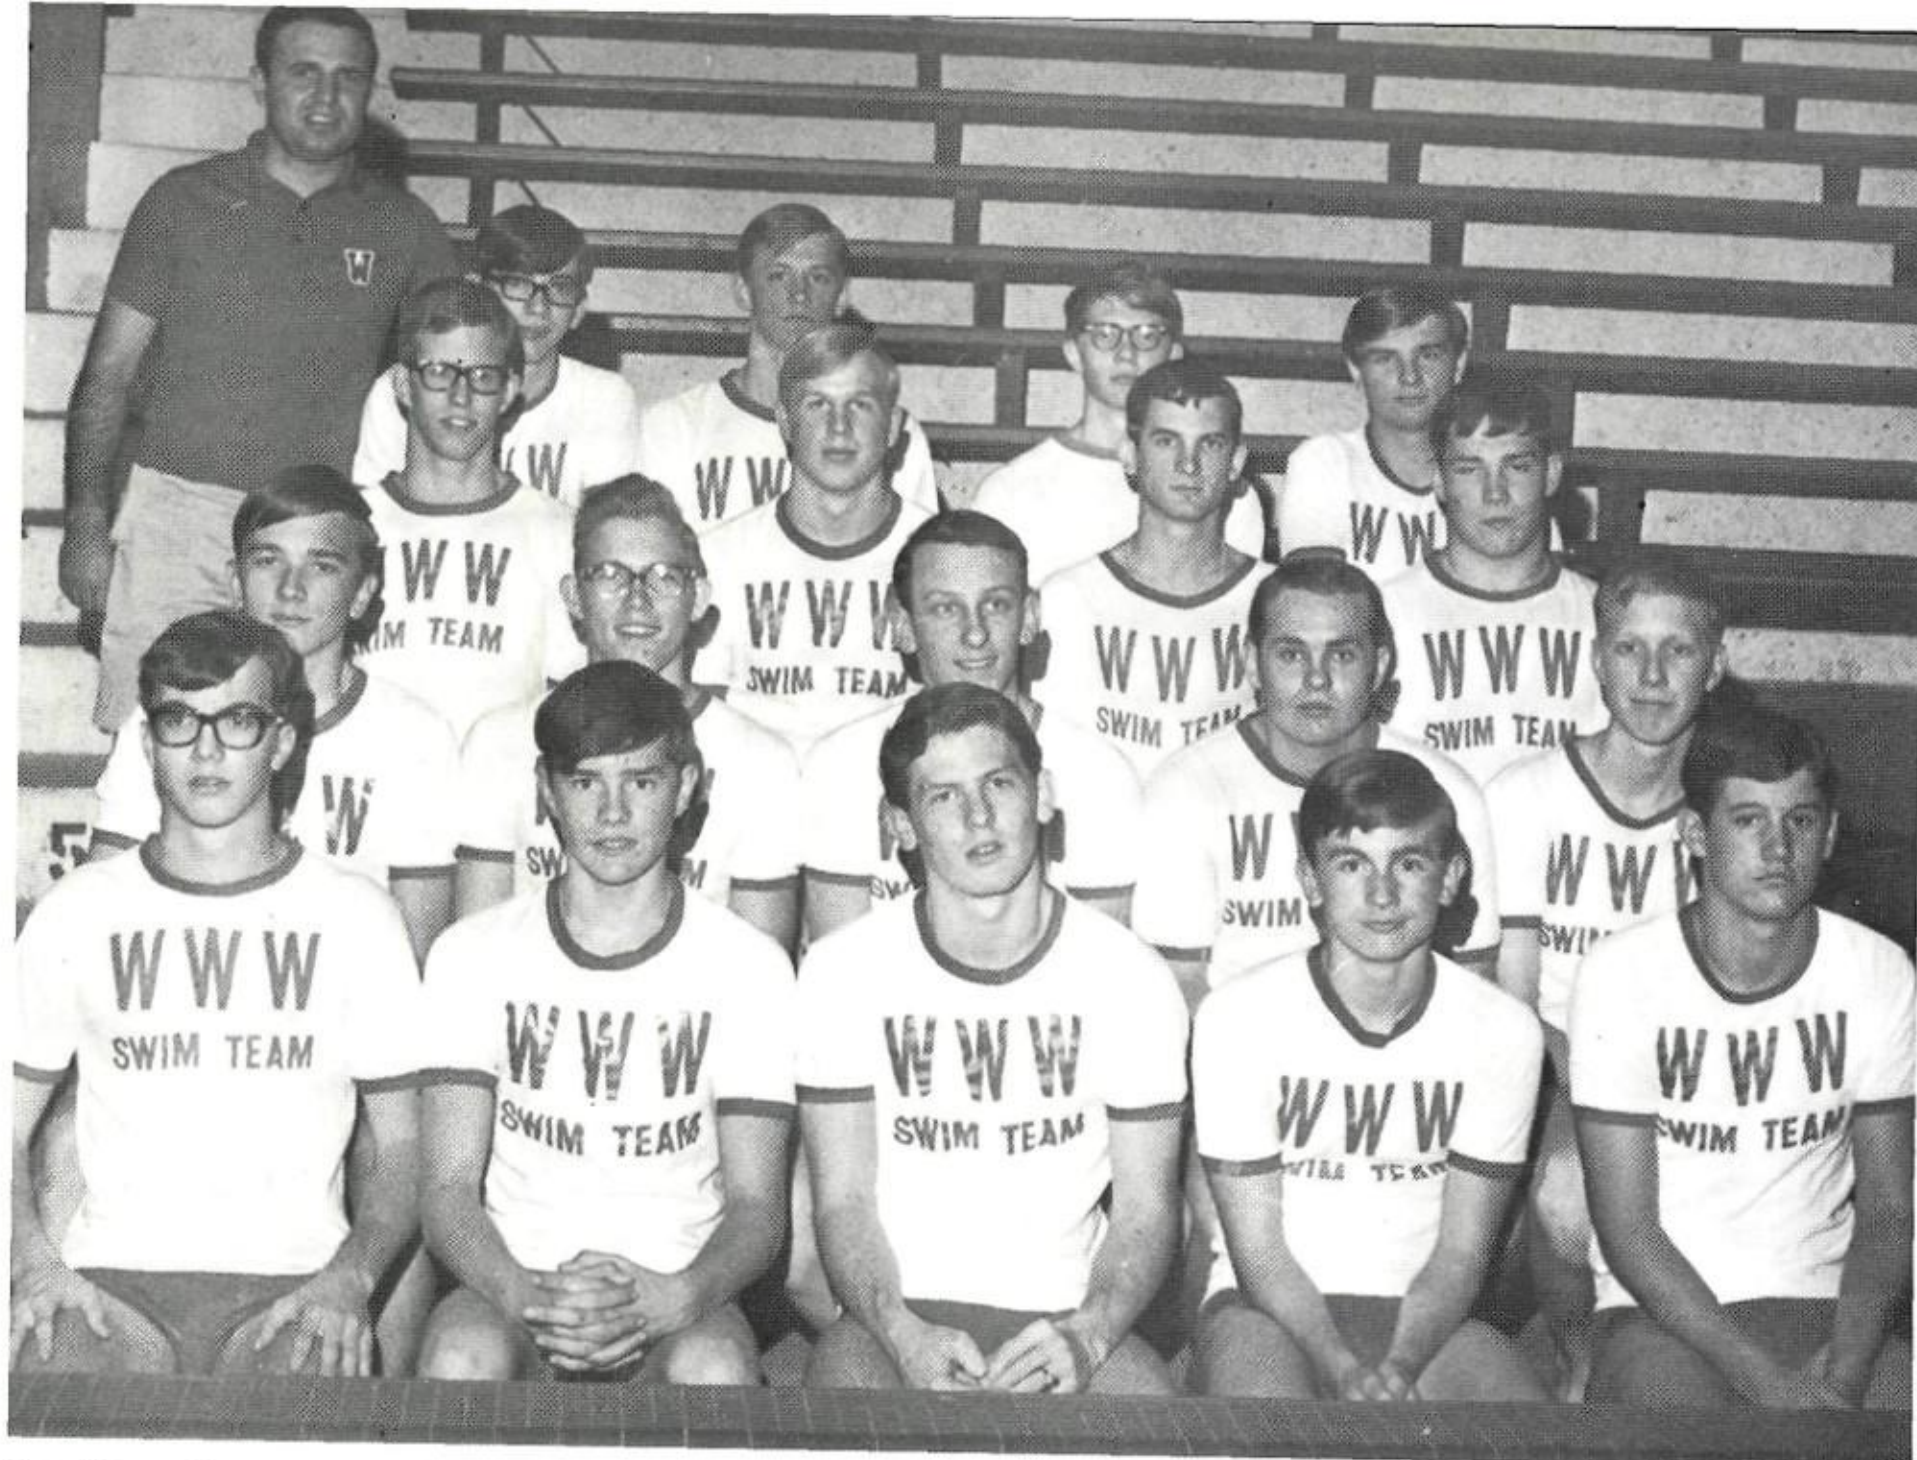

Boys in the physical fitness program are required to perform as many sit-ups, push-ups, and pull-ups as possible, as well as run 600 yards against the clock. Directing this program and all boys' physical education classes, Mr. E. Hill has a herculean task.

The classes usually begin with a couple of minutes of calisthenics, then the boys are ready to participate in various games, such as volleyball, basketball, or football.

Some of the boys go outside, even in the cold, to play football.

Wildcat Swimmers Hope For Sever

The Woodrow Wilson swimming team began its third season at the beginning of this year, the second year for coach Bob Green. They practiced diligently to obtain perfection in their respective events. They usually practiced nights from nine till ten o'clock at the Southern Methodist University Natatorium. Coach Green, with coaches from other schools, helped to schedule and operate the meets.

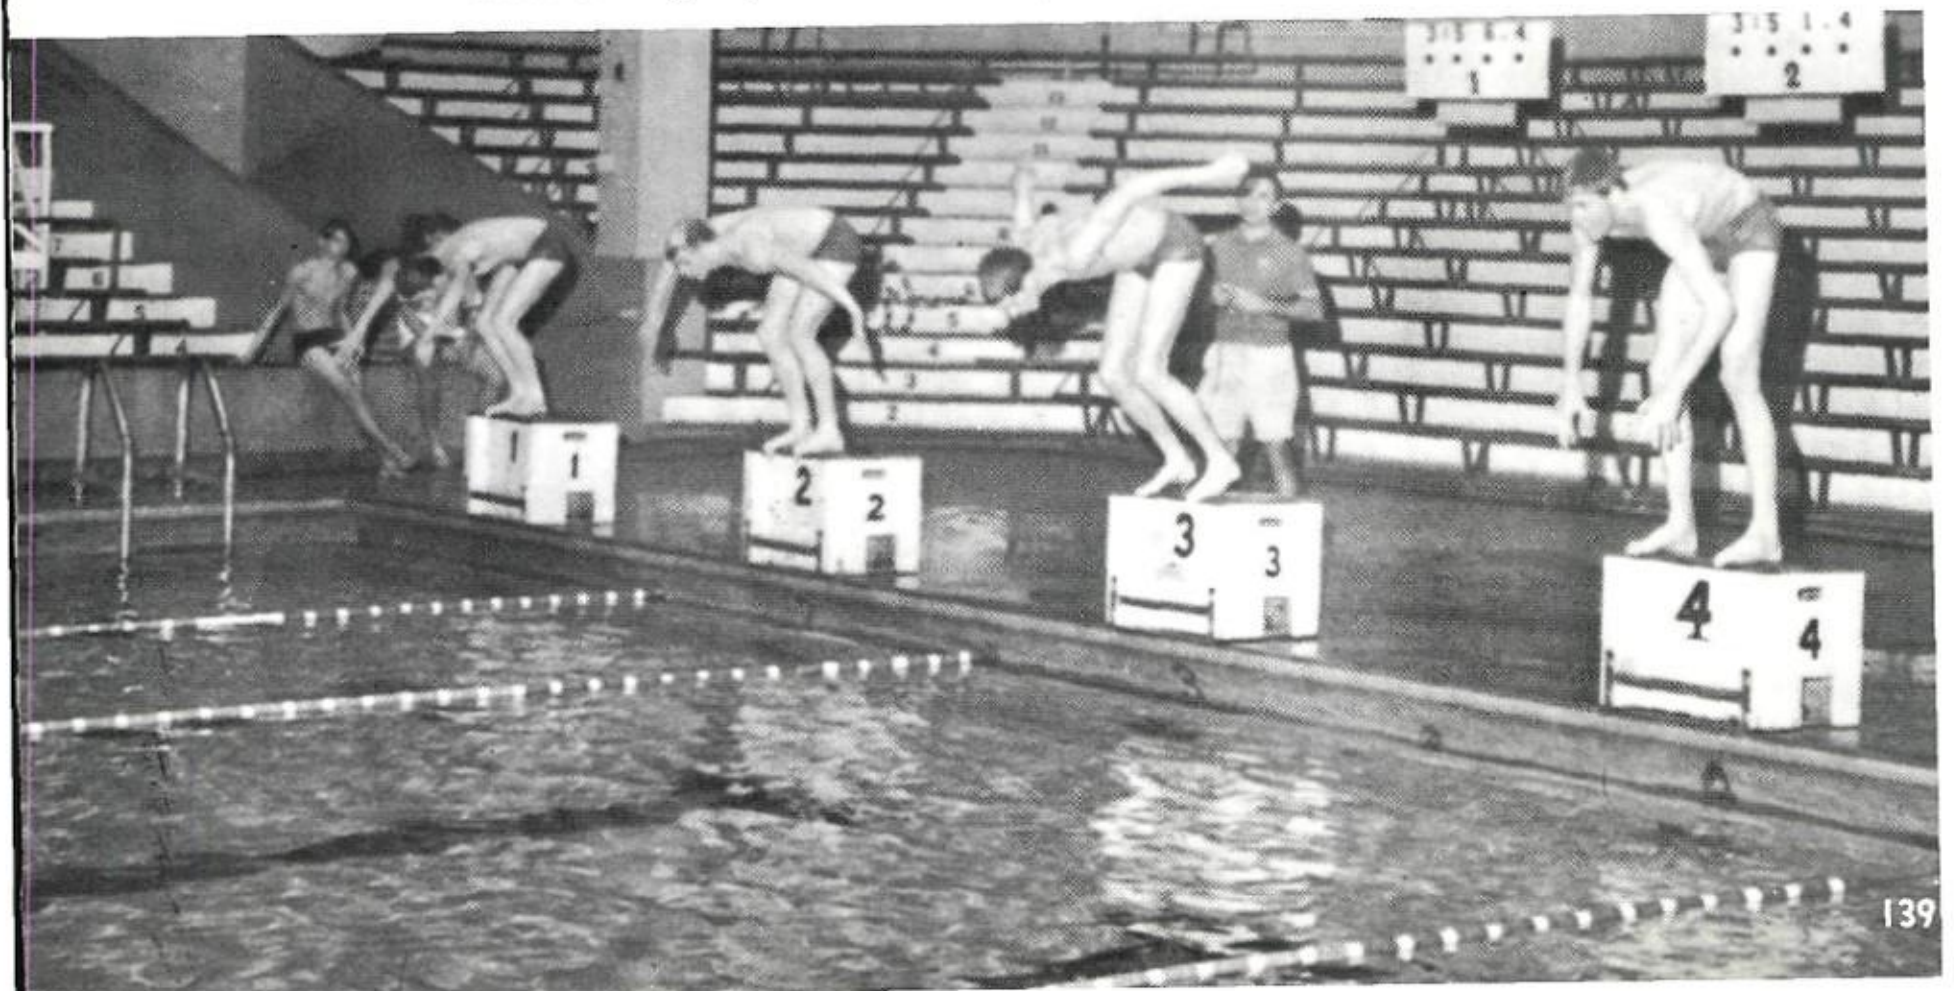

As the CRUSADER went to press, the team had hopes of winning several events in the city meet, March 8 and 9. Some of the outstanding swimmers on the team are Jay Settle, Duncan Robinson, and Neil Phillips.

Tennis Team Successful Under Hill

The Wildcat netters this year, under the coaching of Emmett Hill, showed great improvement over the past years in their performances. This was achieved, naturally, through disciplined practice of techniques. Every day at sixth period, the team went to the Samuell Park courts to work out. If the weather was too bad for outside practice, they would play "table" tennis or basketball in the park recreation building.

The team showed early victories in '67. October 28 and 29 proved successful for returning letterman Bobby Jameson. He took the Boys'-16-and-under singles competition in the state open tournament at Samuell-Grand tennis center. In the same tourney, senior Dixie Mabe teamed up with a player from Wichita Falls to win the doubles match 6-0, 6-2.

Coach Jack Stevenson held high hopes of winning back the city championship for Woodrow in golf as the CRUSADER went to the publisher. The Wildcat golfers of '64 and '65 held this crown. Indeed, there was good evidence of a great season. Several of the linksters showed their ability to shoot in the seventies. The team finished fifth in district last year.

The top four golfers were Rodney Allen, Don Terry, Ricky Kadane, and Steve Tipton, whose individual performances, as well as effective team play, show marked finesse. Last year, Rodney Allen was the Dallas Times Herald Tournament Champion and would like to repeat this year. Coach Stevenson's expectations are great for his 1968 team.

Baseballers Win First

Shortly after mid-term, as the frost was still on the pumpkin, the Wildcat baseball team began practice at Randall Park across from the school. In his third season as head varsity baseball coach for Woodrow, Coach Dwain Dawson prepared his team for the upcoming season after a long period of dormancy. Much emphasis was placed on speed and endurance. Devices such as the "Exer-Genie" machine and a fifty pound lead weighted jacket, worn by players while running, were used. While the pitchers were exercising, their job was taken over by an electric pitching machine.

There was some lack of experience, Ken Kuesel and Ronnie Caddell being the only returning lettermen. The whole team showed much spirit and a desire to win. With pitcher Dennis Kirkpatrick starting, the Wildcat sluggers defeated last year's City Champions, Kimball, by a score of 2-0. As the CRUSADER approached its deadline, this was the only game played.

Manager Bud Luecke confers with Coach Byars about the practice schedule.

The "Big Red" track and field team showed much speed and strength this year. They diligently practiced every day to achieve success in their respective events. Under the excellent coaching of head coach Don Byars, the track team of 1968 is quite capable of placing high in Interscholastic League meets, as they have done in the past. Junior great Sergio Nava won the City title in the 100-yard dash last year with a time of 9.7 seconds. Sergio was a member of both the 440 and the mile relay teams and won seven other awards in 1967. Returning seniors are Roy Norman, Jay Settle, Larry Karl, and Dennis Ferguson.

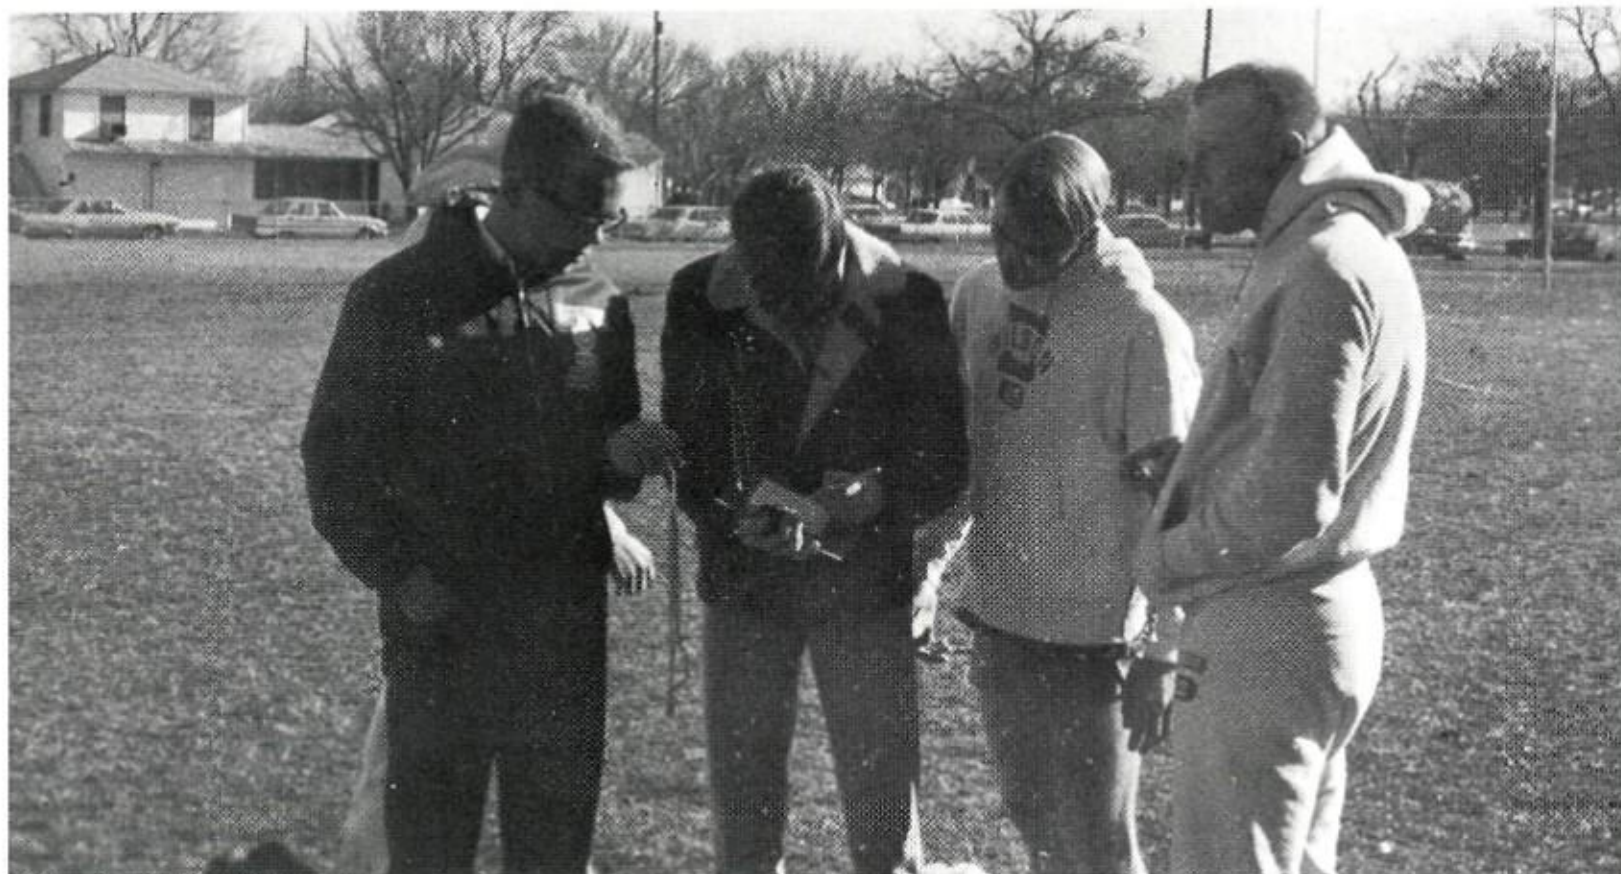

At meets, individual medals and trophies are awarded to give the cindermen an extra incentive. Also the winning coach is given the stopwatch. Coach Byars says that there is a great sophomore potential as well as several returning juniors who are lettermen.

Enthusiastic describes this year's Student Council. Each year the council increased its services to the school. This year there were ten more council members because of the increase in school enrollment.

Throughout the year the council never ceased to promote higher ideals of sportsmanship, school spirit, and establishing a closer relationship between the student body and faculty.

Under the capable hand of their sponsor, Miss Mattie Dell Webb, the council assisted in the operation of many important activities: sophomore orientation, the student directory, American Field Service assembly, College Night, Homecoming, and Commencement.

The Student Council members exhibit loyalty, pride, and a willingness to do their best in all activities. They are chosen by their homerooms each semester.

Key Club Spreads Yuletide Cheer

Activities such as musicals and homecoming would be dry indeed, were it not for the Key Club's familiar soft drink and candy stands. With the money earned from the sale of such items, the Key Club, sponsored by the East Dallas Kiwanis Club, finances its many community service projects.

This year's main service plans concerned recreation projects for the young men at the Gaston Avenue Marbridge House, a home for underprivileged boys. Members spent spare time playing football with these unfortunate boys, taking them to Dallas Chapparral's basketball games, and buying them Christmas gifts with one hundred dollars set aside for that purpose.

Dallas was fortunate to be the host of the Key Club Convention this year at the Statler Hilton Hotel. This was the Texas-Oklahoma regional convention, encompassing about 7,000 delegates. The high point on the Key Club's agenda was their spring assembly at which the eminent physician Dr. Allison spoke to the student body on the topic of smoking.

In thinking of the Key Club, the most appropriate descriptive word is, without a doubt, service. For, being helpful whenever and wherever needed is the goal of this group of ambitious young men.

Each spring, Key Club members, like Marty Glass, Kevin Malone, Larry Good, and Bobby Campbell repaint the parking stripes in front of the school. Some paint, others supervise.

A trampoline adds a few extra laughs to the Key Club Christmas party, particularly when Bennie Loggins tries a Karate chop on James Shepelwich and David Northcutt.

Seventy-One Distinguished Student

Marena Raynor, Bob Brown, and Nancy Pollard congratulate one another after the announcement of the new Honor Society inductees.

"To give honor and recognition to students who have attained high standards of character, scholarship, leadership, and service" is the aim of the National Honor Society. It is because of these requirements that only twelve per cent of the seniors and three per cent of the juniors are inducted each year. Last year fifteen juniors were inducted, and fifty-four seniors. Fifty-four seniors and seventeen juniors were chosen this year.

Highlights of this year's activities were the dinner for the two-year members in December, the induction of new members from the juniors and senior classes, and the annual picnic in May. The assembly for the induction of the new members, presented by the two-year members and their sponsor, Miss Katharine Norman, took place February 26. The inductees were presented a gold miniature of the society's emblem during the assembly and, afterwards were honored at a reception in the school lunch room sponsored by the Parent-Teacher Association for the new members and their parents.

This year the National Honor Society sponsored the sale of red and gray spirit ribbons for auto antennas and made possible plans for starting a scholarship fund to be continued and used in later years.

Invest, Innovate, Improve — Theme For F.T.A.

Progress is the focus in Future Teachers of America's eyes—all three of them. The three "I's"—Invest, Innovate, and Improve—constituted the theme for this year's FTA program. This theme was chosen by the state and district programs as well as the topic for the annual speaking contest. The sponsors who helped guide and encourage this theme in the club are Mrs. Wilhelmina Blevins and Mrs. Judith Pickering.

The membership of the R. L. Thornton (Woodrow) Chapter of FTA this year rose to 183. This large group was divided into hard-working committees, including membership, scrapbook, constitution, convention, project, and hospitality committees.

Future Teachers of America is open not only to those who plan a teaching career, but to everyone who would like to be more fully acquainted with the workings of the school. Woodrow Wilson Future Teachers learned much in these areas this year. They assisted with Open House in the fall, and went to David Crockett elementary school to help enroll youngsters there. They made Christmas decorations for the school cafeteria and gave Woodrow Teachers red paper hearts with red pens for Valentine's Day.

The FTA was active at the district and state conventions also. They entered a candidate for treasurer in the district convention, and at the state convention they received a trophy for their excellent scrapbook.

Entertaining Underprivileged Children

Captain Cormack, of the Salvation Army, gives Y-Teens some ideas for future projects.

Woodrow Wilson boasted several service clubs last year. Among those clubs was Y-Teens. The membership card each girl received stated that the purpose is "To build a fellowship of women and girl devoted to the task of realizing in our common life those ideals of personal and social living to which we are committed by our faith as Christians."

Y-Teens was under the guidance of the Young Womens' Christians Associations as it has been each member to help others that are less fortunate. The girls worked under the leadership of Captain Cormack of the Salvation Army for several months, taking seven, eight, and nine year-olds on an Easter egg hunt and to the zoo. At Christmas time, carols were sung at Pleasant Manor Nursing Home. According to tradition, the members met at Kip's Restaurant for one of their meetings. Instead of the usual breakfast, this year the girls ate dinner together. Several parties were also held for the enjoyment of all. The year went well and the projects were considered very worthwhile.

Science Club Member

Have you ever had ptomaine poisoning, or perhaps found lead arsenate in your spinach? No? Well, then, you can thank the Pure Food and Drug Administration laboratories for that. It is their task to test every food and drug product vendable to the public for harmful bacterial or chemical properties. On their field trip to the lab, the Science Club members were quite interested to find the great amount of elaborate apparatus necessary to analyze the eggs one eats every morning. In keeping with its aim to "inform students of the latest scientific developments", the club also visited the Southwest Center for Advanced Studies, the only research center of its kind in this part of the country. Already the center has attracted many of the nation's great scientific minds to the Dallas-Richardson area. Besides field trips, the club members also had guest speakers at their meetings lecturing on such topics as "College Study in Science", "Advancements in Communications", and "The Optical Maser."

Thomas Jefferson's exchange student, from Sweden joins Freddy Gerstl in a meeting in which they discussed their homelands.

Alice Sooby receives a radio as a prize for having sold the most Halloween candy for the International Club.

Every second Wednesday of each month in Hall I meets "a service organization which, as an affiliate of American Field Service, is responsible for helping the Woodrow foreign exchange students to find their experiences meaningful in "Woodrow Wilson and in America." This club also promotes ideas of good international relations throughout the entire school.

For this club Halloween brought a money-raising effort in the sale of candy which was quickly followed by the sale of American Field Service Christmas cards. In the spring the students were confronted with the sale of AFS stock which gave each Wildcat a chance to buy a share of international friendship. The money raised on this project was used for the exchange students expenses. This year the club has truly done its best to make America the exchange students' second home.

Marena Raynor, Australia, and Freddy Gerstl, Venezuela, stand in front of their adopted school, Woodrow Wilson.

This year Woodrow was privileged to receive two of the most enthusiastic foreign exchange students to come to the school from abroad. Marena Raynor of Australia and Alfredo "Freddy" Gerstl of Venezuela.

Freddy journeyed from his country's capital, Caracas, to live with the Ray Goodson's and their son, Jimmy. He especially enjoyed the pep assemblies, and in his spare time, he participated in cross-country motorcycling, water-skiing, golf, and ping pong. He will return to Venezuela to enter college and become an Industrial Engineer.

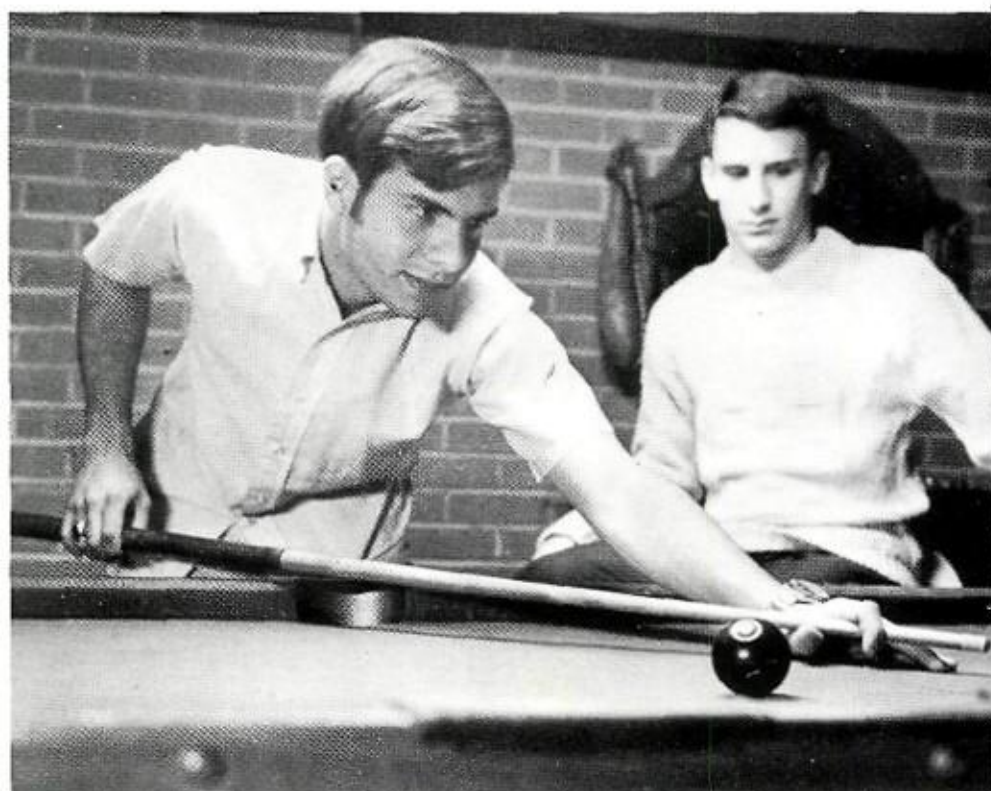

Marena Raynor came from Kogarah, Australia, a suburb of Sydney, to live with Francis Dunlap. Marena's spare moments were filled with hobbies that included music, ballet, drama, swimming, and partying. Marena was the first foreign exchange student in three years who marched with the drill team at all games. She will have to attend another year of high school when she returns to her home, since work done on AFS Scholarships do not satisfy her school's requirements for graduation.

Language Lab Requires Efficient Operation

With having a language lab in this school comes the responsibility of finding capable students to assist in the smooth operation of the laboratory. Jimmy Blain and Lester Collins headed these members, who forfeited many of their free periods to help solve the problems which were encountered by teachers or pupils. By taking a required course on the operation and maintenance, given by the Dallas Independent School District, the lab assistants insured the school that the expensive, sensitive equipment was kept in the best condition possible. Miss Mabel Turman, lab director, supervised the lab assistants in scheduled periods to use the lab at the teachers' convenience.

Diligently shelving books and running call slips, the assistants saved precious time for the librarians. Two members of the council served each period. Extra duties were seeing that each study hall teacher received the library permits brought in by her pupils and stamping new books with the notation "Woodrow Wilson Library."

Marva Polly proceeds to deliver a yellow library slip.

Projectionists under their new sponsor Mr. Winston Hoskins showed hundreds of feet of celluloid weekly last year. These volunteers acted in their capacities as "guardians of the V.E. room" during spare time from their study halls, which must, in retrospect to them, seem dull indeed, compared to the varied educational experiences they received while showing movies and displaying filmstrips and slides.

A typical day's schedule might have included showing films clarifying a difficult point of Spanish grammar, bringing to life a scene from English History, depicting in animated art a principle of nuclear fission or abstract Algebra. But not only must the members of the Projectionists Club have a working knowledge in the mechanics of running the equipment, which ranges from sixteen-millimeter sound units to overhead projectors, but they must also be proficient in quickly correcting any of the threatening disastrous malfunctions which can and do occur. Club membership is open to any student with a study hall and a desire to be of service to the school.

Wayne Smith explains to Michele Wade the prismatic principle on which the overhead projector functions.

Baylor Tour Furnishes Experience

Former Woodrow Wilson student Mary Payne, now studying at T.W.U., discusses the levels of nursing at one of the club meetings.

President Mary McCormick, Vice-President Judy Miller, Secretary Mary Kay Faucett, and Chaplain Cindy Rice inspect some "tools of the trade" at Baylor Hospital.

A possible future surgeon, Larry Ridgeway, is instructed in the proper method of "scrubbing-up"; a basic skill of the utmost importance in any field of medicine.

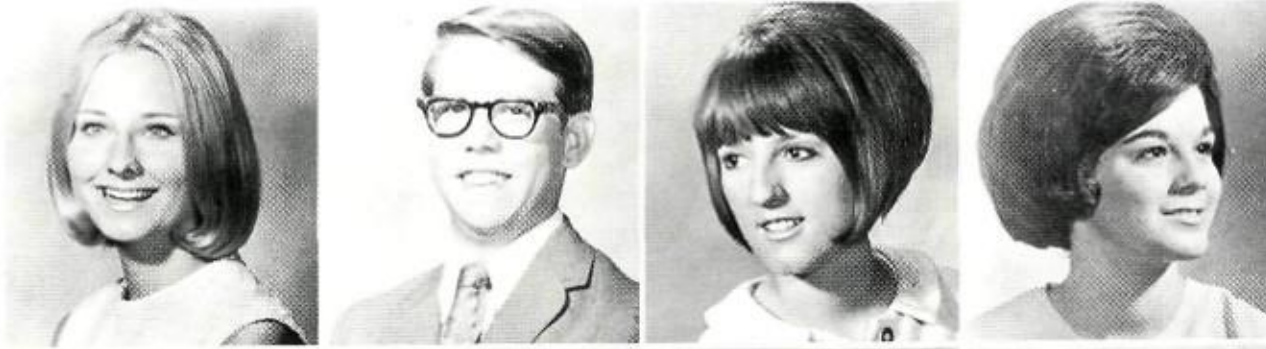

Now into its second year of existence the Medical Careers Club, formerly known as the Future Nurses, has a diversity of student interest within its membership. Anyone interested in any part of the medical profession is qualified for admittance. Guest speakers from jobs throughout the field of medicine were featured at the meetings on the second and fourth Tuesdays of every month to give the members as broad a sampling of their chosen field as possible.

There were also practical applications in the program schedule. The club visited Baylor Medical Center for a special tour of the complex in mid-December. In addition to this each student was assigned to a doctor or technician concerned with his special field of interest. For an entire morning the club members became the shadows of these men of the profession, following them as they fulfilled their hospital duties, and learning from them the human, unromanticized side of hospital work.

Mrs. Willie Mae Caldwell is the school club sponsor, and Mrs. William Johnson, the wife of a prominent Dallas physician, has charge of coordinating the programs and field trips for the group.

The Red Cross of Woodrow Wilson, sponsored by Miss Sarah Stovall, is always one of the busiest organizations at the school, and this year was no exception.

One of the most successful Red Cross projects was the sending of gift bags packed with entertaining and useful personal articles to the service men in Vietnam.

Another project which involved creative minds, time, and effort, was the decorating of Christmas stockings for children in local hospitals.

Other service efforts of the Red Cross included making Easter baskets, buying new toys for children who were disaster victims, providing volunteers for summer work, and accumulating and sending school supplies for underprivileged children overseas.

This year, in conjunction with some talented members of the speech department, the Red Cross presented a show at the Dallas Veterans Hospital.

Cheerleaders Allen Henderson, Randy Fife, Steve White, and Bob Latimer show spirit by decorating the goal post.

Linda Welch got an "A" for efforts like this at cheerleading school.

Judy Austin shows smile of approval for Randy Fife's "Tiger".

In the spring of 1967, eight enthusiastic juniors were excited and honored to learn they had been selected by the student body to cheer the Red and Grey Wildcat teams on to victory. Judy Austin, Linda Welch, Kay Kretchmar, Martha Latimer, Bob Latimer, Allen Henderson, Randy Fife, and Steve White were this year's perky eight.

In August, these bubbling cheerleaders worked long and hard hours at the SMU Cheerleading School to perfect their techniques of good cheerleading.

Not only did these tireless teens sell "booster" ribbons, decorate the goal posts and cars, but they were eager to encourage sportsmanship and preserve Woodrow's cherished traditions. By decorating the auditorium and displaying the red and gray banner before and during the game, the cheerleaders helped to inspire their Wildcat teams to fight.

Eager Cheerleaders Promot

A cheerleading job is not an easy one, they say. These eight received and concluded their responsibilities with pride and satisfaction and they will always be remembered as a part of the undying Woodrow Wilson spirit.

Judy Austin says, "Charge, Wildcats!"

"Up for the kickoff!" says Bob Latimer.

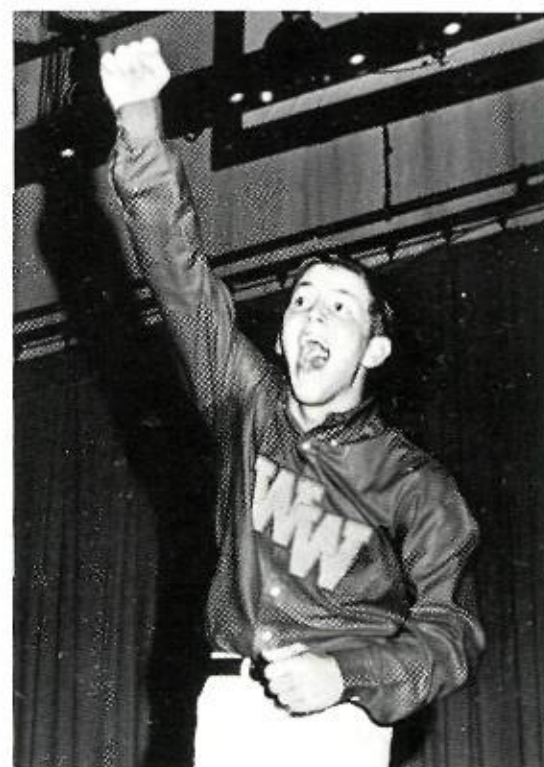

Cheerleaders demonstrate a new way to be "up" for the kickoff.

Martha Latimer practices her excellent "split jump" before a game.

Practice, Patience And Precision

A Sweetheart's day consists of the hard work of early morning practice.

The exacting precision of performing a "ripple".

The excitement of first marching on to the field . . .

And the pride at the end of a well-done routine.

This year's 1967-68 officers with sponsor Willadean Bless are lieutenants Nancy Nell Foster, Susan Hardwick, Nancy Battle, Mary Linda Winford, and captains Vicky Hamilton, Kay Jones, Michele Wade, and Carol Brinegar.

roduce Pretty Performance

A new life began for the new Sweethearts at the dramatic moment when the names of the lucky chosen ones were posted last March. From that moment on, exercising and precision were the order of the day in preparation for the first big performance, Spring Assembly, in May.

Every morning at 7:30 AM, while everyone else was still trying to get in a few more minutes of sleep, the Sweethearts were practicing at school, perfecting the precision of the routines. The reward of the perspiration and discipline was the thrill that came from the applause of the crowds at the football half-time performance.

The most enjoyable activity was on the night before the homecoming game when the Sweethearts decorated the football boys' homes.

The traditional red roses and whistles were presented to the new officers at the annual banquet on January 19, as a new year of Sweethearts began.

Woodrow Wilson Majorettes Lead

The assembly introducing the majorettes finds Head Majorette Dana Fullbright a sparkling and nimble-fingered twirler.

Optimistically, Carolyn Clark waits to catch her baton.

Janet Jordan gaily does a pert dance step to music.

The majorettes solemnly stand at attention for Woodrow's alma mater.

Much of summer practice was spent in learning marching techniques.

and With Precision Excellence

This year's Wildcat majorettes under the leadership of Dana Fullbright are Jill Thomas, Betty Black, Janet Jordan, and Carolyn Clark.

A twirl is smoothly executed by Betty Black

Jill Thomas smilingly performs a dance routine

In flashing sequins and petticoats, the twirlers this year entertained all in the half-time shows at the football games. Their smooth but lively routines were not accomplished without continuous drill. These five girls were required to attend Kilgore Tops-in-Twirling Camp for a week last summer in which they learned three advanced, and two super-advanced routines in four days. For three weeks preceding the opening of school they arrived on the school grounds at 7:30 and worked until 12 noon continuing this through football season. For the first time the majorettes entered the University Interscholastic League contest held in November at Richardson High School. The judges rated the contestants from one (excellent) to five (good), and group's two-baton routine earned them a grade of 2. Head Majorette, Dana Fullbright carried away a one on her solo performance.

The snow white costumed twirlers participated in two parades last year—one in Denton, the other in downtown Dallas. Marching and twirling continuously over several miles of streets, the majorettes admitted it was hard to walk the next day!

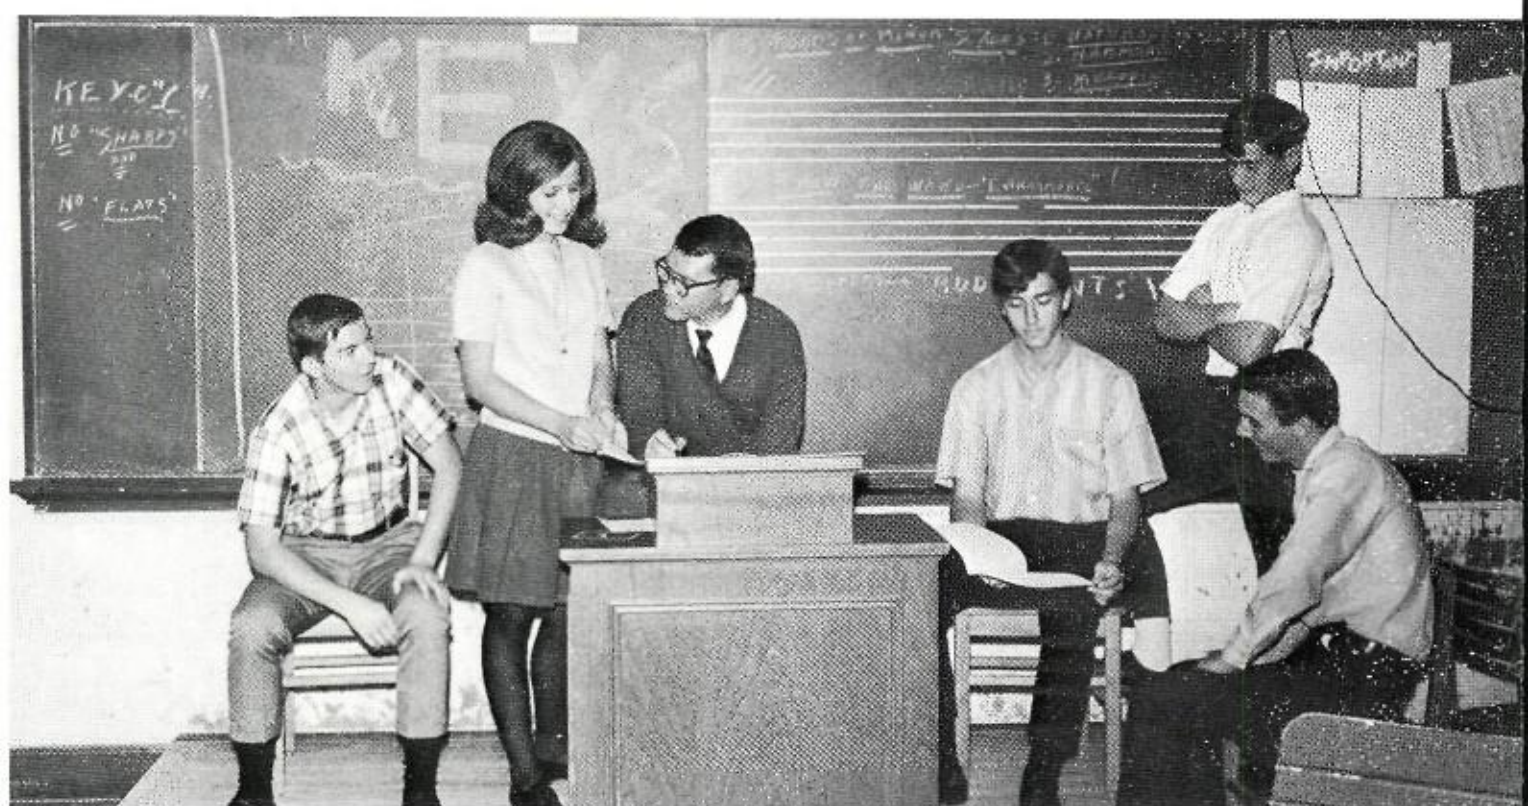

Dana Fullbright checks to see that routines are performed identically.

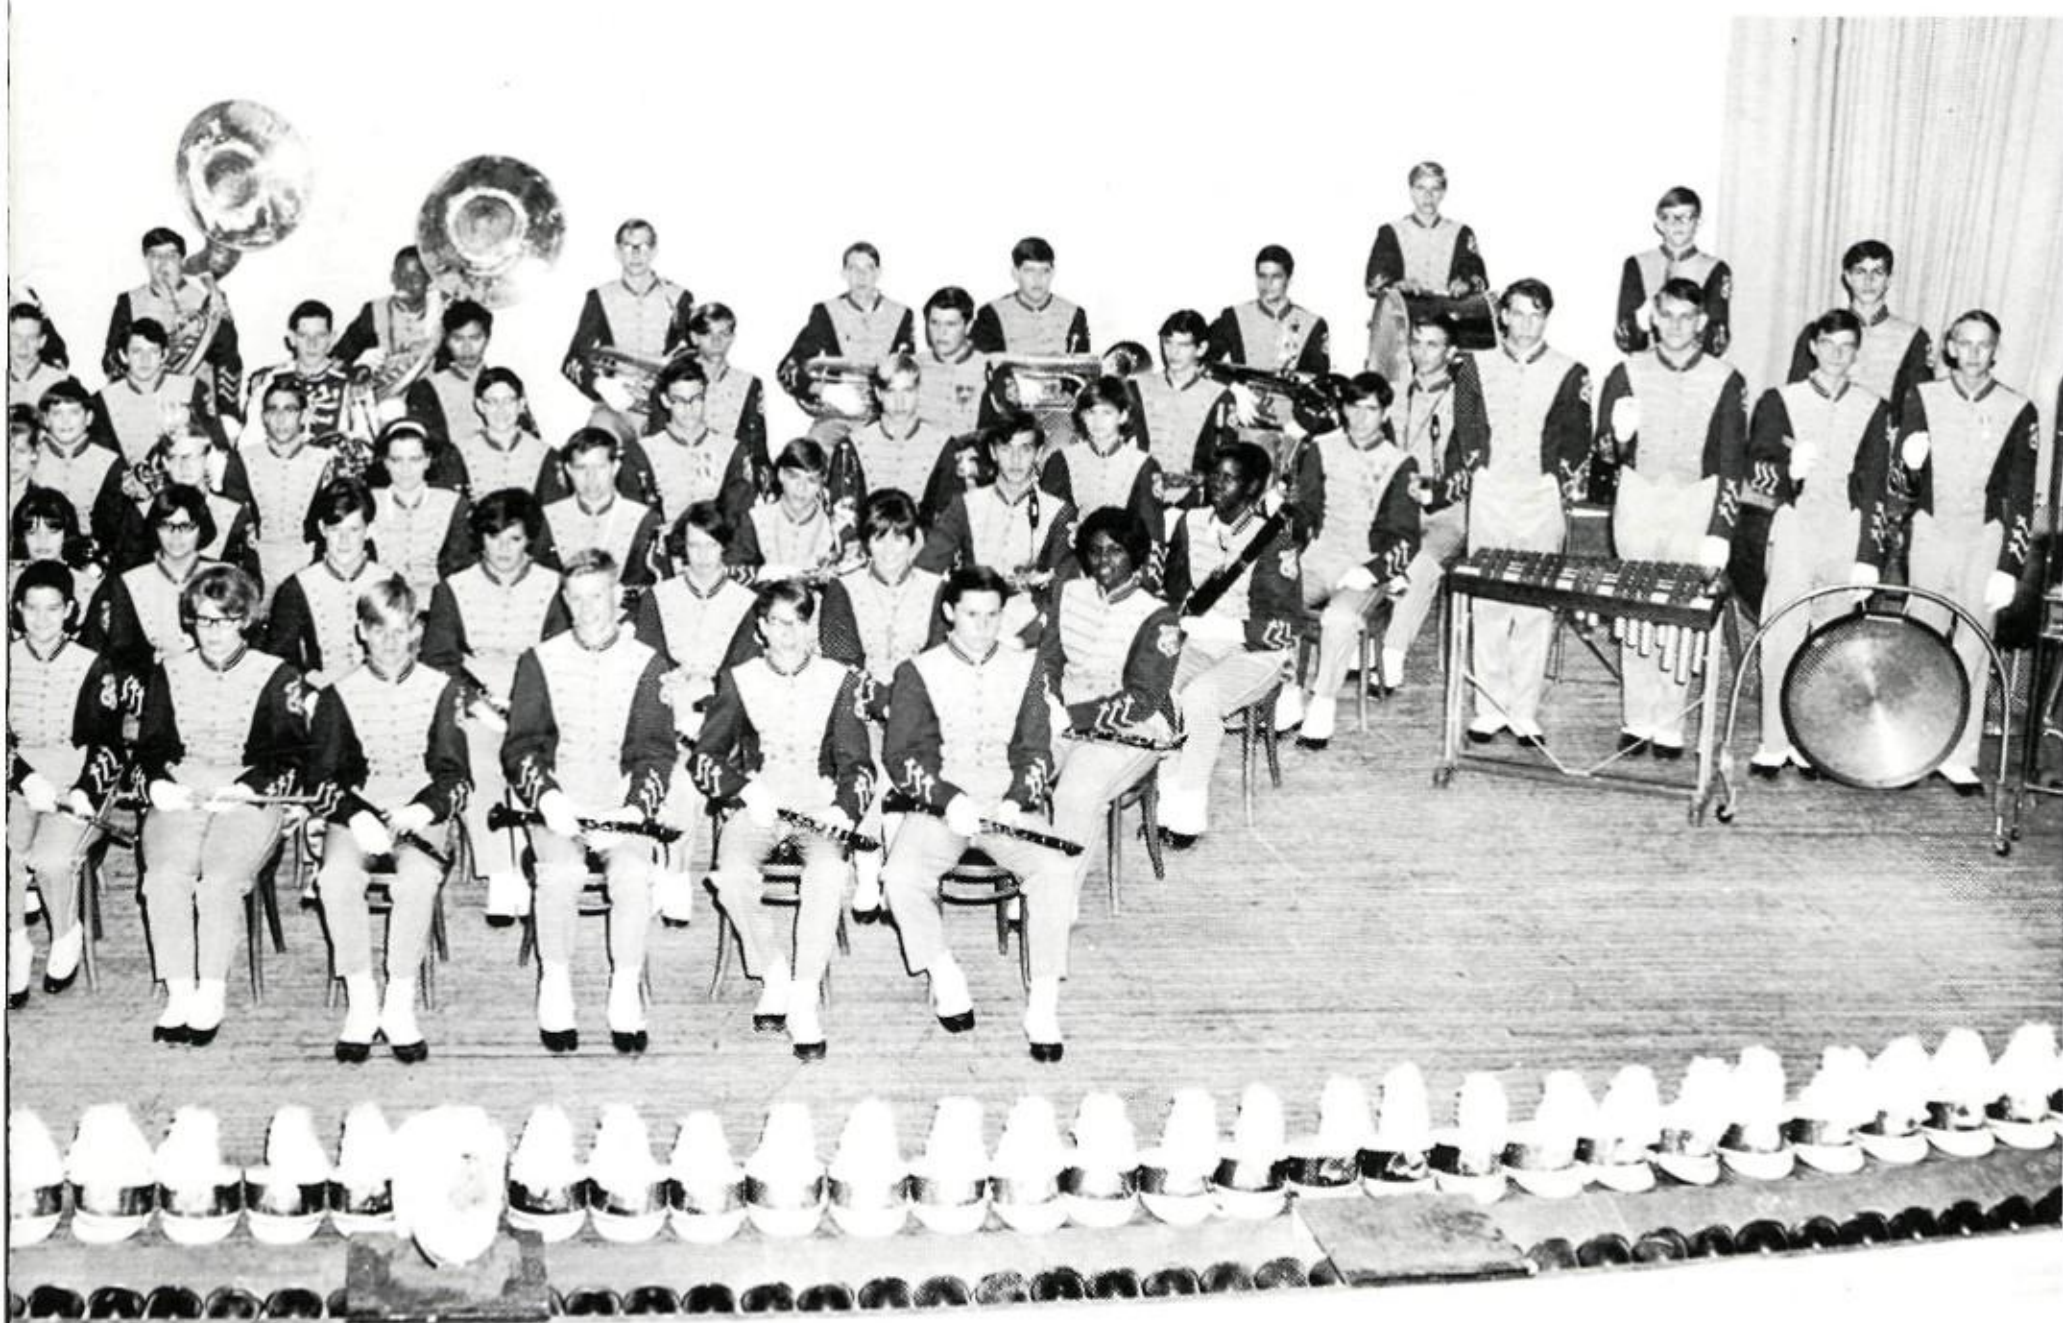

Band director Jay Richey demonstrates that the best sound from a band depends greatly upon the director.

New Band

Officers of the band confer with ever-on-the-go Mr. Richey introducing ideas for continuous improvement of the band organization. They are: Vice-president Robert Ellis; Secretary, Mary Nichols; Senior representative, John Vandertholen; Junior representative, Ted Moffit; Sophomore representative, Gregory Pierce.

The complete red and grey uniformed band, sits in concert formation.

Marches 6 to 5

A new method of marching was introduced by Mr. Jay Richey in his first year as director of the Woodrow Wilson Band. The Band learned to take six steps to every five yards instead of the former eight steps. This "six-to-five", as experienced marchers called it, improved the execution of the half-time shows to a great degree. It is believed by Wildcat band members that never in recent years has the musical organization worked so hard and so long as this one. Spectators observing the band often agree with this evaluation and were delighted with the way the drilling has paid off. For three weeks preceding school opening the band members arrived at seven-thirty in the morning and worked constantly till 12 noon, alternately playing and marching, in an attempt to get as near to the director's standard's of perfection as possible. Never lax throughout the entire year, the band continued to meet at seven-thirty A.M. during both football and concert seasons, and on Monday evenings from 6:30 to 8:00.

Scales, scales, scales! This was a magic word of Mr. Richey's during the concert season. No matter what the instrument, a band member practiced faithfully on scales of all kinds to keep in good standing with his director. Here the band goes over a few drills together for tuning and warming up.

Under the new direction of Mr. Franklin Washburn the orchestra perfected the music for the musical.

Woodrow has much to be proud of in respect to its small but talented orchestra. It consists of seventeen members, many of whom plan to further their studies in music while attending college. Six of these seventeen were chosen to participate in the Dal-Hi Symphony, an all-city high school orchestra for Dallas.

This year the orchestra presented two performances of the Schubert Mass in G in December with the Woodrow Wilson concert choir, once for the student body and once for the Parent Teacher's Association. The orchestra also participated in the String Unison Solo Concert on April 6 and the City-wide Orchestra Festival in May. As always the orchestra played for the school musical, "The Wizard of Oz", and won the acclaim of the packed-house audiences. Under the direction of Mr. Franklin Washburn, the new orchestra director, the orchestra spent many hours perfecting the music for the musical. Mr. Washburn taught in Dallas elementary schools for ten years before moving to the high school orchestra program.

The talents of Kathy Lincoln, first chair violinist, are recognized city-wide. Kathy is a member of the Dal-Hi Symphony.

Forty-five voices of the Concert Choir and thirty voices of the Girls Choir bound together by their mutual love for music, entertain their listeners with productions of serious, religious, popular, and classical compositions. Mr. Fred Marrett, director of these organizations, personally selects the most talented boys and girls to sing in these superior vocal groups.

Performing for the P.T.A. on December 14, and for the student body on December 23, Concert and Girls Choirs participated and displayed their perfected singing. This year the Girls Choir was requested to sing for the Dallas Women's Forum. They gave their performance on the night of December 20.

The Concert Choir's happy singing gave enjoyment to the Dallas Lions Club, in which they introduced a variety of songs, as always, well done.

These excellent vocal organizations possess a reservoir of talent from which the participants in the musical programs involving soloists were drawn.

Customs Weigh Heavily On Slaves

"Roma age Romani"—When in Rome, do as the Romans. When in Cursus Honorum . . .

On seeing several young students garbed in togas and sandals and greeting each other with "Salve!" and snatches of Latin, a person might doubt his own sanity, if not that of the characters he sees. Can it be an honest-to-goodness slave sale at Woodrow Wilson High School in 1968? And what is all this talk about a Roman Banquet?

"Pass that bunch of grapes, Claudius." "You're sitting on my toga!" The truth is that Latin does live today, and the annual slave sale and Roman banquet are some of the activities of Cursus Honorum which bring the ideas and language of the Romans closer to a modern experience.

The officers of Cursus Honorum, or "Path of Honor", a club for advanced Latin Students, bear the names of Roman government officials; Consul, Praetor, Scriba, Quaestor, and Aedile. During the meetings, ideas which perhaps were once debated on the steps of the Forum were renewed and discussed by the members and sponsor Miss Katherine Norman. The universalities that have existed in all culture help students to realize the relationship between Ancient Rome and modern society.

These students will perhaps someday look back on the "Good old days" when an advanced Latin student could always enslave an underclassman to carry his books!

Slave Charles Sutton listens with interest as Jeff Newman directs the bidding at the annual Latin slave sale. "Do I hear a quarter?"

Gathered around a poster depicting Aeneas' descent into Hades are: Janet Jackson, Gary Okeson, Nancy Pollard, Consul, Mike Brady, Marsha Wilfong, Chris Mantzur-anis, Cheryl Burkhalter, Susie Cox, Carol Cravens, Scriba and Reggie McMinn, Aedile.

French Club Displays Continental

"Entre Nous, or "Between Us", Woodrow Wilson's French Club, gives interested students the opportunity to study the customs, history and daily life of the French people. In both morning and afternoon meetings, those students in the club have been both informed and entertained with such programs as the different wines produced in France, French Christmas traditions and history, and marriage-family customs, to name a few. One of the highlights of Entre Nous was the program on French cuisine at which actual homemade French delicacies were served. These programs were planned and presented by students themselves. As a group, all the students enjoyed joining in and singing old or popular French folk songs. Among the most familiar were Sur le Pont d'Avignon and L'Alouette.

Cuisine was added to the agenda, which included the study of French operas, which proved to be a pleasurable and interesting experience.

The year was not without hilarity. A most amusing program was based on the book, The Complete Humorous Sketches of Mark Twain, in which Mark Twain retranslates into English his famous story, The Celebrated Jumping Frog of Calaveras County from the French translation.

The year ended with a patio restaurant at which French appetizers were served, to a few non-members. The proceeds were used to purchase a record player for the French Department.

"To encourage a respect for all nationalities in the Americas and a understanding of them based on a more thorough knowledge and appreciation of the peoples of all the countries of the Western Hemisphere, to encourage the learning of Spanish as a medium of communication, and to serve as an example of what can be accomplished by individuals of different ancestry working together." These are the goals of the Pan American Student Forum. All Spanish students with an interest in learning more about Latin American culture are welcome to join at the beginning of the year.

During the year Freddy Gerstl spoke to the club about his life in Caracas, Venezuela. At another program the members saw films on Peru. December brought about a Christmas party for the Elmer Scott Children's Center in Dallas, when the members of the club filled bags with candy and went to entertain the children. In April several members of the local chapter attended the state convention in Austin during Pan American Week. Through the guidance and leadership of the club sponsor Miss Mabel E. St. Nick Pays visit To DEUTSCHER VEREIN

What's the Unabhaengigkeitserklaerungen? If you were a member of Woodrow's newest club, Deutscher Verein, you would know it is the Declaration of Independence. The "German Club", as its name means, is sponsored by Miss Ellen Kinzie, who has the dual role of teaching mathematics and the first German class ever held at Woodrow Wilson.

One of the most joyous times of the year in Germany, and indeed, over all the Christian world, is, of course, Christmas. And in Germany, St. Nicklaus Day is a favorite among the kinder. It is on this day, December 6, that St. Nick brings the children the long awaited presents, if they deserve them. The Deutscher Verein celebrated St. Nicklaus Day with a party at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Elmar Andersohn, parents of Astrid Andersohn.

Active P.T.A. Behind The Scenes

Under the very capable leadership of Mrs. C. L. Bryant, the Woodrow Wilson PTA had a very successful year in 1967-68. The unalluring job of providing chaperones for the bus trip to the Longview football game was efficiently carried out with Mrs. Howard DeWitt in charge. Mrs. Lanham Higginbotham, Jr., had the responsibility of planning College Night on October 10. Representatives of twenty-four colleges presented information about their institutions to interested pupils and parents. Producing a successful Round-Up this year was Mrs. Charles Burkes, while more than one thousand parents were solicited by Mrs. Leon Farrow for donations of pies and cakes, candies and cookies. The two popular seniors elected for the honors of Round-Up King and Queen were Bob Latimer and Kay Kretchmar.

The members of the PTA executive board were, Back Row: Mrs. C. R. Watts, Mrs. Bruce Kilmer, Mrs. Robert Saunders, Mrs. Eldred Thomas. Second Row: Mrs. Ralph Littlejohn, Mrs. George Kuesel, Mrs. Lanham Higginbotham, Jr. Third Row: Mrs. George Phillips, Mrs. Howard DeWitt. Fourth Row: Mrs. R. J. Kirkpatrick, Mrs. Jack Langston, and Mrs. C. L. Bryant, President.

Faculty members were delighted with the Christmas coffee, given for them in the school lunch room by the Executive Board. Students elected for National Honor Society were honored at a reception for members and parents, after the NHS induction ceremony in February.

The Senior Mother selected this year was Mrs. Mercer Battle, who planned the graduation activities with the other senior parents.

Annual staff members take a well-earned break in their daily activity during sixth period.

This year the Crusader assembly was a "freakout!"

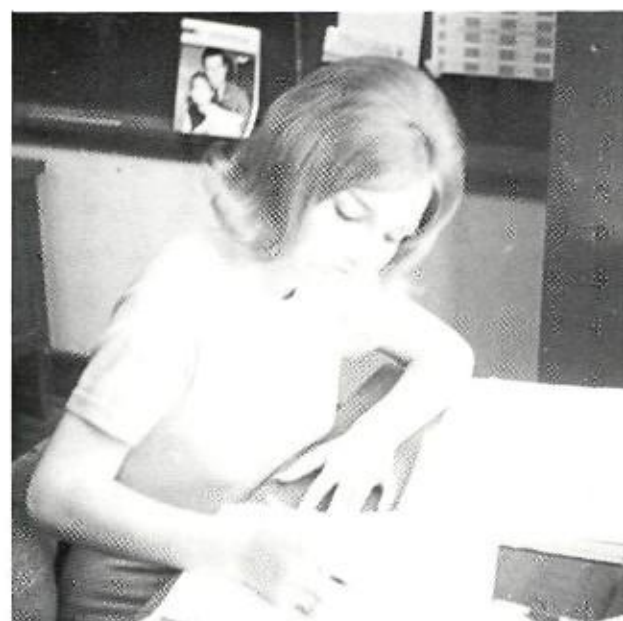

argest, Most Colorful Crusader Ever

Starting with training sessions last Spring ... continuing with meetings throughout the summer ... Juniors included on the staff for the first time ... attending the A&M workshop ... the staff made plans for a prize-winning yearbook (the largest Crusader ever).

Ideas were formed ... a theme adopted to express those ideas.

An all-color introduction ... pictures, pictures, and more pictures ... proof-reading and redoing all those triplicate copy sheets ... desperately fighting deadlines ... making tapes for our record ... having pictures taken at club meetings ... capturing teachers in action ... recording each victory ... and a few defeats ... negatives mysteriously disappearing ... typing fingers to the bone ... making picture appointments with the hardest to catch people ... hundreds of triplicates ... indexing, alphabetizing, filing ... long hours into the night ... every deadline a squeeze ... such were the component parts of the 1968 Crusader.

Faculty editor, Mary McCormick, works diligently for 68' Crusader.

Some of the days in annual can be very frustrating, especially when one has to decide on which pictures to use on a layout.

Sneaky Seniors Spill Shocking Secret

Mr. J. William Brown stands smiling with editor Marsha Wilfong, as editor Gary Okeson contemplates suicide.

Each year a select group of sneaky and larcenous seniors meet to put out that epitome of sarcastic sting known as the Senior Publication (sometimes knowingly referred to as the Pub.)

It is the responsibility of the "hard-working" seniors who make up the Pub Staff to combine their efforts and create a book of satiric wit and harmless dirt. The only condition placed on the Pub (other than the Faculty Censoring Committee) is that every senior's name must appear at least once.

Under the helpful supervision of Mr. J. William Brown, sponsor, the Woodrow Wilson Senior Publication was assembled in the lunchroom on Monday afternoons, after school. With final deadline for a cover and ninety-plus pages of material having been the first week in April, the editors, Marsha Wilfong and Gary Okeson, pushed their staff to the limit with help from Mr. Brown and their section heads, Mike Brady, Jane Hetherington, Jolynn Nelson, and Jeff Newman. The final outcome is revealed each year on Senior Day and received with mixed emotions.

Hence the following advice to future seniors: If you have any skeletons in your closet, bury them somewhere else; if you carry any love-letters, put a padlock on your purse; or if you must make a fool of yourself, do it at home, not in school, or you may end up as an integral part of Woodrow's Senior Publication.

Susie Cox expresses her forthright opinion of the material Jane Hetherington, Chairman of her committee is presenting. The others appear more diplomatic. They are: Frances Dunlap, Susie Cox, John Shepelwich, Kay Kretchmar, Alice Sooby, and Jane Hetherington.

Publish Pilfered Prizes In Senior Pub

Jolynn Nelson's committee prepares to brew up a zingy dish of satire and sharp comments. Lunchroom cooks beware. The members of this committee are: Nancy Pollard, Janet Jackson, Jolynn Nelson, Chris Mantzuranis, Mary Linda Winford, and Karen Adams.

Jeff Newman's committee strives for new heights in a pyramid made up of top—Jeff Newman, Nikki Heins, Reggie McMinn, Bill Allison, Jill Snider, and Jeff Hickey.

Mike Brady's and his committee stack up to get a birds-eye view of goings-on at Woodrow Wilson. Pictured are Jo Barnes, Nancy Foster, Terrie Lynn Walsh, Gary Gillean and Mike Brady.

Members of the newspaper staff take time out to discuss ideas for the upcoming issue of the paper.

The Woodrow Wilson News has come a long way this year under editor-in-chief Lanham Higginbotham and his associates. This is the verdict of many Wilsonites. The school newspaper received an All-Texas rating by the Texas High School Press Association at the convention in Denton, Texas. A delegation from the staff went to Austin on March 22, for a two-day stay during the Interscholastic League Press Conference.

This year the News adopted the offset process for the actual printing of the paper. The method has made it possible for more pictures to be used. Another improvement made was a large increase in sports coverage by Mark Goode, the sports editor. Each issue always had a minimum of eight pages, and occasionally there have been as many as twelve. Plans for the senior edition included from sixteen to twenty pages.

Although the staff writers were indispensable, Sponsor A. S. Johnston admitted that the majority of the work done on the newspaper this year was done by four dedicated boys' Lanham Higginbotham, Tom Phillips, Steve Schlather, and Mark Goode. They worked hard and did their best to make the Woodrow Wilson News something that everyone of us can be proud of, Mr. Johnston said.

Quill And Scroll Bolsters Perfection In Journalism

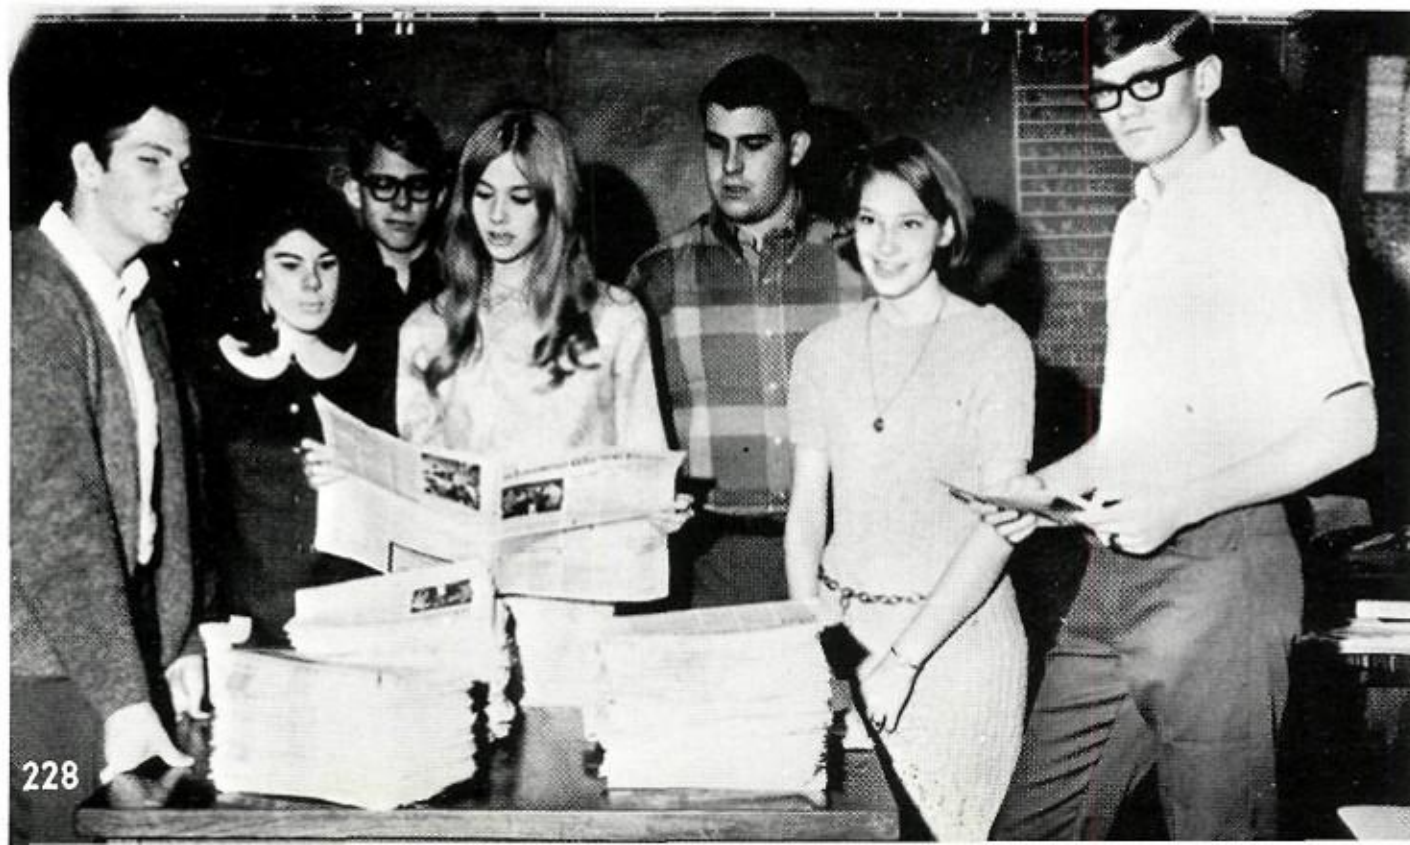

Quill and Scroll officers: Mike Brady, secretary-treasurer; Terrie Walsh, president; Gary Gillean vice-president.

One hundred column inches of printed material, a requisite for admission to the club, may sound like a great amount of work, but that much and more is accumulated by each member of Quill and Scroll. The young journalists must also receive a recommendation from the club sponsor, Mr. Albert Johnston, and have newspaper articles accepted by a national board. The requirements of this club limit its membership to about twelve persons. The primary aim of this organization is to set high standards for honors in journalism and to maintain high scholastic ratings.

Old members: Mark Goode, John Shepelwich, Lanham Higginbotham, Tom Phillips, Darlene Pierson, Mr. Albert Johnston-sponsor, Diana Herring.

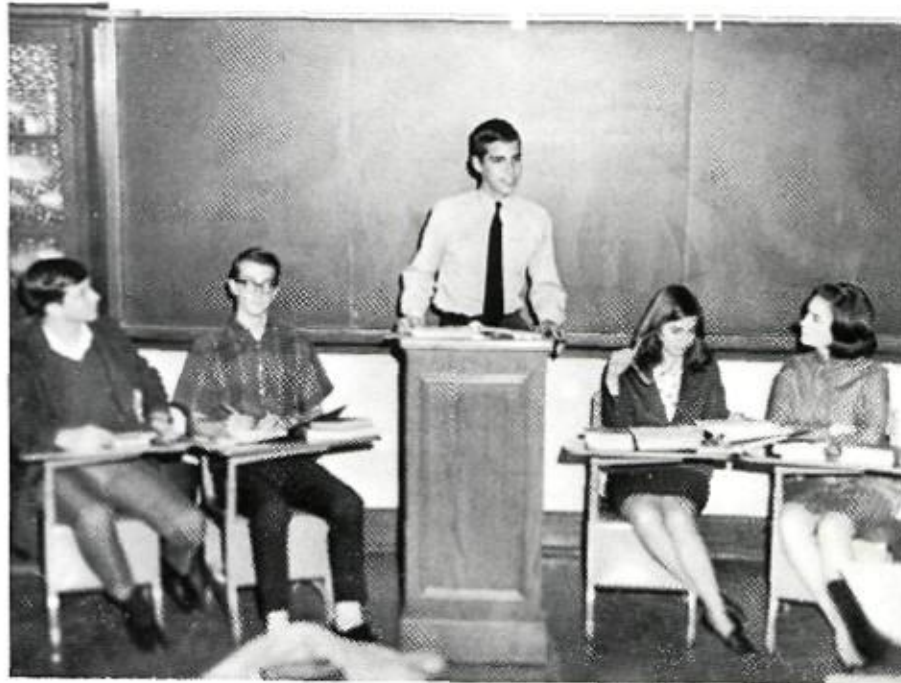

New members: Jeff Newman, Carolyn Keeter Steve Schlather, Edith Coldwell, Robert Cline, Rosie Everts, Bill Morris.

Debaters Sharpen Wit, Eloquence

Debater Bill Allison is instructed in some of the finer points of rhetoric by Miss Steele.

Debating at one of their weekly meetings are: Lane Lovvorn, Bill Allison, Tommy Linn, Marilyn Dailey, and Michele Erskine.

Though a small organization, the new Debate Club retained its loyal membership throughout the year by club in weekly debates and such activities as the November Denton Speech Tournament. Miss Marilyn Steele minored in drama and oratory at North Texas University and thus was a natural choice for the position of club sponsor. Her job was not easy as she refereed the Tuesday meetings when the words fell and the tempers rose.

Historical Society — On The Horizon Of The Present

There is an old saying: "To understand how to live in the future, we must study the past." This is the unifying aim of the Woodrow Wilson Historical Society and its sponsor, Mr. Doyle Smith. This year the society met on the second and fifth Thursday of each six weeks. They discussed points of the past that are relative to the present; primarily the history of Greater Dallas and the State of Texas.

This year's officers for the Historical Society were: Steve Schlather, vice president; Chris Mantzuranis, president and Stuart Stelzer, secretary.

ROTC Program Develops Respect

The ROTC program seeks to develop a sense of responsibility, respect for authority, and such qualities as integrity, loyalty, and discipline in order for the cadet to become a better citizen and, to give the student an opportunity to acquire basic military knowledge and skills that will serve him well throughout his life.

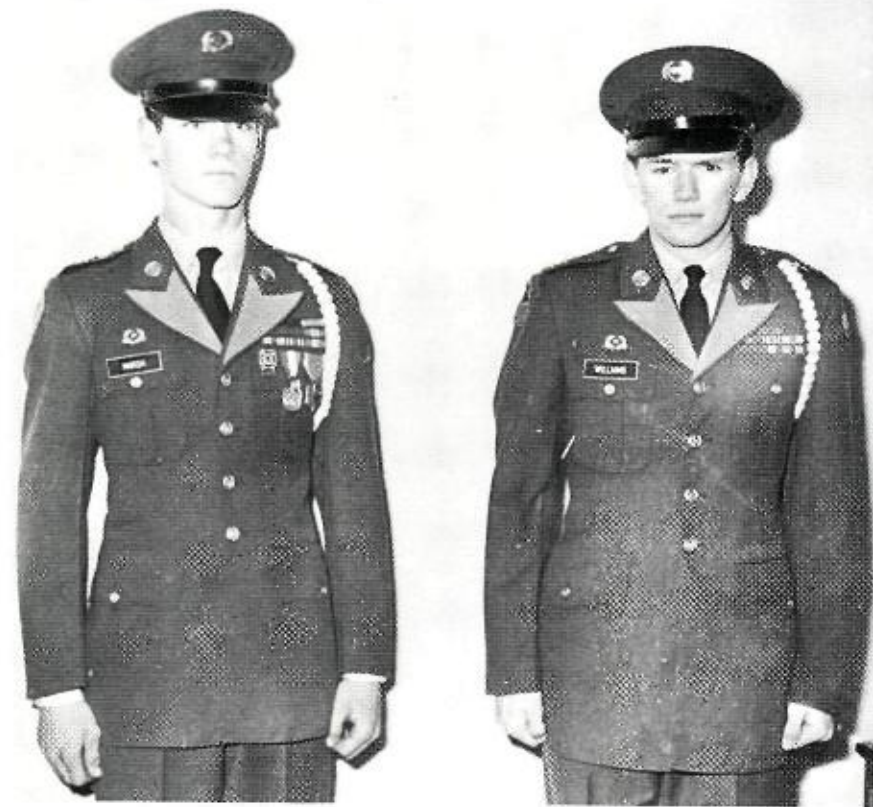

Colonel Schafer, Commandant of Cadets, was assisted by Sergeant Salisbury of the U.S. Army, who was new to Woodrow this year, having replaced Sergeant W. J. Ward, who retired at the close of last year. Learning general orders, how to march, the use of the M-1 Rifle, the manual of arms, marksmanship, personal hygiene, weapons and map reading composed the everyday routine for the 100 plus cadets. The climax of the training was the annual Federal Inspection by a Fourth-Army Headquarters officer in March.

J.C.T.C. Activities Include Safety

During Traffic Safety Week everyone noticed posters concerning irresponsible driving and heard safety slogans announced daily. These were reminders from the J.C.T.C. The Junior Citizens Traffic Commission is an organization 150 Woodrow Wilsonites whose purpose is to concern others with importance of safe driving. The J.C.T.C. this year undertook several projects concerning traffic safety. Included in its program was the Annual Safety Assembly in which the speaker Officer Jennings, told the student body of the new laws and regulations affecting the issuing of drivers licenses.

Sponsored by Coach James B. Bain, this club spent a busy year, having attended a safety conference at Southern Methodist University, participated at the Saturday morning Juvenile Court sessions, and having sponsored a teenage driving Road-e-o in the spring. Delegates from the club also attended a country-wide meeting and other safety conferences as they occurred.

The officers are Jay Settle, president; Harold Sides, vice-president; Celia Merrick, secretary; Gail Settle, reporter. This year has been more active than ever before.

Two things have come to a close – The 1967-1968 School Year and the pages of the 1968 Crusader. You may think to yourself, "This year is gone . . . the moments were in my fingertips and suddenly slipped through." But that isn't really true. It was a good year . . . a year of enthusiasm of all kinds. The Physical moments are gone, but the memories are alive and refreshed within the covers of this unpretentious book. You need only to flip through the pages to see a familiar face . . . the dance that was so much fun . . . the class that held your interest . . . the teacher that challenged your thoughts. In a sense this particular year is gone and the doors have at last closed on the class of 1968; but the same enthusiasm will soon be here again for summer practice and, before you know it, talk of football games, that impossible assignment, and weekend plans, will once again fill the halls. This is the joy of youthful enthusiasm, it goes on . . . and on . . . and on . . .

Editor's Message

Copy sheets covering my desk ... the incessant tapping of the typewriter ... the pressure of deadlines ... the continual nagging my staff had to withstand ... the hours and hours of work both day and night ... are all over now as we present the 1968 CRUSADER to you. Reflecting the events of the past year the CRUSADER has attempted to capture the enthusiasm of Woodrow Wilson. Now the last page has been sent to the printer. My job is finished. But I want to acknowledge the many people who helped put out the 1968 CRUSADER ...

ELIZABETH BLEVINS, Assistant Editor—who helped more than anyone else and was always willing to do extra work for others.

VICKY HAMILTON, Student Life—who made the annual fun sixth period despite all the work.

CAROL BRINEGAR, Student Life—whose talent made our CRUSADER assembly a success.

MICHELE WADE, Student Life—who never seemed to be working but always finished first.

JUDY SMITH, Faculty—who would tackle any assignment and see it through beautifully.

MARY MCCORMICK, Faculty—who did an excellent job.

GARY OKESON, Faculty—who besides his work on Faculty was a terrific help with the record.

JUDY AUSTIN, Athletics—who had perhaps the hardest job of all and yet never complained.

GARY MCDANIEL, Athletics—who put a lot of effort in making his section one of the best.

JILL THOMAS, Organizations—who put so much time and planning into each page.

JULIA CATES, Organizations—who was the most dependable person on the staff.

JIM STILES, Clubs—who I fussed at for not doing anything, but did a marvelous job in the end.

CONNIE GARLAND, Classes—who was always ready to learn and work.

JODY BAILEY, Classes—who worked tirelessly on Classes.

GAYLE PRICE, Classes—who even when under great pressure was the most organized person on the staff.

JOHN SHEPELWICH, Photographer—who we really couldn't have done without.

JUNIOR STAFF—who worked willingly and without complaint, picking up hints to try and make next year's annual as good as ours.

MR. ALLEN, Sponsor—who never ran out of patience and was always there to help, and who has spent twenty years of his life putting out CRUSADERS for us.

MR. RAMSEY, Representative from Taylor Publishing Co.—who was always ready to solve any problem.

KIRBY—who faithfully came to school for emergency pictures and worked for months on our club pictures.

TITCHES—who did such a beautiful job on our senior pictures.

W.W. NEWS—who gave us endless support.

MY PARENTS—who understood the time and energy I had to put into the CRUSADER and encouraged me more than anyone.

It has been a memorable and rewarding year. I hope that this book is among the best.

Melody Glamm:

I can never tell you how much your friendship means to me. I am so glad that we became such close friends. Camp is just great. I am so glad that you go to N.W. and not B.A. or some other school! We met at camp, and if I continue to go there, and your ^(mother) continues to ~~ask~~ ^{have} me back, I'll see you, otherwise -----, It's almost time to get out. It is 6th period of my very last day here. It is a very happy day in a way. In another way, it is sad. Just think about all the friends that I've made here, and I'm leaving and will probably never see them again. I'll miss ya' and all of my friends. You're a precious girl with a whole lot going for you. Good luck at N.W. and in the future. I hope that your Senior year is as good as mine has been. May God bless you.
